VOL. VII......NO. 1954. NEW-YORK, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1857. PRICE TWO CENTS.

IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON.

Passage of the Senate's Treasury Note Bill in the House.

Another Debate in the Senate on the Kansas Question.

The Nomination of Clifford to the Supreme Court—The Charges against the Late Clerk of the House—Resignation of Minister Mason, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Dec. 22.

The Senate had an Executive Session to-day, without resuming the consideration of the nomination of CLIFFORD to the Supreme Court. The Judiciary Committee have not yet decided it fit to be [illegible]. The President sent in a batch of Foreign appointments.

The Grand Jury of the District are investigating the charges against the late Clerk of the House, relative to the book business, and also relative to the purchase of furniture for the New Hall.

The President has received a letter from Mr. MASON resigning his position as American Minister at Paris. The resignation, however, is in a measure compulsory, as it is tendered in response to a very distinct intimation that it would be acceptable.

Mr. MASON embraces the opportunity to complain, with a good deal of feeling, of the treatment he receives at the hands of Mr. BUCHANAN. He alleges that his influence with the Virginia Delegation in the Cincinnati Convention was not only serviceable to Mr. BUCHANAN, but that he was promised in return for it as long a stay in France as possible, and then the transfer to some other position—a place on the Bench of the Supreme Court in case of a vacancy. These promises have been forgotten.

Mr. MASON's letter on this subject is long and sharp. S.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Dec. 22.

The President to-day nominated to the Senate Mr. HALL, Ex-Member of Congress from Iowa, for Chief-Justice of Nebraska, together with Messrs. [illegible], WATSON, MURPHY, ABELL and others, long ago appointed and heretofore announced for foreign missions.

The Committee on the Judiciary reported back in secret session, but without any recommendation, the President's nomination of THEODORE SEDGWICK to the District-Attorneyship, for the District of New-York, in place of JOHN MCKEON, removed. This gave rise to a discussion involving the merits of some of the features of the late New-York Mayoralty election. The question is not yet decided. Availing themselves of the Congressional holiday recess many members, particularly of the North, are making preparations to leave for home.

The War Department has received dispatches from Colonel LOOMIS, commanding in Florida, giving details of the army operations in capturing the Indians, destroying their depôts of supplies, &c. The hiding place of BILLY BOWLEGS has at last been found, and he has received a severe blow by the capture of his women and children. BILLY, it is said, has held a Council, and at the risk of his life entreated the Indians to come in, and only saves it by striking a blow whenever an opportunity occurs.

The Government is officially advised of the arrival in New-York, of two boxes of fire-arms, a present from Her Britannic Majesty's Government, in return for the arms sent thither in August last.

XXXVth CONGRESS......First Session.

SENATE.....WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Dec. 22.

Mr. WILSON introduced a bill to secure to actual settlers the alternate sections of the public lands reserved in the grants to the States for railroad purposes.

Mr. JOHNSON, of Tennessee, introduced a bill to grant every head of a family who is a citizen of the United States, a homestead of 160 acres of land, on condition of its occupancy and cultivation.

On motion of Mr. SLIDELL, a resolution was adopted requesting the President to communicate a record of the proceedings of the several Naval Courts of Inquiry.

On motion of Mr. SEWARD a resolution was adopted directing the Joint Committee on Printing to inquire and report whether any new provisions of law are necessary to secure the faithful performance of the existing contracts which provided for accurate reports of the debates in the two Houses.

Mr. FITCH said if the election took place in Kansas yesterday, Congressional action on the subject would soon be required—that is, assuming there were no frauds that would vitiate the election. He desired that the decision of the people of the Territory, whether to admit or exclude Slavery, should not be supposed to influence his opinions. Therefore he wished to speak on the subject in advance of any possible knowledge here of the character of the proceedings at that election. He would remark in advance, while he should feel bound to comment on some of the views expressed by Mr. DOUGLAS, he did not desire to read him out of the Democratic Party. But he would say, that a man might by his own voluntary act, either by promoting discord in the party, or by some other means, place himself beyond the pale of the party organization. He hardly thought that the old Democratic Party, as such, were put to the necessity of reading persons out of their organization. If, however, there were any men in the Democratic Party who wished to take a position outside the Party, or who attempted to foment discord in the Party, in return for some fancied grievance in time past, they would do well to remember the fate of every such attempt which had been made from the days of BURR to those of VAN BUREN. He was in favor of admitting Kansas with whatever Constitution she might present here, provided it was Republican in form. The Convention had power to submit the Constitution or withhold it, and were responsible only to the people of Kansas for the manner in which they had exercised that right. He desired to adopt the course productive of the least evil to the greatest number.

Mr. DOUGLAS, in reply said, according to his own showing, Mr. FITCH differed from the President on one point, and yet the Senator from Indiana had charged him with faction. If differing from the President was faction, that Senator had double the amount of faction with himself. He had not become the mere servile tool of any President, so as to feel himself bound to take every recommendation without examining to see whether it met his approbation or not. With regard to harmony in the Democratic Party, he had only to say, that if Democratic Senators and the President would stand by the Cincinnati platform, there would be harmony between them all and himself. He said, "Call it faction—call it what you please—I intend to stand by the Nebraska bill—to stand by the Cincinnati platform, to stand by the organization and principles of the Democratic Party, and I defy opposition from whatever quarter it may come." He predicted that, before the lapse of sixty days he would be in harmony with those that were [illegible] upon now to crush him and the principles of the Nebraska bill in the admission of the Lecompton Constitution. He looked on the Convention as a trick and fraud upon the rights of the people, and with or without Slavery he was opposed to the whole scheme. He did not know the object of all these attacks upon him. Perhaps his opponents thought they could worry him out, but he would tell them that if he found his strength failing, he would go off, and recruit his energies, and come back and take a raking fire at the whole of them. [Laughter.]

During a conversational debate between Messrs. DOUGLAS and FITCH, the former, in order to sustain his previous remark that he could not place much confidence in the returns of the election which was held yesterday, said the Convention had declared null and void all the laws punishing fraudulent returns, and stated in addition that two officers of the army who were present in Lecompton at the time, informed him that the very man who was known to have perpetrated the Oxford frauds was elected Clerk of the Convention by acclamation, upon the ground that his services in Johnson County entitled him to such consideration.

Mr. CLAY thought the remarks of Mr. DOUGLAS calculated to do gross injustice to the Convention. He read the 13th section of the schedule, in substance that all the officers shall be sworn to a faithful performance of their official duties, and on failure thereof be subject to the same pains and penalties as are provided in like cases under the Territorial laws.

Mr. STUART remarked that it was true the Constitution makes such a provision, but it was equally true that the Acting Governor has said there is no law in Kansas punishing frauds in making returns.

Mr. CLAY inquired whether the ipse dixit of the Governor was to prevail over the law.

Mr. DOUGLAS replied that the clause which the Senator from Alabama had read, was in the copy of the Constitution published in the National Intelligencer, but in that published in the Union, which it is said was furnished by the President, that clause was not to be found. He (DOUGLAS) could not pretend to account for this variance unless the Convention adjourned without putting the Constitution into form, and perhaps the Intelligencer was furnished with a revised copy, and the Union printed the document as it was before the Convention. Whether so or not, it does not place the matter under the Territorial laws, where there were penalties for fraudulent returns.

Mr. CLAY said that Mr. DOUGLAS was mistaken, for he (CLAY) had read from the schedule as published in the Union.

Mr. DOUGLAS promised to look into the matter. If he should discover that he was mistaken, he would publicly acknowledge it.

The further consideration of the subject was then postponed. Adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Dec. 22.

The House went into Committee on the Senate Treasury Note bill.

Mr. GROW opposed the sending forth of an irredeemable paper currency. There being nothing in the Treasury to redeem the issue, it would but add to the evils which now prevail. He favored a loan, which would bring forth the twenty millions of coin now in secret recesses unemployed, and waiting for a safe investment.

Mr. SMITH, of Virginia, argued to show that these notes were not in the nature of bank notes. The bills, in effect, proposed a loan. In reply to Mr. GROW, he said that the position of that gentleman was an apt illustration of the old adage that "an apostate Christian is worse than ten 'Turks." [Laughter.]

Mr. GROW—Do you not consider my views on currency good Democracy?

Mr. SMITH—I congratulate the gentleman on that single remnant of his past Democratic career. [Laughter.]

Mr. GROW—You consider me sound on everything but that the Territories shall be occupied by whites, instead of black men. [Laughter.]

Mr. SMITH—I judge the gentleman's Democracy by his associates.

Mr. RITCHIE—Mr. SMITH having alluded to him, he said the President in his Message merely spoke as to the necessity of a small loan, and of hard money, but the report of the Secretary of the Treasury showed a demand for twenty millions of Treasury notes. Was he justified the other day in saying that there were two sets of Democrats?—one in favor of specie and the other of paper.

Mr. HOUSTON called Mr. RITCHIE to order, the latter continuing to speak excitedly meanwhile, amid much confusion.

Mr. HOUSTON said—I did not hear. I want the gentleman to repeat his threat. [Sensation.]

Mr. RITCHIE—I made none. I only said that I occupied the floor by the courtesy of the gentleman from Virginia, and deny the right of the gentleman from Alabama to call me to order.

Mr. SMITH said the gentleman from Pennsylvania had only made a dig at the Democratic Party. [Laughter.]

Mr. RITCHIE—Is not my inference a fair one?

Mr. SMITH—No! I am surprised that such remarks should come from a statesman from whom we had a right to expect better things. I should like to know what the gentleman from Massachusetts meant the other day, by speaking of the Democracy on the other side of the hall.

Mr. BANKS—The Democracy of the Constitution.

Mr. SMITH—That kind which would let the Union slide, and which seeks equality of the races by absorption, [laughter on the Democratic side,] and did not the gentleman from Illinois once say that the Constitution was worthless—like rotten rags?

Mr. LOVEJOY—No.

Mr. SMITH—Nor anything like it? [Laughter caused by the peculiar manner of the response.] Then I acknowledge that I have done the gentleman wrong. I am glad that he is sitting under the American flag, and will adhere to the Constitution of his country.

Mr. ADRAIN supported the bill and replied to the objections made against it.

Mr. MORRIS, of Pennsylvania, regarded this measure as an attempt to return to the policy with which the Government commenced—namely, to secure a national currency. He was in favor of a National Bank, with certain restrictions, such as General JACKSON said might be established, and was therefore glad that the President had adopted one of the principles of the old Whig platform.

Mr. GLANCY JONES, having replied to the various objections urged against the bill, showed the necessity of its passage in consequence of commercial revulsions. The mode proposed was the best and least exceptionable form of a loan. The Treasury wanted money at the cheapest possible rates. It was not proposed to issue these notes as currency, as had been charged, but on which to borrow the gold and silver to meet the present exigencies.

The various amendments were then discussed.

Mr. BANKS' proposition to raise an amount not exceeding twenty millions by the issue of stock redeemable in one year was rejected by a vote of 78 against 102.

The Committee then rose.

The Senate bill was passed without amendment—Yeas, 118; Nays, 86.

The House then, by a vote of 97 against 88, passed the Senate joint resolution, that when both Houses adjourn to-morrow, it be till the 4th of January. Adjourned.

Senators Bigler and Douglas on the Kansas Question—The Position of Secretary Cass—The Pacific Railroad—Accommodations in the New Representative Hall, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Dec. 21, 1857.

Mr. DOUGLAS carries too many guns altogether for Mr. BIGLER, who again essayed to-day to answer the able speech of the Senator from Illinois in vindication of the right of self-government in the people of Kansas. The speech which Mr. B. gave us was carefully studied and written. Indeed it is said—and there need be little doubt of the fact—that it had been critically examined and indorsed by the President himself. As an elaboration of the views of the Executive it commanded attention; but as an argument to sustain and defend the policy of forcing Kansas into the Union with a Constitution which the mass of her people repudiate, and against which they are certain to raise the banner of revolution if need be, it was an utter failure. Indeed it was less forcible and statesmanlike than the speech made by the Senator from Missouri on the same side of the question last week.

In the running debate between DOUGLAS and BIGLER which followed, the latter was quite demolished. His friends saw that the Senator from Illinois was plunging him deeper and deeper in the mire at every step, and finally a Southern Senator, in very pity, went around to Mr. BIGLER and drew him off by suggesting that he had better cry quits. Mr. DOUGLAS was never more forcible than to-day in his bold defiance of the attempts which have been made during the last fortnight to read him out of the Democratic Party. He exposed the futility and folly of any such efforts; declared his determination to stand by Democratic principles forever,—and especially by the great principle of "Popular Sovereignty." He showed conclusively that the forcing of Kansas into the Union with the Lecompton Constitution was not a party measure, that the President had nowhere recommended it, and that there was no certainty that he ever would. Bringing Mr. BIGLER to the confessional, and holding him there by a power of will, as irresistible as that of the magnet, he made him admit, over and over again, that even if the President had recommended it, it does not follow that a man is no Democrat because he don't agree with every Presidential recommendation, or that a Democrat is bound to agree with every opinion of the Executive in order to be a good party man. BIGLER finally denied that he had attempted to drive any body out of the Democratic Party, and perpetrated a series of blunders in the course of his writhings beneath his antagonist's keen lash, which would have been ludicrous if less painful.

The Senator from Pennsylvania will doubtless repose henceforth on the myrtle which he has achieved, and JEFFERSON DAVIS may be expected soon to bring his battery forward. Then we shall begin to witness the heat of the battle. But DOUGLAS will be found more powerful on the defensive than he has ever been in leading the assault; and even the keenness and experience of the Senator from Mississippi will be apt to find in him a fair match. The conflict will be an interesting one to the looker-on.

I have heard the inquiry a dozen times of late where General CASS is to be found in this contest, and how it is that he can remain in the Cabinet when his Squatter Sovereignty doctrine is so ruthlessly flouted. It is but just to him to say that he does not admit the premises. He reposes upon the doctrine that whatever is done by the Constitutional Convention as the agents of the people, is done by the people themselves, and that it is desirable for the public peace that they should be no longer permitted to trifle with the question of a State Government. As a legal proposition, it may be admitted that he and the Administration (for this is precisely the view of them all) are right, and yet the case is not closed against the people of Kansas. The equity of the case is with the people, and as equity is the very basis of all just law, so a Government is bound in caring for its subjects in a disputed case, to secure equity rather than preserve a technicality; in other words, even admitting that the Kansas Convention had the legal right to bind the people to their acts, still, as it is notorious that the people never intended thus to repose their sovereignty in that body, and are now almost unanimous in repudiating their abuse of the power, Congress should check the fraud and vindicate the sovereignty. Neither Mr. GREEN nor Mr. Mr. BIGLER have attempted to deny the fraud, or to argue, directly and explicitly, that a technicality is stronger in its claims upon statesmen, than is the right of the people to govern themselves.

The friends of a Pacific Railroad are again preparing for a vigorous campaign, with hopes of success. In the Senate the measure starts under remarkably favorable auspices. Of the nine members of the Select Committee to whom the subject was referred on motion of Senator GWIN, all but Messrs. HUNTER and IVERSON are in favor of the measure. HUNTER's objections are based upon constitutional grounds,—but he is not bigoted in regard to this or any other question, and will stoop to no factious opposition when he finds the majority against him. Mr. IVERSON, representing, as he does, the great Railroad State of the South, can hardly be very persistent in hostility to the measure,—and it would not be at all surprising if his objections are eventually overcome. The greatest difficulty will be to get the Committee to agree among themselves as to the plan of a bill which shall provide for the construction of the work. Dr. GWIN, the father of the measure, is in favor of a grant of lands and loan of money both,—but he is not wedded to this, and will yield to any modification of his plan which more nearly meets the views of the largest number.

In the House, the project was jeopardized the other day by the injudicious move made in its behalf by Mr. BENNETT, of New-York. He ought to have known that to secure success at this time the movement should come from the Democratic side of the House, and not from a minority member. Besides, no one who was mixed up so deeply with land-grant schemes of last Congress can expect to inspire the House with confidence to follow his lead. I learn that Mr. DAVIS, of Indiana, is to take this subject in hand, and relieve it, if possible, of the prejudice it sustained last week.

The House Committee to whom was confided the duty of inquiring and reporting what accommodations in the new hall ought to be provided for the Press, &c., will, probably, submit the result of their deliberations to-morrow. I understand that they will unanimously report in favor of placing that part of the gallery directly above the Speaker's chair, suitably fitted-up with desks, &c., at the disposal of the unofficial reporters and the correspondents. This is as it should be. Carry out the suggestion, and the regular members of the Profession will not in the future be compelled to share the odium resulting to all, more or less, from the misconduct of the Swiss corps of unauthorized writers for the Press, who have heretofore availed themselves of the privilege of the floor merely to bore members for their votes on behalf of schemes in which they were personally interested, or to acquire a position from which they could work on the fears of claimants before Congress, and so compel them to engage their useless "services." The gallery will soon weed out this class of men, and the profession and the public will be greatly the gainers.

It is amusing to witness the convulsions into which the proposition has thrown a few of those who are to be unfavorably affected thereby. One of them, in the "Daily Diatribe," urges that he is absolutely essential to the existence of Congress,—that there are not five minutes in the day in which some member of the House does not find it necessary to consult with him,—that to put him "up in a cock-loft" will be simply to force all the House to follow him there. These are not the precise words of our wordy "Editor," but the legitimate inferences of his indignant expostulations. Lest the House should fail to be moved by these weighty considerations, he adds a threat in behalf of "the Press," to the effect that they will "give the members jessie" if they persist in banishing them from the door; or if they conclude to resort to a system of quiet resentment, that they will refuse to go into the cock-loft at all, and will leave the members "unhonored and unsung." Permit me, on behalf of several of the correspondents, to repudiate all this sort of nonsense, and to suggest to the House, that the Senate of the United States, which never admitted the Reporters to the floor, is neither berated nor deserted by that useful class of gentlemen. To hear and witness the proceedings of the House there is no point so favorable as the place proposed to be assigned to the Press; and for any other purpose they can have no legitimate business upon the floor at any time. The result will vindicate the action of the Committee, if it is sustained by the House.

The Committee will further recommend that a certain portion of the Gallery be set apart exclusively to the use of ladies and gentlemen accompanying them, and that another section of it be fitted up handsomely for the exclusive accommodation of the Diplomatic Corps. Take a single step further, gentlemen, and you will have done well—provide a place in the Gallery for Ex-Members of Congress, and thus relieve yourselves of the charge of reserving a monopoly of the lobby for yourselves and your associates. The necessity of adopting some means of excluding this class of lobbyists need not be dwelt upon. Every old member has ample experience of it,—and the new ones will be satisfied of it ere the close of the session, if they are not satisfied already. S.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES—ELECTION OF DELEGATES TO THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.—The various Ward Republican Associations met last evening and elected delegates to the Republican Central Committee for 1858. Everything passed off without disturbance, and in a few of the Wards there were two tickets run. We annex the returns as far as learned:

First Ward—R. S. Collins, Dr. M. A. Van Lier, J. P. Boyce, James McKenna, C. F. E. Sneder.

Third Ward—M. N. Jones, Sheridan Shook, Isaac De Garmo, O. H. Kopp, Emmons Clark.

Fourth Ward—James Kelly, Henry H. Huelat, Dr. Naumann, Herman Oelze, Robert Myers.

Fifth Ward—John A. Kennedy, C. C. Nott, James Brett, J. P. Olmstead. One vacancy, a tie occurring between Dr. Kennedy and Stephen Paret. The matter will be settled by the Ward Association, which meets in January.

Sixth Ward—Owen W. Brennan, P. C. Vanwyck, G. W. Williams, G. Hagerty, Robert Irwin.

Eighth Ward—Andrew Bleakley, B. A. Mayereau, A. H. Stoutenburgh, John J. Sillcock, William H. Albertson.

Fourteenth Ward—John Fitch, Thomas Bennett, Thomas G. Baker, Benjamin W. Richards, Adolphus Borst.

NEW-ENGLAND SOCIETY OF NEW-YORK.

FIFTY-SECOND ANNIVERSARY BANQUET.

Yesterday was Forefathers' day, 237th anniversary of the Pilgrims' landing at Plymouth.

The New-England Society held its annual meeting at noon in the Astor House. WM. CHAUNCY, Esq., was elected moderator. The Treasurer reported a balance on hand of $2,144. WM. CURTIS NOYES, Esq., of the Charity Committee, reported 164 relieved, of whom 128 were women, and $2,340 expended for the purpose. He recommended that instead of $1 50, the annual dues of members hereafter should be $3, which was unanimously adopted. On balloting for new officers, 27 votes were cast, and the following elected:

President—BENJAMIN W. BONNEY.
Vice-President—William M. Evarts.
Second Vice-President—Henry A. Hurlbut.
Counselors—Charles A. Stetson, Silas H. Everett, Edwin D. Morgan, Frederick G. Thurston.
Assistant Counselors—Moses H. Grinnell, George S. Stephenson, Roswell E. Lockwood, Edwin J. Brown, L. G. Lockwood, Wm. N. Blakeman, M. D., Chas. H. Leonard, S. N. Stebbins.
Treasurer—Luther B. Wyman.
Secretary—L. P. Hubbard.

The company, which numbered about two hundred and fifty gentlemen, comprised as large a representation of the wealth, enterprise and intellect of this City as might be found in any assemblage of equal extent ever convened within it for a merely festive or commemorative purpose.

The chair was occupied by BENJAMIN W. BONNEY, the President. On either side of him were the invited guests, among whom were Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Rev. R. S. Storrs, Rev. Dr. Osgood, Mr. Gulian C. Verplanck of the St. Nicholas Society, Mr. S. Crookes of the St. George's, Judge E. O'Connor of the St. Patrick's, Mr. Adam Norrie of the St. Andrews, Mr. Joachimsen of the Hebrew's, Mr. Garrisque of the German, Capt. Hudson of the Niagara, Hon. Augustus Schell, Gen. Watson Webb, Mr. Matthew Hale Smith, Major Cady, Preston King, J. H. Raymond, LL. D., Wm. M. Evarts, Esq., Mr. E. D. Morgan, Mr. Charles Mackay, Mr. Simeon W. Draper, Joseph Hoxie, &c., &c.

The three lower tables were presided over by the Vice-Presidents, M. H. GRINNELL, L. B. WYMAN, and Dr. PEET. The draperies over the President's table were surmounted by portraits of WASHINGTON, FRANKLIN and ADAMS. A variety of elaborate and appropriate ornaments in pastry decorated the board, on which was spread an entertainment that would doubtless have excited the amazement of the Pilgrims in whose honor it was held.

Rev. Dr. STORRS invoked the blessing, and Rev. Dr. OSGOOD returned thanks.

On the removal of the cloth, the President proposed, in the following order, the

REGULAR TOASTS:

1. The Day we Celebrate—May the Sun of Liberty which on that day rose ever shed its glad light upon the descendants of the men who greeted its morning rays.
2. The President of the United States.
3. The Governor of the State of New-York.
4. The City of New-York—The generous and ample home of enterprise and energy, of whatever tongue or kindred; the jeweled clasp in the golden girdle of commerce that surrounds the world.
5. The Army and Navy of the United States—By land and sea the strength and the defence of a free people.
6. The Orator of the Day—A master builder in the structure of the Christian Commonwealth of which our fathers laid the sure foundations.
7. The clergy of New-England—The brave and faithful leaders of the people in every good work and aim. Ever cheering and ennobling the life that now is by the illumination drawn from the life that is to come.
8. The Common Schools of New-England—As the child is father of the man, so are the free schools of New-England the parents of the free principles and the free institutions of our country.
9. The Mayflower Constitution—The primitive written compact of civil Government—as a complete and perfect testimony that "the authority of all Government rests on the consent of the governed," it bears the signature of every member of the community it was framed for. May their descendants now and ever cherish and defend this vital principle of civil liberty.
10. The Press—The Free Press: If it serve truth and justice, it will be master of all else.
11. Our Sister Societies—Cheering companions in the charities of the year, and welcome guests at our annual festivities.
12. The Bench and the Bar of New-England—Learned and eloquent for the maintenance of private rights and for the service of the State—zealous alike for public liberty and for general justice; for where there is no liberty there can be no justice; where there is no justice there can be no liberty.
13. The Women of New-England—Their virtue and grace supported our fathers in every gloom and disaster, and chasten and embellish the abundant prosperity and glory of the later times.

The President, as introduction to the toasts, returned his thanks to the Society for the renewed expression of their confidence exhibited in his reelection to the office of President. Financially the Society had not retrograded. The fund invested at interest had not only not been diminished, but a little increase, whilst the members had considerably increased. The expenditures for the past year had been double that of any previous period of the same extent, and this extra expenditure had been met by voluntary donations of members, who had also voluntarily resolved to double their annual contributions. Again thanking the Society for the honor conferred upon him,

The President proposed the first regular toast:

The Day we Celebrate.

This was honored with loud applause, the guests standing.

The second toast,

The President of the United States,

was received with a similar manifestation of approval.

In response, the following letter was read by Hon. E. D. MORGAN:

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 19, 1857.

SIR: I have had the honor to receive your invitation on behalf of the Committee of Arrangements of the "New-England Society of the City of New-York," to be present at their anniversary dinner on the 22d inst., at the Astor House, and should most gladly be with you on this interesting occasion, were it in my power. I regret, however, that my public duties render this impossible.

Very respectfully,
JAMES BUCHANAN.

E. D. MORGAN, Esq., New-York City.

The third toast,

was responded to by Dr. KING, President of Columbia College. It was not an easy thing, he said, under the circumstances in which he stood, to speak fittingly to such a toast. Were he to speak of the Governor of this State as a brother's heart would dictate, he would perhaps violate good taste, but not the truth, for that brother was a man without blemish and without reproach; and he (the speaker) ventured to assume that of Gov. KING, it would be said at the close of his executive career, "Thou hast been a man, honest, faithful and true!" [Applause.] He claimed for New-York preëminently that she was a Union-loving, and a liberty-loving State, commingling in itself the combined influences of the blood of Holland and of New-England. It was something to boast of to have such forefathers, whose legacies to us were the fear of God and the Love of Liberty. As an illustration of the growth of New-York within 100 years, and of the singular conciseness of style which prevailed in the newspapers so long ago, President KING read the following newspaper extracts: "March 23, 1758—Killing and scalping at the German Flats by the French and the Indians." That, he said, was all; no large capitals; no points of admiration; no melodramatic exclamations about the widows and the orphans, and the burning farm-houses, and the fugitives escaping by the light of the fires; but simply "Killing and scalping at the German flats by the French and Indians." These German flats are now the most beautiful and fertile valley of the Mohawk. And again, on April 17, 1758, the following announcement, which comes nearer home, appeared: "Indians caught and scalped between Saratoga and Fort Edwards." What did they think of that? Young ladies, young gentlemen, old ladies, old gentlemen,—everybody but an invalid—went to Saratoga now to seek health every year, and none of them all ever dreamed of meeting an Indian, much less of losing a scalp. And yet, one hundred years ago, nothing was more common. [Applause.] In conclusion the speaker, after complimenting Dr. STORRS, the orator of the previous evening, proposed the following toast:

The Oak-Tree of New-England—Transplanted from its rugged soil, it finds congenial elements and fitting nurture and welcome companionship on the soil of New-York. [Great cheering.]

The Chairman of the Committee on Invitations, read the subjoined letter from Gov. KING, himself:

ALBANY, Dec. 18, 1857.

DEAR SIR: I have to express my very sincere regret that my duties here at this period of the year will not permit me to avail myself of the invitation of the New-England Society, to be present at their anniversary dinner on the 22d inst. I withheld my reply in the hope that I might be able to accept the invitation, which is my apology for the delay which has occurred in transmitting it, in conformity with the request of the Committee of Arrangements. I assure the Society that I appreciate fully this renewed mark of their consideration, and am greatly disappointed that I cannot be present on an occasion so full of interest to every son and descendant of New-England. With sincere regret, very truly yours,

JOHN A. KING.

To Hon. E. D. MORGAN, Chairman, &c.

To the next toast, that of New-York City, Rev. Dr. OSGOOD responded. He repudiated any intention of responding on behalf of New-York in either a political or financial point of view, and took particular pains to disclaim any desire of responding on behalf of that portion of it confined within the limits of the City Hall. He eulogized it for its liberal sentiment, and paid a passing compliment not only to the representatives of each of the benevolent Societies present, but to the influences of which each was the exponent. In particular, he complimented New-York on the fact that it not only tolerated Jews—(for the idea of toleration presupposed the right to be intolerant)—but claimed for it the highest meed of praise as recognizing freedom of belief to them as to all. In conclusion, he proposed the following sentiment:

The health of John Lathrop Motley—the ideal historian of the liberties of Holland and of the founders of this great City of New-Amsterdam. [Loud applause.]

The sixth toast—The Army and Navy of the United States—was received with repeated cheers.

Capt. HUDSON, of the United States frigate Niagara, responded. He confessed his utter inability to say anything he should say on this occasion. The fact, he said, was, that he had been so long wire-pulling and wire-laying—(he believed we understood that in the City of New-York)—that he had forgotten almost how to make a speech. He expressed his belief that the Army and Navy would always be found discharging their duty to their country, and alluded to the character of his reception in England, of whose Sovereign and people he spoke in terms of the warmest praise. He proposed:

Our Pilgrim Fathers—The forlorn hope of political and religious liberty, who, cut adrift from their moorings at home, and friends, in a cock-boat, found a new world and bequeathed to coming generations all the blessings we now enjoy as a nation.

[Drunk with all the honors.]

The next toast, the Clergy of New-England, was received with characteristic enthusiasm. Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER was called on for a response. The only other time, he said, which was about four years ago, that he had had the privilege of meeting with this Society, he was appointed to speak to the same toast; and he judged, as he was again this evening appointed to the same topic, that he did not do it justice before, and had an opportunity now of review. [Cheers and laughter.] It was not, either, a matter without significance that the order of arrangement had been changed to-night. As it was down in the bill, (and he had the privilege of overseeing what was done here,) it was to have come one remove from "The Army and the Navy," but as soon as the President saw who was to speak, he had put him (Mr. BEECHER) close up to the "Army and the Navy," thinking perhaps that he was well adapted to carry out the spirit of both of those institutions in a speech in response to the toast of "The Clergy." [Laughter.] And really, if he were to speak fittingly of New-England, and of her clergy, and especially in the largest sense, he ought to be somewhat a man of war, for they were men who never had failed to do battle, and however ungracious their mode of fighting might seem to those who stood without, it was generally thought to be most effective by those who felt the blows. The clergy of New-England now included a great many more than those which we usually designated as Puritans. He apprehended, however, the spirit of the toast to mean the old Puritan clergy of New-England—[cheers]—not leaving out of the account those who have developed later, but speaking rather historically of the old-fashioned New-England clergyman. And in speaking of him we must look at him a moment before he came there, for he was a very different creature from those born in the ecclesiastical churches that had preceded the Puritan development. He thought that about the time of the development of the Puritan movement, there had been a growth of things in the World. Under the Divine Providence there had been a tree growing, a branch growing, a leaf growing, a bud growing, and by-and-by when God said "Blossom," the Puritans came, and they were the blossom of ages! [Cheers.] Although there were a great many things included in that movement, he looked upon it simply as one of this kind: the assertion of a large body of men found in some degree in every nation—found in larger numbers in Western nations than anywhere else. It was the development of an aspiration for a larger manhood than had been permitted to the mass of men under any arrangement before. And this he took to be the philosophical key of that movement: aspiration after manhood for development, in one way in respect to the civil force, in one way in respect to ecclesiastical matters, in one way in respect to social and domestic matters; but in all of them it was the rising up of the world at that time and the claiming, not as a privilege, but as a right from God, the right to be all that a man could be with the capital that God put in him when he set him up in business. [Cheers.] In the assertion of this right it very soon began to be thought dangerous, on the part of the King, that men should be as large as they could be. The Puritan did not demand anything from the State. He simply asked liberty in his own sphere to be himself; and they accordingly accounted him to be too strong for the integrity of the State. The churchman asked the same privilege, but it was denied. Then manhood become antagonistic to both Church and State, and they began to battle. And the Puritan would not have been half a man if he had not fought when he was struck. [Cheers.] Those who carried on the contest were men who carried it on with their eyes fixed on this one central thought: the right of men in the Church, in the State, in every growth of society, to be actual and total men. This was the key, he thought, to the explanation of the whole Puritan character. It was thought that the Puritan was a man whose face always looked as they looked in the pictures in the old catechism. He hoped not. [Laughter and cheers.] It must have given the portrait painter the lock-jaw to have given such a portrait. It certainly made his face ache to look at them. But if we observed, though they looked exceedingly grim and very sharp with doctrine, though the lines on the faces of those old Puritans were anything but lines of beauty, yet we looked in vain for a small face among them. They were sharp-faced, but never small. The nose was long and significant; the mouth was generally significant and firm, the chin ponderous, and the jaws not unworthy of the chin, and the forehead broad, judging from such part of it as the cowl or cap would let be seen. Just in proportion as the line of beauty was wanting was the line of strength developed. And hence he thought that the picture and the man agreed. The Puritan element and the Puritan Church had, time out of mind, been defined as being sullen, ascetic, unsociable enemies of grace, of pastime, of pleasure. He declared that this whole idea was false. They did, to be sure, take sides against pastimes and pleasures, but up to their time pleasures and pastimes had been in the hands of kings and rulers, who said to the people: "Do you pray and we will govern." And the people prayed. But the ministry, and all men who had men's feelings in them, said: "It is better that the people should have these accursed pastimes knocked from under them, and be taught sober things, learned to make their own laws and to conduct their own affairs, and when pleasure came from tyranny, to spurn it! [Cheers.] And so would he and so would we all under such circumstances. Very likely this was carried too far. But when men were driven by the force of the storm, it was not always for them to say how far they would go or how fast they would go in this or that direction. They became iconoclasts simply because, when they discovered that art had been used as a bribe by the kingly hand to take away their sacred rights, they battered down the cathedral, and they broke down the window. And he would do the same, if it were a question with him, as it had been with them, whether God's pictures should come out in the human heart or man's pictures should idly hang upon senseless walls. [Cheers.] He did not pretend to say that that had not been carried beyond measure, but he did pretend to say that when God Almighty made swells in the history of the nations men were pitched further up by the breakers than they had ever intended or wished to go. [Cheers.] Never was there a body of men to whom was committed so unreservedly the framing of a community, as the Puritan clergymen of England; and how had they done their work? What, he asked, was the State of the common Schools, of the family, of the Church in old New-England? And, what was above all—school, family and Church—what was the condition of the people in old New-England, which the clergy had made? That was the question he put to them. Look at what they did and judge of their works. We wanted no better; and certainly we had not got so good now. [Cheers.] He regarded it as a supreme historical impertinence for any man to ask him, did the old New-England ministers ever introduce secular topics into the pulpit. Let him take any topic that belonged to his brotherhood of manhood, and draw it into the pulpit, and consecrate it to the elevation of that manhood, and the bringing it into the pulpit redeemed it from secularity, and it became thereby as religious as the gospel [applause.] A contrary

Rev. Dr. STORRS replied to the toast of

The Orator of the Occasion.

Subsequently speeches were made by Mr. CHAS. MACKAY, Hon. AUGUSTUS SCHELL, Mr. WM. M. EVARTS, and the representatives of the other benevolent Societies, the intervals between which, as during the evening, were enlivened by the exquisite performances of a band seated at the lower end of the hall. The occasion was characterized by hilarity and eloquent display, notwithstanding the disappointment which naturally followed the absence of Senator DOUGLAS and other distinguished guests, who had been invited to attend, and were expected to be present.

In addition to those already given, the subjoined replies were received by the Committee on Invitations:

CLARKSON, Monday, Dec. 14, 1857.

E. D. Morgan, Esq., Chairman of Committee, &c.:

DEAR SIR: The invitation to attend the celebration of the next anniversary of "Forefathers'-Day," at the Astor House, which you were kind enough, in behalf of the New-England Society of the City of New-York, extended to me, was duly received.

I was very desirous of accepting the invitation, and have delayed an answer in the hope of being able to do so, but regret to say that business engagements here, which cannot be dispensed with, will deprive me of that pleasure. Thanking the Committee for the honor done me, I beg leave to say, that although absent, I shall join heartily in the spirit with the Society in their effort to keep bright the memory of men who were willing to encounter perils and submit to hardships, for the sake of civil and religious liberty, and who, among many disadvantages, laid the foundations of Government in greater wisdom than any nation had before exhibited. It is to be hoped that the present generation, not only by praising their virtues, but by the exercise of a like courage, firmness and energy, in preserving and perfecting what they so well begun, may secure an equally favorable judgment from their descendants.

With much respect, your obedient servant,
H. R. SELDEN.

AUBURN, Tuesday, Nov. [illegible], 1857.

DEAR SIR: I have the honor of receiving the invitation of the New-England Society, for which I pray you to express to them my grateful acknowledgments. Inasmuch as the festival will fall on a day when I shall be in attendance on public affairs at Washington, I can hardly promise myself the pleasure of participating in its celebration. But I certainly shall, if the indulgence shall not conflict with official engagements. A native of New-York, proud of her present position and hopeful of her future greatness, I am sensible, nevertheless, that her fame dates from the Revolutionary age. On the other hand, I think most enlightened men will agree that New-England has an important history, reaching back and connecting with the great civic revolution of England. Others may detract from New-England in modern times, but for myself I confess that I regard her principles and policy as the surest guides to that national prosperity and eminence which we all are ambitious that our country shall attain.

I am, dear Sir, with sincere respect and esteem, your friend and humble servant,
WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

To Hon. E. D. MORGAN, &c.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Dec. 4, 1857.

MY DEAR SIR: Accept my thanks for your polite invitation on behalf of the New-England Society of the City of New-York to be present and participate in the festivities of the occasion on the 22d inst.

It affords me great pleasure to be able to accept the invitation.

I have the honor to be, very truly, your obedient servant,
S. A. DOUGLAS.

RICHMOND, Va., [illegible]

E. D. Morgan, Esq., Chairman of Committee, &c.:

DEAR SIR: Your invitation [illegible] the New-England Society of [illegible] is so kind and hospitable in its tone that I am [illegible] constrained to promise that I will meet you at dinner at the Astor House, in December, as you propose. But, Sir, it will hardly be in my power to fulfill the engagement. Our Legislature will meet next month and be in session on the 22d December, and I must be here at my post; Christmas, too, will be near, and the head of a true Virginian household [illegible] about that holy time. I must, then, [illegible] It is not for want of any respect or [illegible] for the "Forefathers" of New-England. They were [illegible] practical men, who looked to the real [illegible] and not to the shadows of things. They were [illegible] God, whose walk and conversation were [illegible] the morality of the Gospel. They were [illegible] and long suffering for the cause of religious [illegible] They were brave and hardy, and earnest and [illegible] and manly and persevering in maintaining [illegible] rights by the observance of law and order [illegible] in all things. If they were [illegible] practiced any delusions, it was always [illegible] hearts and consciences on the Lord's side. [illegible] were against the devil and all his [illegible] kept the faith and labored, and suffered, and [illegible] for it. And they gloriously triumphed [illegible] their physical and spiritual foes, and handed [illegible] a legacy of liberty and law worth preserving [illegible] ages, at all hazards, by their descendants. And [illegible] were ancestors of our Forefathers of Virginia, and [illegible] the last struggles were bound to our Fathers by [illegible] sacred ties than brother's blood. They bound themselves and their heirs forever. Time, events, [illegible] struggles, renewed covenants, more blood, [illegible] greater interests, higher responsibilities, [illegible] trusts, brighter hopes, grander prospects [illegible] greater dread of worse disasters than could [illegible] contemplated—all, everything which has gone [illegible] or come after, or is gone, or now is, or is to be, binds us, the heirs, coheirs and descendants of the forefathers of this Republic, to each other more than they were bound together. [illegible] it so? Are we brothers, and more than brothers in devotion to country, our whole country—its [illegible] rights, its equality, its peace, its separate [illegible] dependence, its union? Let us but imitate the [illegible] of the forefathers, and all will be safe in the [illegible] of fraternal affection, and harmony, and [illegible] These pious celebrations revive these [illegible] feelings, and I therefore would honor them with [illegible] of my influence. For your Society and [illegible] self, Sir, you have my best wishes, and I am

Truly and gratefully yours,
HENRY A. WISE.

WASHINGTON CITY, Saturday, Dec. 19, 1857.

E. D. Morgan, Esq., Chairman, &c.

DEAR SIR: Circumstances beyond my control compel me to be absent from the Anniversary Dinner of the New-England Society, to which you have so kindly invited me.

This is a time when we are all summoned to recur to first principles, so gloriously associated with the early as well as the revolutionary history of New-England. It may be truly said that the Mayflower which bore the Pilgrims to the shores of New-England, was freighted with the liberties of the world. On board that immortal vessel was framed the social compact basing all human government on the consent of the governed, and carrying into execution by the choice of their rulers and their own vote. As your fathers landed on your rock-bound shores, there dawned the first faint glimmering of the great principle of self-government, which rose upon enfranchised humanity, in all its meridian splendor, on the 4th of July, 1776. That great principle of self-government is about being subjected to a fearful and, perhaps, a final test, in an [illegible] Western Territory. If this principle can be subverted there, and such an act ratified by Congress, the [illegible] grim Fathers will have landed in vain on the shores of New-England; in vain shall its great truths have been promulgated in the Declaration of American Independence, and the blood of the Revolution will have been wasted on a soil where military and despotic power would soon resume their sway, as [illegible] our suicide the freedom of our country and the world forever sunk, with its last "babbling cry," into the great deep where it should remain until "the sea give up their dead," and man shall answer for his crimes, at the dread judgment-seat of his Creator.

As a Pennsylvanian, I have no claim by birth or ancestry on New-England, and presume that for this kind invitation to your anniversary dinner I am indebted to my wife, who is a descendant of the illustrious Boston printer, Dr. BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, whose principles and virtues I have endeavored to [illegible] my children.

In closing this letter, permit me to transmit for the occasion the following sentiment:

Self-Government—Wherever it may be endangered here, let every son of New-England, wherever residing, rise as one man to the rescue.

Most respectfully, your obedient servant,
R. J. WALKER.

BOSTON, [illegible], 1857.

DEAR SIR: I regret that it is not [illegible] to accept the polite invitation of the [illegible] of the New-England Society to be present [illegible] Dinner of that honored [illegible]

I must, however, send my little [illegible] though I cannot make the voyage. You will [illegible] on the next leaf, which I am sorry [illegible] but which, if necessary, may be easily [illegible] most effectually abbreviated by omitting it altogether.

Yours, very truly,
O. W. HOLMES.

E. D. MORGAN, Esq., Chairman Com. N. E. Society.

The Campo Santo of the New-England Society—Its court-yard fragrant with holy turf from the Pilgrims' Palestine; its walls frescoed with [illegible] demons vanquished and martyrs crowned; in [illegible] sacred dust let all our griefs and heart-burnings be buried with the bones of our fathers, and from it [illegible] faith and courage and love ascend, immortal as [illegible] spirits and the memory of our noble dead, [illegible]

E. D. MORGAN, Esq., Chairman.

AFFAIRS IN INDIA.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CALCUTTA, Thursday, Oct. 22, 1857.

The most grateful announcement that I can make by this mail is, that the long-expected troops from England are beginning to reach us. We, whose property and commercial interests have long been jeopardized by the rebellious state of India, and particularly this part of India to which we are exiled, welcome these reinforcements more heartily than we welcomed the breathless messenger who told us that Delhi had fallen. To us the arrival of English troops is of more importance than the storming and capture of forty Delhis. We can now see an end to these troubles not far off. To whatever causes this rebellion may be ascribed, it is admitted that it was owing to a deficiency of European troops throughout India that the rebels took heart and were enabled to achieve their extensive mischief. An abler Governor-General than Lord CANNING could do nothing in this crisis without a large army of European troops. Now that these troops are arriving we expect the Government to achieve something speedily in the way of restoring tranquillity and good order throughout India.

During the past month nearly 6,000 English troops have landed in Calcutta, drafted from various military posts between Cape Town and Hong Kong, including 2,200 troops that have arrived direct from England since the last mail left. Of the latter number, however, there were 650 men who were shipped from Portsmouth in May, before intelligence of the rebellion had reached England. These men landed here on the 10th inst., from Her Majesty's ship Assistance. On the 14th instant, the screw-steamship Thebes arrived from Dublin, with 10 officers and 199 men, of the 38th Regiment on board, being the first arrival direct from England of the new reinforcements. The Thebes is a new ship. She made the passage to Sandheads in 74 days, including a detention of 11 days in all, at St. Vincent's, Cape Town and Galle, at which points she stopped for coal. On the 15th instant, the screw-steamship Golden Fleece arrived, direct from Portsmouth, in 68 days. She brought 31 officers and 756 men, of Her Majesty's 34th Foot, and 4 officers and 144 men of Her Majesty's 42d Foot. On the 17th instant, the steamship Caledonia arrived in 79 days from Kingstown, with 15 officers and 363 men. These are all the arrivals since the last mail left. The Government is taking measures to forward the troops into the interior as rapidly as possible, and the military head-quarters will be removed soon to Allahabad. The steamer Himalaya has gone to the Cape of Good Hope to bring up horses, and the steamers Tubal Cain and Belgravia have gone to Rangoon to bring up elephants. A circular has been sent to the noblemen of the Central Provinces, asking the loan of their elephants to Government, who will pay all expenses, and compensate for all losses and injuries the beasts may sustain while in the Government service. The circular intimates that the Government will not be unmindful of the loyalty and good feeling of those Rajahs who shall respond to this call. These are indications of an energetic purpose on the part of the Government, which has not heretofore been displayed.

Speaking of noblemen in India may lead you to inquire what nobility is here. The rich natives of India think as much of a title of nobility as their English masters do; and only a few weeks since a Hindoo banker in Benares, named SUTTSURUN GHOSAL, sent to Lord CANNING a nuzzer of 151 gold mohurs, amounting to 2,246 rupees, (about $1,100,) in return for which he received the title of Rajah Bahadoor. Hereafter Mr. GHOSAL is a nobleman. But the term "Bahadoor" happens to have different significations in different parts of India, and it also appears occasionally as a family name. This fact led the Governor-General into a blunder, a few weeks ago, which I will relate to you. A memorial was sent to the Government House by some of the natives of Patna. The memorial was signed first by a prominent political servant named LOOTF ALLY KHAN, and then by several of his dependents. The last name on the list was that of a Sâo, or trader—SOOK LALL BAHADOOR. In Patna the termination "Bahadoor" designates a particular caste of Bunneas. It is customary in replying to a memorial to address the first person on the list of memorialists. But the Secretary, in running his eye over the list, passed the first name because he suspected it to be the name of a certain political offender; and seeing below a "Bahadoor," he supposed it to be the name of a nobleman, and sent the reply to him, addressing him as Koer SOOK LALL, Bahadoor—that is, Prince SOOK LALL, Bahadoor. The tradesman considered this his patent of nobility, which he refuses to part with. If he has any elephants he will now doubtless loan them all to the Government, in reply to the invitation which I have mentioned above.

The relief of Lucknow by General HAVELOCK, of which you had intelligence by the last mail, is considered here as an event of more importance than the capture of Delhi. The fall of Delhi was the destruction of one of the strongholds of the rebels; but the relief of Lucknow was the rescue of a besieged band of Christian men, women and children from a savage massacre like that which destroyed the Christian garrison of Cawnpore. That massacre is yet to be terribly avenged. "Remember Cawnpore!" is now the watchword and rallying-cry of the British soldier in India. Among HAVELOCK's troops who fought their way to Lucknow is a portion of the 32d Queen's Regiment. The wives and children of these men were among the victims of the Cawnpore massacre; and when you know this, you can understand that daring and determination by which they victoriously accomplished their march to relieve the garrison at Lucknow. You can imagine with what madness these men must have fought the rebels in Oude, and what vengeance they are now taking in the city of Lucknow.

The latest intelligence from Lucknow is, that General OUTRAM, who has taken precedence of General HAVELOCK in the command, is safely intrenched in the Residency, but cannot return to Cawnpore until he is reinforced with 3,000 men. Accounts of the severe fighting which resulted in the relief of Lucknow on the 25th ult., have reached Calcutta since the last mail departed. At a place called Alumbagh, (which signifies the "Garden of the World,") a country residence of the Princes of OUDE, about three miles from Lucknow, on the Cawnpore side, the rebels made a determined stand against HAVELOCK. The Alumbagh is an inclosure of about 500 square yards, surrounded with a wall ten feet high. A square house stands in the centre of the inclosure, with a tower in each corner large enough to contain twenty men. This place the enemy had fortified with fifty pieces of cannon. General HAVELOCK attacked the place on the 24th ult., and after twelve hours' hard fighting, routed the enemy and captured all their guns. Here HAVELOCK left his sick and wounded with the baggage, 200 elephants, 900 cattle, and a garrison of 1,000 men, while he pressed on to the Residency, three miles distant. Between Alumbagh and the Residency is a large plain, traversed by a wide canal. HAVELOCK crossed this canal by a bridge, which the enemy, hanging upon his rear, immediately destroyed, thus cutting off communication with the garrison at Alumbagh. A whole day was occupied by HAVELOCK in reaching the Residency. Every step was contested by the rebels, and 500 men out of his brave 2,500 were killed on that short but desperate march. On reaching the Residency he was fired on from batteries recently thrown up. These he stormed in succession, carrying them all at the point of the bayonet. Here fell Gen. NEILL, a worthy companion of HAVELOCK. This was on the 26th of September. During the next four days the fighting was continued, and two miles of the town fell into HAVELOCK's hands, though the rebels opposed to him numbered some 50,000! The success of HAVELOCK under all the circumstances seems almost incredible. His courage, and energy, and management in reaching Lucknow have no parallel in the military annals of India. He remembered Cawnpore! and that remembrance gave him the success. But the garrison at Alumbagh has had no communication with the Residency up to the 15th instant. They sent a letter in a quill to Cawnpore, stating that they had plenty of ammunition, but no food, and that they must starve unless provisions are sent them. A convoy of 300 men left Cawnpore with provisions on the 3d instant, reached Alumbagh, left their supplies and returned to Cawnpore without molestation, as all the enemy were on the further side of Alumbagh, in the suburbs of Lucknow. On the 14th a second convoy of provisions was dispatched, but when within four miles of Alumbagh was obliged to return and await reinforcements. The fighting in Oude will yet be very severe, for there the rebellion is now centering.

There has been a mutiny and rebellion in Deoghur and in Benares since the last mail left. The fall of Delhi has not stopped the insurrection yet. There has also been trouble at Nagpore, and in Rajpootana. Major BURTON, the Political Agent at Kotah, in the latter Province, was slaughtered in the Residency because he fired a salute in honor of the fall of Delhi.

The last mail took home a petition to the Queen from a number of the Christian inhabitants of Calcutta, for the recall of the Governor General. Lord CANNING is the first holding that high office against whom such a missile has been hurled. In the days of the Mintos and the Hastingses, the proposer of such a thing would have been favored with charter-party passages to England, with a warning not to cast his shadow upon Indian soil any more. But the East India Company's charter of 1833, deprived its agents of a power which they had so grossly abused, and the only remedy left against a petition to Queen or Parliament is to answer it. This has been done, in part, and some of the allegations of the petitioners have been traversed by counter statements. Nevertheless, the petition itself is a great fact; it shows what Englishmen could and would accomplish if they were numerous enough in India to have a voice in their own affairs, and how necessary it would be for the Home Authorities to treat their rights with respect, and their wishes with attention. The petition was only prepared a few days before the departure of the mail; yet it received nearly a thousand signatures, and a great many more would have been affixed to it, had it been in circulation a few days longer.

But, after all, it is not Lord CANNING himself who is the culprit in this prosecution. He only stands as the representative of the system of corrupt and inefficient administration under which India has long been suffering. The Legislative Council of the Governor-General contains the real culprits. Could this be purified, and liberal and national men, who know their duty and how to do it, replace the fossils that now govern India, such a petition as this would never have been sent home.

The Englishman newspaper has been gagged by the Government. I clip the following account of the operation from its editorial columns. It shows what sort of legislators we have here:

> A few days ago we received a caution from the Governor-General in Council, which will be found below. It will be seen that we are prohibited from publishing the opinions of the London journals upon the present mutiny and its causes. The article in the Press related chiefly to matters of old date, some of which may be found recorded in official documents, while others rest on the testimony of officers of rank. None relate to those men at present in power. On this principle, it is not permitted to state how Lord CLIVE obtained his treaty. However, as the Press states, the battle must be fought in England, not in Calcutta, and it matters little what is reported in the Indian papers or suppressed by the Government. The private current will only run with more violence at home for being dammed up in India.

> It will be seen from this that the local Government is either exceedingly apprehensive of the strictures of the English press, or is desirous of preventing all discussion of its measures by that of India. It is now impossible to know what will not give offence, and the least transgression of the invisible boundary may be punished with a total forfeiture of property. We have from the first passing of the Press Restriction Act, asserted that it was levelled at the English, not at the native papers, and we now offer to our readers an additional proof that this opinion is well founded.

In regard to business here, Messrs. ATKINSON, TILTON & Co.'s Circular by this mail says:

> "Our import market shows signs of more animation, and a fair business has been doing in English piece goods and metals, and a moderate business in American imports. Some two or three of our leading articles of export have still further declined in value, but the majority are stationary at our last quotations. Our money market is rather easier, discounts being obtainable in the bazaar on piece goods, chitties and hoondees at 13 to 15 per cent., though the Bank of Bengal still continues its previous ruinous policy, and native shroffs and bankers refuse to advance on Company's paper, even with 50 per cent. margin. Exchange has continued to decline, but at closing rates are somewhat stiffer. The amount of American credit bills sold this mail is not large, and the bulk of the business has been done at 2s. 2⅛d. clear for documentary credits, and 2s. 2⅜d. to 2s. 2½d. clear for clean credits. The Bark Panchita.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

On reading the statements made by the Captain of the schooner Cortes, in relation to the seizure and detention of his vessel by the United States Frigate Cumberland, (in your paper of this morning,) you state in your comments, that frequent complaints have been made of late years against British men-of-war, for their interference with American vessels on the coast of Africa, the most notable instance of late years being the seizure at Congo of the bark Panchita, of New-York, which was sent home in charge of an English prize crew. Allow me to say, in contradiction of said comments, that the bark Panchita was not seized but given up by me, on account of Her Britannic Majesty's Officers searching said vessel without any right or title, and in violation of my protestations of the illegality of their proceedings.

By inserting these few lines in your far-spread paper you will confer a great favor, as probably my friends may be led to the belief of a guiltiness on my part in such nefarious traffic, as represented by the Press in general.

I subscribe myself,
Your obedient servant,
F. E. SLADEN,
Late master of the bark Panchita.

Sir Cusack Roney on the Delivery of American Letters in France.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

LONDON, Tuesday, Dec. 8, 1857.

SIR: The letter of your Paris correspondent, of the 23d of October last, which appeared in the NEW-YORK TIMES of the 10th ult., contains errors, the result, no doubt, of want of acquaintance with some of the postal arrangements in this country, which I am sure you would desire to have corrected.

I therefore address this letter to you, not as the advocate of the English Post-Office, for it has happened that I have been strongly opposed to the Department for some years past, and am still in strong antagonism to it on many matters of detail, which I look upon as unjust and oppressive towards the public. At the same time, it would, in my opinion, be gross injustice not to acknowledge that the world is indebted exclusively to the man who is now at the head of the Executive of the British Post-Office, for as great a social blessing as mankind has ever obtained. And well may ROWLAND HILL proudly look round to every civilized nation in the world, while he beholds in them the adoption and the perpetuation of the magnificent system which he alone has invented.

But to return to your correspondent's letter. He wishes that the American letters for Paris, whenever the Cunard steamers arrive at Liverpool on Saturdays before 2 P. M., shall be dispatched immediately after their arrival, by a special train, so as to reach London for transmission by the evening mail to Paris; or in case of the arrival of the steamer being too late for the evening mail, that "they should be asked to run a Sunday evening train, or else a midnight train from the latter place (London) to Paris."

I have no doubt the Post-Office would, on a proper representation being made, arrange for special expresses being run, that is, if the writers or receivers of the letters, who alone would derive benefit from the arrangement, would pay the cost—amounting, if the train ran from Liverpool to London, to about £81 sterling, equal to about $400; or if from London to Paris, to nearly as much more—for as these would be exceptional and unadvertised trains, they would not carry any passengers, and their whole cost would therefore devolve upon the Post-Office Department.

Your correspondent states that the time from Liverpool to London, by express, is five hours, and therefore that as twelve hours are required between London and Paris, the time should only be seventeen hours. Of the four express trains that run daily, except Sundays, from Liverpool to London, there are only two that make the journey in 5¾ hours. The others are respectively 6 hours and 6½ hours on the road, and the 5¾ hours' trains leave Liverpool late in the afternoon, for the accommodation of those persons who, having reached that city during the day, or transacted business there, may, by a late arrival, sleep in London that night.

If the Cunard steamer (the mails of which weigh about twenty tons) arrive at Liverpool before 6 o'clock on Saturday morning, the London and other "forward" letters are, by very great efforts, dispatched by the 9:10 A. M. express train. This train arrives in London at 3:45 P. M. The London letters are delivered by the last town delivery that night—that is, when every business man has left his office. But the forward letters are sent on by that night's mail. Those for Paris reach there the next (Sunday) morning, and are delivered that day, while those for places as far as Marseilles, Bordeaux, Berlin, Hamburg, &c., come into the hands of the persons to whom they are addressed, practically, at the same time as those addressed to London, namely, on the Monday morning.

If the steamer arrive too late for the 9:10 A. M. train from Liverpool, the mails cannot be forwarded by any ordinary train running on the London and Northwestern Railway, so as to arrive in time for dispatch to the continent that night. The letters have therefore (as is the case in the United States with most of the mails) to "lay over" the Sunday, and they certainly do not reach Paris until Tuesday morning. As regards the delivery of the newspapers "at 2, 4, or 6 o'clock of the same day," I can cordially sympathize with your correspondent, in as much as I know by personal experience, that English newspapers are subjected by the French Post-Office, to precisely the same delays as those of which he complains. It is of every-day occurrence, that if an English letter and an English newspaper be posted in London at the same time in the forenoon, the former only is delivered in Paris early the next morning—the latter not until the afternoon, although both are dispatched from London at the same time, reach Calais at the same time, and, it is presumed, are conveyed to Paris by one and the same train.

Permit me, as I am addressing you, to call attention to the fact that the speed with which the arriving and departing mails by the Cunard steamers at New-York and Boston are conveyed to and from Canada, is none of the fastest. It required until a recent period, and I have no doubt still requires, 70 hours to take them from New-York to Quebec, and about the same time from Quebec to New-York; from Montreal to New-York, 30 hours; from Kingston and from Toronto 48, whilst from 12 to 24 hours may be added to the foregoing for conveyance from New-York or Boston to Montreal, Kingston, or Toronto. It is, unfortunately, the fact that the power of replying by first return Cunard steamer is lost to Canada, at least once in every three weeks between November and April each year, but it is not once in six months that the same occurs to places in the United States as far even as six hundred miles from New-York or from Boston.

I am, Sir, your very obd't serv't,
CUSACK P. RONEY.

Indian Troubles in Florida.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, E. Fla., Monday, Dec. 14, 1857.

I have been allowed to read a letter dated Camp Rodgers, near Tampa, Dec. 3, which gives an account of Indian difficulties in that quarter. It says: "We have captured nineteen Indians and killed two. Our Company—MOSLEY's, of Putnam County—captured seven; Captain COVE's, six; Captain STEWART's, three, and Captain JONES', three. The Indians followed us, and fired occasionally, without damage, however, one ball lodging in one of our blankets. While engaged, a part of their number stole around and killed thirty-two of our best horses, and four of Captain STEWART's. HOUSTON and RICHARDS, with 115 men, started in pursuit of the party last Monday. Have not heard from them yet."

The Florida Republican is out with an extra of Dec. 12, which gives the purport of a letter dated Dec. 2, at Cape Romano. This correspondent says: "I wrote you a few days since, and alluded to a scout, then in contemplation, after Indians, the result of which is not as satisfactory as we desired. On the 24th ult. a command of 75 men, consisting of detachments from BRADY's, HARDEE's and PARKHILL's Companies, started out from Chokoloskee Key, on Pachohatchee River, Captain PARKHILL in command, for a seven days' scout on foot, carrying their provisions on their backs. On the 28th they met a party of Indians in ambush across a very deep creek. Captain P. with 18 men in advance. Upon approaching the creek the Indians fired upon them, killing Captain Parkhill almost instantly, and wounding four of his men and one of HARDEE's—a Mr. O'NEIL, of Duval County. The number of Indians killed is supposed to be three. The men behaved handsomely. One of them—WILKINSON, of Savannah—killed the Indian that shot Captain PARKHILL. After destroying several of their fields of corn, peas, potatoes and pumpkins, the scout returned. Another will start out in a few days under Col. RODGERS."

So you see matters are still stewing among the aborigines, notwithstanding the death of BILLY BOWLEGS, as reported here, in Texas. The weather is fine, though we have had a very severe frost, Nov. 12, that did some damage to the gardens, &c. The yellow—or bilious congestive—fever, as some will have it to be, has entirely disappeared, after carrying away no less than 125 persons. It is thought that it did not originate here, but came from some other quarter. Oranges are not very plenty, retailing for four cents each. Business is again looking up, though the epidemic put a quietus upon it for some months. The hotels are empty, but they will fill up again before March, in all probability.

NICARAGUA.

Com. Chatard and Gen. Walker.

Com. CHATARD has addressed the following threatening epistle to WALKER:

> U. S. S. SARATOGA, OFF GREYTOWN, Nov. 30, 1857.
>
> SIR: I have been informed through Mr. GREEN, H. B. M.'s Consul, that you meditate seizing the English mail from Costa Rica, with American, English, and letters of other nations. Besides, there may be money. Now, I warn you not to touch it, and to allow it to come safely to hand here. If you do not, I will proceed against you without hesitation in the manner I sent you word the other day—that is, with shot and shell. In a few days the American as well as the English commanders will be here, and all your acts of violence will then be more particularly noticed.
>
> Yours respectfully,
> FREDERICK CHATARD, Commander.

THE OWNER OF THE "FASHION" IN HIS OWN DEFENCE.

The following letter from the owner of the steamer Fashion is published in the Mobile Mercury:

PUNTA ARENAS, Nov. 30, 1857.

Hon. A. V. Brown, Washington City:

DEAR SIR: Having been disappointed in visiting Washington, as I had intended and desired to do, I take the liberty of addressing you upon a subject which involves a question of much interest to the South, as well as to myself personally.

I address you for the reason that in former years I had the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with you, and for the more important reason that you are understood here to favor the Americanization of Nicaragua. I am the owner of the steamship Fashion, which sailed from Mobile on the 14th ultimo, for Greytown; and the hostility which has been manifested by the Government concerning her departure, and the numerous rumors as to the measures which will be adopted to prevent the vessel from continuing regularly in the trade, have induced me to write to you. The enterprise with myself and those associated with me was not only of a commercial character, but I assert that it was entirely legal in all respects; and at the same time I do not deny for a moment that I desired to afford, in putting the vessel on the line, facility of transportation for emigrants wishing to go to Nicaragua; and so long as I continue to respect the revenue laws, as well as international laws, I maintain that the enterprise is perfectly proper and legal. It would be a most extraordinary proceeding, it seems to me, for the Government of the United States, or any other Government, to attempt to stop this vessel.

I distinctly stated to Gen. WALKER and those who went on the ship, that I would not permit anything in the way of a military armament or a military organization to go on board, and, in fact, it was neither desirable nor desired that either the one or the other should be the case.

It was enough for me to know that there was a desire with many to emigrate to Nicaragua, and that one or two vessels plying between the ports of Mobile and Greytown would prove to be a lucrative business for those who engaged in it.

In conversation with Gen. WALKER, Commander CHATARD, of the Saratoga, requested him not to permit his men to go to San Juan, as this might produce disturbance—and he would feel bound to protect the people of Greytown. I was greatly surprised to hear a United States officer speak of protecting the population of Greytown. I am perfectly satisfied from what occurred, that Capt. CHATARD is a mere boot in the hands of the British Consul here—and it is enough to make American blood boil at the sight of such subserviency to English interests. This morning he sent a message to Gen. WALKER that if he interfered with American property—not alleging that there had been any such interference—he would regard us as a hostile force, and prevent us by shot and shell from sending away boats or from leaving the Point.

The whole conduct of this officer has been hostile and disgraceful to any one wearing the American uniform.

The Commercial Agent at San Juan del Norte, is bitter in his hostility to our cause.

The Costa Ricans and Nicaraguans are in open war, and but for the disposition manifested by the Commander of the Saratoga, everything indicates that Gen. WALKER's success in regaining his former position, might be regarded as certain.

Respectfully, &c.

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF WALKER'S LANDING.

The Picayune has a letter from Punta Arenas, giving interesting particulars of WALKER's movements:

"To-day the captain of the Saratoga took part in what is considered by all whom I have heard speak of it as a ridiculously small matter. It appears the English Consul is very anxious to send forward the mail for Costa Rica by way of the river. Last night a Council was held, composed of J. SQUIRE COTTRELL, American Commercial Agent; Dr. GREEN, English Consul, and Captain CHATARD, of the Saratoga, to devise some means of getting said mail forwarded. After long and serious deliberation, it was finally determined that Captain CHATARD should address a note to General WALKER, requesting him to permit the Costa Rican mail to pass up the river, and that said note should be sent under the seal of the English Consul. They no doubt thought this would tickle General WALKER, that he would not hesitate a moment about granting the request. They were all anxiety this morning to have this note reach General WALKER at the earliest possible moment. Colonel BRUNO NATZMER being over at Greytown at an early hour, volunteered to carry the dispatch to the General, supposing from the anxiety of the English Consul that it contained matter of vast importance. Upon its reception the General had a hearty laugh over the contents, and stated that he had no reply to make. And here the matter ended.

This afternoon three middies came off from the Saratoga, and came to the wharf nearly in front of the General's quarters, where a sentinel is posted with instructions to allow no boats to land without first hailing and bringing them to a halt, until the officer of the day gives them permission to land. The middies, when hailed, replied that they were American officers, and referred the sentinel to the officer of the day for instructions as to his duty in such cases. They landed without farther parley. The officer of the day came, but instead of instructing the sentry that "American officers" had exclusive privileges, he very politely requested middies to withdraw from the line of encampment. They wanted to know if it was an order. If it was, they would remain until forced to leave. They were informed that it was not an order, but a simple request; and further, that if they came again in like manner, without Gen. WALKER's permission, the sentry would be instructed to fire. They left, muttering about Gen. WALKER's right to possession of the Point, and making somebody smell hell.

In the afternoon, at a later hour, two Jamaica negroes came up in a bungo, and stated that they had been sent by the captain of the Saratoga to come and demand pay for wood burnt by his men stationed on the lower end of the Point. The General declined paying until the demand was made out in legal form, and sworn to by some responsible person.

A brig came into the harbor a short time before sundown, with the old Democratic flag of Nicaragua flying from one of her masts. Supposing that she had on board another lot of Gen. WALKER's men, the Captain of the Saratoga manned three of his boats, into one of which he placed a howitzer, and put out to annihilate the brig, if she was what he had supposed her to be. But when his boats got up to the brig she turned out to be a Sardinian vessel. Here was a great waste of valorous intention. I neglected to mention in a previous letter that the Captain brought the Saratoga's broadside to bear upon the Fashion the first day after we landed.

It is generally known that the men under LOCKRIDGE seized the arms and ammunition used by that command on the river, and pledged them to SCOTT for their passage home to the States. If Costa Rica paid the amount for which they were pledged, she was to take the arms; and I believe General WALKER was to be allowed the privilege of redemption. Ever since they have remained in the buildings of the Transit Company until to-day, when the artillery was taken on board the Saratoga—whether to strengthen the armament of that vessel, or prevent General WALKER from seizing them, deponent sayeth not."

FILLIBUSTER SYMPATHY MEETING AT MOBILE.

A meeting of citizens of Mobile was held on the 15th inst. to sympathize with WALKER's fillibusterism. The Mercury has the following account:

"Hon. PERCY WALKER proposed the names of his Excellency, JOHN A. WINSTON, for President, Hon. A. F. HOPKINS and Gen. C. MCRAE, as Vice-Presidents, and Messrs. JEWETT and KENNEDAY, as Secretaries.

The proposition was unanimously concurred in, and so the meeting was organized.

The President in calling the meeting to order made some pertinent remarks and alluded to the Monroe Doctrine, which he said had been much discussed on paper, and was now about to come up for action. The sentiments of the Governor were heartily responded to.

Hon. PERCY WALKER then came forward and addressed the meeting. He alluded to the fact that in consultation with gentlemen favorable to the objects of the meeting, the duty had been imposed upon him to draft resolutions for the consideration of the meeting. He then went into a hasty sketch of Nicaraguan affairs from the landing of WALKER down to the present time. When he came down to more recent events, he spoke of WALKER as having a right to return to Nicaragua, by virtue of his citizenship there, he having sojourned here only as a guest, without the interference of the Federal Government of the United States. Having landed he was beyond the reach of the Federal arm. Before introducing the resolutions he had prepared, he stated that they had been submitted to gentlemen of high standing, and among them the late Governor of Alabama and the Attorney-General, whose hearty sanction they had.

The honorable gentleman having gone through with the reading of the resolutions, said they had been carefully prepared with the United States neutrality laws before him.

Major HOWARD, of Columbus, Ga., was called out and made a speech of considerable length, and, though somewhat eccentric and discursive, certainly came right up to the point when he advocated getting men and money, and, above all things, a ship, with men and guns enough to fight her way. When it was determined to do that, he was ready to subscribe a thousand dollars! In his rambling remarks he made some hard hits upon the Administration in reference to Kansas affairs.

Judge A. B. MEEK was called loudly for, and came forward and addressed the meeting in his usual felicitous style upon the subjects legitimately claiming the attention of the meeting. We could not, with the limited time at our disposal, attempt to follow him in his eloquent address, which was a luminous résumé of Central American affairs as connected with WALKER's enterprise. In the progress of his remarks, he said that he had heard that Gen. WALKER had been invited by leading men in Nicaragua to come to their assistance in their present struggle with the Costa Ricans. He had assurances that upon his arrival they would rally to his standard. He alluded to the Cincinnati platform, upon which the present Chief Magistrate was elected, as embodying the Monroe doctrine, and in that connection the reported movement of British vessels from Aspinwall to Greytown. Judge MEEK concluded his eloquent address amid the cheers of the vast multitude.

C. C. LANGDON, being loudly called for, addressed the meeting. He came not to speak of politics, but to advocate the cause of the South. He was not a fillibuster, but was an advocate for law and order, and thought that WALKER had rightfully and legitimately acquired power in Nicaragua in the first instance, and returned there without violation of national or international law.

Hon. ARTHUR F. HOPKINS addressed the meeting. He argued that WALKER was as legitimately President of Nicaragua as BUCHANAN of the United States, and it was our interest that he should be maintained in power. The honorable gentleman went into some general remarks about Mr. BENTON, the Dred Scott decision, Ordinances, &c., in which we could not follow him.

When he had concluded, the resolutions were submitted, and passed unanimously.

Upon motion, the meeting adjourned.

THE REINFORCEMENTS FROM TEXAS.

The Galveston Civilian announces the receipt of a letter by the Collector at that port, stating that WALKER's steamer, the Fashion, was expected to enter the port of Galveston, on her return, and that a crew was being obtained here to meet the steamer there. The Civilian adds:

"A sharp look-out has been kept for the fillibustering steamer, but as the parties in Texas supposed to have been infected with the Nicaraguan fever have quietly taken their departure for New-Orleans, in the manner of other citizens, the arrival of the Fashion at this port is no longer expected with confidence, though the Government officials, we understand, are on the alert to enforce the neutrality laws. The United States Attorney is now here, and the United States Court is in session; consequently, offenders against these laws may expect to be put through in the shortest possible time."

Gen. Henningsen upon the Affairs of Nicaragua.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Dec. 16, 1857.

TO HON A. H. STEPHENS—Dear Sir: In conformity with your express desire, I beg leave to inclose some notes on Central American matters. You will perceive from their perusal that the bulk of the population of Central America is Indian—an Indian not resembling the Indian of the North American continent—hunter, nomade and savage—but of the race that CORTES, PIZARRO and the Spanish conquerors found—barbarians, it is true, but a stationary, agricultural people, docile, patient, industrious and superstitious, who had built large cities and raised stupendous temples, on whose altars smoked indeed the blood of human victims. The rest of the population, which may amount to from one-quarter to one-third of the whole, consists of the admixture of Spanish, Indian and negro blood, mingled and reintermingled in every imaginable degree. The pure Indian races are the people who cultivate the soil, who produce, who have never had any share in government, and who are dragged (as successive factions are ascendant) from their willing labors to fight for the mixed race. This mixed race is in a state of rapid moral and physical degeneracy. A large majority are born with the taint of hereditary disease, and the incessant revolutions since the Spaniards were driven out, the general decay of cities, of agriculture, of industry and of population, the abandonment of plantations and of mines, attest how utterly visionary is the idea that any self-amelioration can be expected.

I have no hesitation in putting on record my conviction that five years after that country is Americanized, as some day it will be, its production in sugar and coffee will approach or equal that of Cuba at present; and that its mineral products will fall little short of that of California now. I say, Sir, Americanized, referring to our own people; because, with an instinct prophetic of their destiny, this is the term by which the Spanish and Indian races designate them; yet if, by any great convulsion of nature, those races could be totally cut off from communication with the people of the United States, it is my firm belief that in fifty years—and probably within half that period—the mixed races would be entirely wiped out by the Christianized Indian, and the Christianized Indian, in turn, conquered and assimilated by the wild heathen Indian. In Guatemala, which alone contains half the population of Central America, this is already obvious. The Indians, many years ago, were only prevented from exterminating the mixed population because CARRERA, himself an Indian, was gained over by the clergy, and by a few families who have bowed to his despotism because he can hold the Christianized Indians in check. But in the rear of these are the pagan Maya Indians, who have swept through Yucatan, devastating nearly every town, occupying nearly every portion of its territory, and by whom the Christianized Indians will be as certainly subdued and absorbed as the mixed race rooted out eventually by them. I need not remind you that in the Mexican Territories the savage is everywhere steadily encroaching on the effete civilization of Mexico.

A small portion of this mixed race in Central America, in both of the main parties into which they are divided, are incurable factionists, whose trade is revolution. There is, however, a majority fully aware of the facts to which I have been adverting, and who look to the Americanization of the country as the only hope of averting its decline into utter barbarism and ruin. One of these parties is designated the Democratic, the other has accepted the appellation, originally given to it by its adversaries, of servile. When the Spaniards were driven out the former prevailed in Nicaragua; but in the reaction, consequent on its excesses, the serviles—that is to say, the old aristocratic families, the employes of the Spanish Government and their friends, representing exactly what was represented in this country by the tories in the war of independence—obtained the ascendancy, were again overturned and again established, through a countless series of revolutions, always in a diminishing minority; till, through recent events and by foreign interference, that servile party, represented by the Government of Martinez, and dwindled down to a mere faction, is temporarily established—that is to say, draws men and resources from about one-third of the country.

It would no doubt be highly desirable, in a philanthropic point of view, if by the contrivance of ingenious diplomacy, these politicians and parties in Central America, and contiguous regions, could be induced to subside into a united happy family, till the settlement of the country by colonists from the United States should so far have progressed as to infuse a controling amount of practical sense, enterprise and vigor into those countries; but the idea is more than delusive. If the native Governments could stand, the men of power, as all experience, as their own acts and proclamations show, are bent on excluding Americans. Where, in the history of the last twenty years, has any colony of United States citizens been established by pacific development in any of the Spanish-American countries? What foothold, what security for life or property have they now on the Isthmus of Panama, beyond what the guns of a United States squadron afford them?

What has become of all the United States citizens who, hired by delusive contracts, offers of protection and treaties, started with their plowshares, their engines and their tools? On the other hand, the rifles of the Texans converted the wilderness into a flourishing State of the Union, and indirectly brought California and New-Mexico into those relations with this country which have rendered them a benefit to the civilized world.

In the case of General WALKER and the emigrants from the United States to Nicaragua, all circumstances concurred to legitimatize their enterprise, according to the strict letter of the law; and, without misapprehension or perversion of facts, his opponents may be challenged to show any difference between the circumstances under which LAFAYETTE and KOSCIUSZO took part in the war of independence and he in the civil war of Nicaragua, which are not in favor of the legitimacy of his acts. He was called in by a government which had proved, by occupying all the country, except Granada, that it had the sympathies of the majority. He repaired the disasters his party had met with. He conquered the whole Territory of the Republic, and was elected President by a vote of the majority—that is to say, a majority of that very industrious class of which I have above made mention. He defended the country gallantly against the assaults of four foreign States, and was only driven from it by the unauthorized interference of a United States officer. The ground I assumed in a recent letter to the Honorable Secretary of State, that but for such interference President WALKER would not have had to abandon Nicaragua, is abundantly confirmed by the message of the President of Costa Rica, from which I subjoin an extract.

It is true that he attributes to his own sagacity a result which was only due to the interference of Capt. DAVIS and to the seizure of the schooner Granada. This act the Administration has visited with its censure, through the Secretary of the Navy, who blames Capt. DAVIS for giving up the schooner Granada to the Nicaraguans. I beg leave to remark that it was given up to the Costa Ricans. The censure of a public servant is, however, not the reparation of a public wrong, and I think, Sir, you will agree with me in considering that the people of the United States would better get rid of that responsibility and more dis[illegible] further the future interests of the country by repealing certain clauses of the neutrality laws, than by the most successful treaties with Spanish-American Governments of this continent.

I am, Sir, very truly, your obedient servant,
C. F. HENNINGSEN.

Sensible Views of the Kentucky Democracy upon the Kansas Question.

From the Louisville (Ky.) Democrat.

The present dispute about Kansas is one of the most unprofitable and uncalled-for that ever occurred in this country. It is not pretended that the South is to gain anything by the acceptance of the Lecompton Constitution; on the contrary, she is certain to lose friends, influence, and credit by insisting on it. Even success in the measure is impossible. The sentiment in the Free States is unanimous against the measure. We say unanimous, for the exceptions are so few as to be insignificant. The Democrats everywhere stood in the longest and bitterest contest upon the doctrine of popular sovereignty. They pledged themselves to a literal fulfillment of their promises, in every way that words could be employed. This was the very bulwark of their strength before the people. Had it been charged that a Constitution would be made by a Convention, and not fairly and fully submitted to the popular vote, they would have denied it indignantly and repudiated it; otherwise, they would not have carried a single State. It is simply impossible that they can recede now. They must forfeit the confidence of the masses to do so, and sacrifice their principles. When they promised that the people of Kansas should frame their own institutions, they meant the people, not a Convention assuming to represent them. They were so understood, everywhere. It is no wonder, then, that they now resist what is proposed to be done. They cannot, as consistent men, do otherwise. It is idle to try to amuse the public with the idea that any party in the Free States will support the admission of Kansas with this Lecompton Constitution. A few Senators and members of Congress may vote for it, but they will be without support at home.

Had a Constitution for Kansas been fairly submitted to the people and ratified, Pro-Slavery or Anti-Slavery, not a word of opposition from the Northern Democracy would have been heard; but they are pledged to its submission.

The position of DOUGLAS ought to open the eyes of all parties on this subject. He is neither mistaken nor frightened. He knows perfectly well what he is doing. He cannot go before his people on any other ground. He would stultify himself to do so. There is but one voice from his State, and that dictates the course he is taking. He would be false to his antecedents and promises, and false to his State, if he occupied any other ground. And why should the South occupy any other position? Did not the Democracy of the South talk as earnestly about the right of the people of Kansas to frame their own institutions as the North? Was not this doctrine everywhere preached, and what is the South to lose by it? What do we expect to gain by forcing a Constitution upon a people who challenge it as an act of usurpation; who oppose it, to all appearance, by a large majority?

It is idle to tell us that Congress is bound by the act of the Territorial authorities, and thus undertake to shift the responsibility of an acknowledged wrong upon the Lecompton Convention. Congress never authorized such a Convention to be called, and never gave power to the Legislature to call it. They only come as petitioners to Congress; and it is with that body to grant their prayer or not. We should, therefore, like to know why any difficulty is made on this subject. Why not pursue the usual safe and constitutional course? Pass an act enabling Kansas to call a Convention that will be a legal body, and require the Constitution to be submitted to the people, as was done in other cases. This will be according to promise, literally and faithfully. No one can then say that we have denied to the people of Kansas the right of self-government. No one can pretend that we violate the rights of States or persons by this course.

We know that some of our cotemporaries very honestly and sincerely advocate the admission of Kansas at once; but, we ask, why? It must lead to an angry and protracted agitation; and if we insist upon it, we shall have very few friends in the Free States. If we succeed, we shall alienate friends and gain nothing; if we fail, which is about certain, it will be still worse.

The Democratic Party is the only organization left that is national; why insist upon an issue that will sectionalize it—an issue of no possible use? We apprehend that some of the advocates of this Lecompton business are quite consistent in pursuing their purpose. They think that a dissolution of the Union is but a question of time; and they would hasten the event by making sectional parties. When that is accomplished, the happy time they look for will be at hand. Let this issue be insisted on, and those who resist it read out of the party, and the work is done. We deprecate the result as the last of calamities. We believe it far easier to keep this Union in order than to make a tolerable one of any of its parts; it will not require half as much forbearance and moderation. We can foresee all the evils in the Union we have to apprehend; we don't know what is to come out of it. Better bear the ills we have, than to fly to those we know not of. We are opposed to sectional issues about trifles, when no principle is at stake, and thus weaken for nothing the ties that already exist. So much we should say if the question were one of indifference. But in our judgment, the mass of the South are wrong on this subject. A people have a right to vote upon their organic law before they are compelled to live under it. In this instance they are denied that right. A vote is called for, and it is sheer despotism to refuse it. This right they have, without any promises or pledges; but in this case the promise was made in addition to the natural obligation. It was ostentatiously made, and repeated by millions of tongues. After all that has been said for the last three years, nothing will do but the most fair and literal fulfillment of the pledge that the people of Kansas shall frame their own institutions to suit themselves. It will not do to dodge it by any technicalities, excuses or subterfuges.

The New-York Democracy and the Kansas Question.

From the Albany Atlas and Argus.

If we were a citizen of Kansas, we should hold our Delegates to a strict accountability, should they refuse, from distrust in the popular judgment, to submit their work to us. But as citizens of New-York, we have no right to enter into the question, or to demand that a test shall be applied to this instrument, to which the other States had never been called upon to submit.

Amid all the changes of the past, there never has been but one Federal Constitution, and we can find in its language no room for any such a test as this—no precedent for it in the history of the States.

It would be difficult to dispute that, judged by this rule, even in regard to the question of Slavery, the plebiscitum, which the Kansas Convention has submitted, might have been refused, and that that body might have distributed the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial powers to the several Departments of State, leaving the question of Slavery to be disposed of there, as it has been here by the ordinary course of legislation. We more than once advised such a course during the Presidential canvass; for we believed that the Democracy of this State could not object to a Constitution which, on the subject of Slavery, was such as that under which they abolished it, and yet which left the people free to regulate this and all their domestic institutions as they pleased.

While we make these claims in behalf of the liberty of communities—the only liberty which in this or in the Old World is endangered by the tendency to centralization—we cannot be blind to the fact that those who have been entrusted with the delegated sovereignty of Kansas have fallen short of their high mission. We do not speak of the Constitution itself—for that is nearly faultless. We allude to the disingenuousness which characterizes the form of submission, and which makes the plebiscitum read—"whether for Slavery or against it—" for the Constitution." We allude also to the distrust of the electors manifested by the people, which no fear of civil war, and no apprehension from the subsidized malcontents in the Territory could justify. The Democrats in the Lecompton Convention, if there were any such, owed to the Democracy of the Union the duty of being true to themselves and more confident in the integrity and judgment of the people.

There is one other reservation which we must make in regard to such a submission as Kansas proposes to make. It must not be characterized by usurpation; and it must not be tainted with fraud. There is nothing in the Federal Constitution that will permit, much less compel, the recognition of a surreptitious and illegitimate birth in the family of States. There is nothing in the discipline of party that will compel us to be the partisans or the apologists of a fraud.

The Constitution of Kansas is yet incomplete. It is to go before the people of the Territory for amendment. We have regarded the excitement in regard to it, as premature; for it is not yet fully and authentically before the only tribunal that can pass upon it. But it is not unwise to discuss the question in advance, calmly, and upon the basis of principle; and we have not thought it ill-judged to place before our readers throughout the Union, the principles which the New-York Democracy have already declared should govern them in regard to it, and our own more humble views.

Opening of the Presidential Campaign of 1860.

From the Philadelphia Evening Journal.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Dec. 19, 1857.

Some facts have come to my knowledge within the past few days, which throw considerable light upon the recent policy of the Administration. Some people have expected the President to pursue a straightforward, independent and patriotic course, because, they say, he had attained the summit of his ambition, and does not look forward to a second term of office. I have satisfactory information that there is already a strong combination of leading Democrats formed for the purpose of bringing Mr. Buchanan forward as a candidate for reëlection. Whether the President himself is privy to this arrangement cannot, of course, be ascertained, at present; but upon the supposition that he gives it his countenance, the noncommittalism of his message and his extraordinary anxiety to conciliate the fire-eating extremists of the South will be easily explained. Some of those who are most prominent in the movement, who, by the way, are principal [illegible] of ultra-Southern sentiment, aver that Mr. BUCHANAN will be by far the most available candidate for the slaveholding interest, and they design to [illegible] the combination, thus early formed, over the heads of DOUGLAS, WALKER, WISE, DICKINSON and the other aspirants. The probabilities are, that in many respects the remainder of Mr. BUCHANAN's Administration will resemble that of Mr. PIERCE, in being marked by a succession of petty intrigues for reelection, all of which are doomed, beyond peradventure, to ultimate defeat. A second term is an obsolete idea in our politics.

STEAMBOAT DISASTERS.

Particulars of the Loss of the "Colonel Edwards."

The New-Orleans Picayune has a full account of the burning of the steamer Colonel Edwards, on Red River, of which a telegraphic account has been given. Twenty lives were lost:

"The melancholy disaster took place early on Saturday morning last, 12th instant, at Borland's Wood Landing, about nine miles below Alexandria, Red River. The Colonel Edwards was from Carolina and Hurricane Bluff, Upper Red River, and bound to this port. She had on board, at the time of the disaster, about eighty passengers, seventy-five in the cabin, most of them from Shreveport and above. Her cargo is a total loss, with the boat. The fire broke out at 5½ in the morning, opposite the boilers. Its origin is unknown. The Colonel Edwards was tied to the bank while taking on wood at the time. The progress of the fire was fearfully rapid. Within the space of three minutes the whole boat was enveloped in flames. The only way of escape was by jumping into the river from the after part of the boat, and thus many lives were lost. The number is believed to be at least twenty. Full lists of the lost and saved, so far as known, will be found below, with such incidents as we have been able to collect. The surviving passengers and a portion of the officers of the Colonel Edwards came down on the steamer W. A. Andrew, Captain Cooper, and arrived in the city this morning. They all speak in the highest terms of the kindness and attention of the officers of the Andrew. In addition to free passages to the city, the destitute were supplied with everything humanity could suggest. Such noble acts should not go unrewarded.

The following is the fullest account of the loss we have yet been able to obtain:

J. J. VARNER, Cobb County, Ga.; M. A. BROCK, San Augustine, Texas; a minister, name unknown, who got on board at Shreveport; BENJAMIN TURNER; PETER PRUSA, a German peddler, on deck.

A passenger saved, reports seeing four persons, white men, drowned near him.

Another reports seeing eight men drown.

All of the deck hands are supposed to be saved, as they were on duty at the time of the accident. Inquiry was made among them; they concur in the [illegible], though two are thought to be missing.

A negro woman of Dr. HARRIS, of Yazoo City, Miss.; also, a negro girl of ten years, of M. A. HAYS.

Several passengers, names not given, went on shore at Alexandria.

T. E. GARDNER, of Hopkins County, Ky., lost nearly sixty head of cattle, and cash, in all $2,000.

There was near $5,000 in the safe—property of merchants and passengers.

D. J. WILBER lost nearly $2,000. The iron chest will be saved, it is thought, as it was seen on the hull which drifted ashore about two miles below the scene of the disaster, and was secured to the bank.

PETER BULLARD, F. M. C., saved Mrs. HILL and child, of Memphis. Mrs. IVEY, of Texas, was saved by her brother. Mr. C. C. FREE, of Cincinnati, Ohio, cut out three horses, which swam ashore. JIM, a negro, who was chained to the boat, cut the chain with an axe and escaped. He is in charge of the officers. Only four bales and a part of a bale of cotton were saved by the W. A. Andrew, which passed soon after, and took in the surviving passengers and crew.

PASSENGERS SAVED.—Mrs. Hill, of Memphis, child and servant-woman Sally; Mrs. Ivy, of Smith County, Texas. No other ladies on board. Caroline Touchet, Indian woman, chambermaid.

List of Gentlemen Saved—Dr. Samuel Bard, Shreveport, La.; C. Farley, Memphis, Tenn.; Charles C. Clark, do.; J. C. Coleman, Smith Co., Texas; Isaac H. Noland, do.; W. B. Butler, do.; A. Hays, Tuscaloosa, Ala.; T. P. Garret, Hopkins Co., Texas; A. J. Swan, Smith Co., do.; B. L. Nimmo, La.; C. C. Peck, Cincinnati, Ohio; Wm. Brumby, Rusk Co., Texas; H. B. Lacy, Sumterville, Ala.; Wm. [illegible], Leon Co., Texas; Jno. Sojourner, De Soto Parish, La.; J. H. Mahaffey, New-Orleans; S. D. Dobbins, do.; C. W. Slater, Texas; J. H. Allen, Cotile, La.; W. B. Veasy, Texas; Jno. McLoud, La.; J. G. Tolam, Mo.; W. H. Riley, Ill.; Jno. Hammond, Tenn.; F. V. Clinkscaley, Texas; Jno. Faver, do.; J. H. Nolan, do.; W. B. Butler, do.; J. M. Scayles, do.; W. Dulany, do.; Z. W. Palmer, do.; W. H. Horne, do.; A. W. Robert, Knox Co., Ind.; W. C. James, Cotile, La.; J. E. Huff, La.; Felix Savot, Brownsville, Texas; James Workman, W. J. Kenathan, Texas; R. A. Watford, Smith Co., Texas; R. M. Kay, do.; Manuel Bothello, New-Orleans; C. E. Baker, San Augustine, Texas; Dr. W. W. Harper, Yazoo Co., Miss.; J. L. Nettles, pilot, Clinton, La.; A. Dentigance, Alexandria; Lacey Fitz; T. J. Holloway, Ouachita, Texas; W. Gibbard, Texas.

OFFICERS SAVED—J. H. Beard, captain; Geo. H. Clark, clerk; G. Sweeney, J. Jacobs, pilots; Dan Ross, Ed. Granger, assistant pilots; Jno. E. Curry, 1st engineer; Henry Dillingham, 2d Engineer; Jos. Kirk, Jas. Curry, 3d engineers; W. S. Sullivan, mate; L. G. Bowden, 2d mate; A. P. Hopkins, carpenter; Geo. Douse, 1st steward; Peter Bullard, 2d steward; Jno. H. Bickman, pantryman; Jno. Leary, cook; Ned Spalding, Manuel Davis, Jno. Livingston, Chas. Slater, Tom Allen, Bill Hickman, Polite, pantry-boy, free man of color.

A meeting of the survivors was held at Borland's landing, SAMUEL BARD presiding, at which resolutions were passed exonerating the officers of the boat.

THE LOSS OF THE "RAINBOW"—DIABOLICAL CONDUCT.

Accounts of the loss of the Rainbow have been already given; but new developments show flagrant rascality. The Memphis Appeal learns by a letter received from DAVID EMBREE, Esq., Superintendent Inspector of steamboats at St. Louis, that he finds it to be his duty, by the steamboat law, to investigate closely all such occurrences as the alleged acts of incendiarism of the Pittsburg cabin boys and cooks of the sunken North Star who had been taken on board the Rainbow. That investigation, says the Appeal, will show facts in connection with these fiends of a most flagrant character; and will also bring to light some interesting particulars respecting the filling with water of the air-tight life-preservers, by which many persons were sunk who would otherwise have reached the shore in safety.

Murders.

A WHOLE FAMILY MURDERED.

A letter in the St. Louis Republican, dated at Dover, Mo., on the 9th, says: "On Friday evening, a man named MICHAEL CUDDY, got into a skiff with an Irish family, composed of a man, his wife, a boy about ten years old, and a little girl about two years old, at Belt's Landing, about fifteen miles below Lexington; they remained at Waverly that night. On Sunday morning the skiff was found about five miles below Waverly, in a rack-heap, with a trunk and chest in it, broken open. The family have not been heard of since, and CUDDY was arrested near this place to-day. A sack which he carried, contained a number of articles of female attire and some children's socks. This man is accused of the murder of this family.

FIVE NEGROES TO BE HUNG FOR MURDER AT NATCHEZ.—Two interesting and long-continued trials of negroes for the murder of their overseers, were terminated at Natchez, Miss., on the 22d ult., by the conviction and sentence of the prisoners. The first murder was that of DUNCAN R. SKINNER, overseer on Mrs. CLARISSA SHARP's plantation. Three negroes, REUBEN, HENDERSON and ANDERSON, some time in May last, entered the room where the overseer was sleeping and beat him to death. They carried the body to the woods, and placed it at the foot of a beech tree, throwing on the ground near the spot the dead man's gun and shot-pouch.

They also saddled his horse, led him to the spot, rode him over the corpse several times, and then turned him loose, to create the impression that the murdered man while hunting had been thrown and killed by the horse. To render this view of the case the more plausible, they wrung the dead man's neck till it was dislocated. The secret was kept for several weeks, until the perpetrators of the deed, no longer able to keep it silent, let it out. Week before last they were tried, convicted, and sentenced to be hung on the 11th of December.

The other murder was that of T. W. MCBRIDE, overseer on the plantation of Mr. W. A. FOULES. He was waylaid on the 7th of June last, a few weeks after the murder mentioned above, by three negroes, REUBEN, TOM and JOHN, while returning from a visit to a neighboring plantation. The murderers pulled him from his horse, beat his brains out with a club, and sunk the corpse, weighted with a ploughshare and the pea of a pair of scales, in a pond. Here it was discovered, and clues obtained to the murderers, who have just been sentenced to be hung, with the exception of REUBEN, who, on account of some informality, was allowed a new trial.

THE MANHEIM MURDERERS.—The murderers of the two women at Manheim, Penn., are in prison. The Lancaster Express says: "ANDERSON remains unmoved, as he is by far the most hardened of the two, and was undoubtedly the leading spirit in the late tragedy. He says that for nine years he never saw the cherries ripen, until this year, having always been in prison at that season of the year. RICHARDS, the younger of the two, is much agitated, and sleeps with his head entirely covered up, as if afraid of seeing the ghosts of the murdered victims rise up before him. When they were taken out in the yard yesterday to have their photographs taken by Mr. LOCHER, RICHARDS trembled so much that the picture could not be taken until his nerves were braced up with a glass of brandy. ANDERSON, however, took the matter quite coolly, consenting to sit only on condition that he would be furnished with a copy for his wife. It is understood that RICHARDS has confessed all about the matter, or insists upon doing so, but denies that he took any part in the murder; he asserts that he went to the house with ANDERSON but did not know the 'conditions;' while the evidence is strong against him, amply sufficient to convict him, we have no doubt that ANDERSON, from his well-known antecedents, was the chief engineer of the infernal plot."

MURDER BY A SLAVE.—In Franklin Parish, La., last week, Mr. THOMAS N. HOBBS, a planter, was murdered by one of his slaves, ABE. The negro had had his legs cut off to his knees, which, being well padded, he walked on without difficulty. On the day of the murder he had done no picking. HOBBS approached him in front, and was leaning a little over him and in the act of strapping him behind, when the negro seized him by the collar. Mr. H. pulled out his knife, when the negro, seizing his arm and pulling it towards him, put the cuff of the sleeve in his mouth, and then succeeded in throwing him down. The knife falling, ABE picked it up, opened it, and [illegible] using it on his master. He first ripped his abdomen open, making a gash of eight or nine inches, cutting upwards towards the ribs. He then [illegible] another part of the abdomen, and under each collar bone. Assistance coming up, he was taken off his master and secured. Mr. HOBBS was taken to his house, and lingered with his wounds 16 hours, when he died. ABE was tried, found guilty and hung.

ANOTHER SINGULAR CASE.—The Harrisburg Telegraph says: "A man who gave the name of [illegible] MARKEL, surrendered himself a few days ago to an officer in Baltimore, assuring him that he had murdered a man named JOHN PATTERSON, at Germantown, in this State. Marshal HERRING, of Baltimore, to whom the story was detailed, thought it proper to detain the self-accused man. The authorities in Philadelphia were written to, and after careful inquiry into the matter, it was settled that no such murder had taken place, and that Mr. MARKEL was not suspected of any crime whatever. It is a very common thing for men charged with murder to deny their guilt, and flee from arrest, but for an innocent man to accuse himself with the commission of such a crime, and give himself up voluntarily, is a very unusual occurrence. The man is evidently deranged."

MURDER AT NIAGARA FALLS.—On Friday night last a man was detected, at Niagara Falls, robbing a clothes line on the premises of a hackman named JOHN HIGHLAND. H., accompanied by a man named WHITE, proceeded to arrest the thief, and had secured him, when he stabbed HIGHLAND in the side and abdomen, cutting him so severely that he died in a few minutes. WHITE was stabbed over the eye, but not seriously, when the murderer was secured. On searching his premises, several thousand pieces were found, which he had stolen during the last four years, and which the owner recognized. The murderer is now in jail, and his career will doubtless be closed on the gallows.

INFANTICIDES.—An Irish girl named ANN HAVY, only 16 years of age, is under arrest in Greenwich, Conn., for the murder of her infant child, which she left in a barn, where it perished from exposure. She was seduced by a married man, who has since returned to his family in Ireland.

A young German woman, named SOPHIA FEHRENBERG, murdered her infant child at Cincinnati last week. She is in jail.

The Rochester Murder.

PARTICULARS OF THE MURDER OF CHARLES W. LITTLES.

From the Rochester Union, 21st.

We are again shocked to record a horrid murder perpetrated in our city sometime on Saturday night. The body of CHARLES W. LITTLES, a young lawyer, who had an office with Mr. HUNTER in Smith's Arcade, was found, early yesterday morning, lying on the edge of the river below the Falls—the skull fractured and the head exhibiting the marks of some dreadful weapon wielded with a desperate purpose and with great violence. The body was first discovered by some boys who had gone to the river side to look for the body of Mr. NEWHAFER, the unfortunate man who was swept over the Falls on Saturday. From where the body lay on the top of the high bank were traces of blood too plainly indicating the sanguinary struggle which had taken place. Just outside of the high fence, at the northwest corner of Falls Field, is a sort of wedge-shaped grass plot, extending from an excavated road to the quarry on the north, to the fence on the south, and the precipice on the west. To reach this plot the murderers and their victim must have climbed up a steep path from the roadway to reach this secluded spot. Here, at a point some eighty feet from the bank, is a pool of blood, and there are other pools near the bank, and marks indicating a dreadful conflict. The body was thrown down the bank, falling perpendicularly some thirty feet, and then rolling down the sloping bank perhaps fifty or sixty more. From this point where the body lodged to the river is at least 150 feet, and over this distance the body must have been dragged and put into the water. It was not, however, carried in so far as to float away into the rapid below. Near the pools of blood on the high bank was found the tip from a lady's victorine, some combs and velvet rosettes worn in the hair; also an arm of a chair. All these evidences were taken by Coroner QUIN, with the body, to the police station. Before the body was removed, it was identified as that of CHARLES W. LITTLES. Thousands were on the ground yesterday, looking at the evidences of the bloody crime, and the gathering about the Police-office was immense.

CHARLES W. LITTLES was about 25 years old, and had resided here some four years, most of the time. He came from Dansville, where his father resides. He studied law with Mr. MUDGE, and was admitted some two years since. About two years ago he married a young woman named SARAH STOUT, and has since separated from her; but there was apparently a mutual jealousy, perhaps not without cause, existing. The STOUT family were suspected of knowing something of the whereabouts and associates of LITTLES, so they were all taken into custody and testified before the Coroner's jury. Mrs. LITTLES and her brother, IRA STOUT, had each an arm broken on Saturday night, as they say, by falling in Gelusha-street. It is a singular coincidence that one of the family should be killed and two others have limbs broken about the same hour, and yet not be in the same vicinity. The brother, ELI STOUT, and his wife, and the little boy STOUT, it is proper to say, went through the examination as if innocent of all knowledge of the cause of LITTLES' death.

Of the testimony taken up to midnight, the Jury having been at labor over twelve hours, but little light was thrown upon the affair, so far as detecting the authors of the outrage goes. There can be no doubt but a female was engaged in the conflict where LITTLES lost his life, and of course suspicion points to his wife as the person. The combs and the rosettes found are not unlike those she wore, and the tip of the victorine found would just make hers whole if placed where a piece is missing. But on this point we prefer not to comment more.

The wounds upon the head were examined by surgeons, who will give their report in testimony. There is a great deal that might be said on this subject in the way of speculation.

Beginning to Understand the Case.

From the Richmond Enquirer.

There are indications of extravagant demands upon the Northern members of the Democratic Party. For them to think and feel relative to Southern institutions as the people of the South do, is quite out of the question, but before coöperating with them as a party we have a right to ask them to concede to us all our constitutional franchises and all the rights which an equitable construction of the Constitution must secure to us. Have they refused this concession? If they have, it is because the principles of the Democratic Party are not set forth in the Cincinnati Platform, notoriously the work of Southern statesmen, and especially designed as a guarantee of Southern rights. Northern Democrats stand on that platform. They assumed their position on it freely and without remonstrance or hesitation. They labored, voted, fought for candidates who indorsed it fully and cordially. They bore aggression, abuse, social persecution, and contumely from their Black Republican and Know-Nothing neighbors, because they adhered to the sound and catholic doctrine proclaimed by the Convention of June, 1856. They were on the platform when they helped to win the glorious victory over FREMONT. They were on it in their subsequent elections when they attained a Democratic majority in the Northern States. They are on it now. We see no signs of a disposition on their part to leave it. Can we reasonably ask more? Have we any demands to make of them beyond what they have already conceded?

The Black Republicans claim for Congress the right to dictate to a Territory on the subject of Slavery. The Cincinnati Platform denies any such right and Northern Democrats adhere to the platform now, as they did a year ago. Why then should there be a quarrel between them and the Democrats of the South?

The people of the South claim the right to settle in the public Territories with their slaves; Northern Democrats acknowledge the right. The people of the South want all the world outside their own borders to let their institutions alone; the Democrats of the North, by their speeches, their resolutions, their platforms and their votes say the South is right in her demands. When Black Republicans have been insulting, aggressive and defiant, Northern Democrats have rebuked them; when the Sewardites have shown a design to trample on our chartered rights, Northern Democrats have held the Federal Constitution up to their gaze and pointed out its provisions, its principles and its pledges. They have proved themselves to be worthy members of the only Constitutional and the only true American Party. They have fully and freely recognised the fact that no valid or valuable union can exist among the sovereign nations which constitute our Federal system, unless all shall be willing to grant to every other its Constitutional rights. The South, through the Democratic platform, has appealed to the North to be let alone in her institutions and her rights. Northern Democrats have seconded and indorsed the appeal. Meeting with us at Cincinnati, they gave a formal declaration of principles and a solemn pledge of fidelity; as long as they adhere to these, no more can be demanded of them.

Jefferson Davis in Reply to General Wool.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 14, 1857.

My attention has been called to a letter signed JOHN E. WOOL, United States Army, headed Troy, N. Y., November, 1857, addressed to the editor of the Flag of the Union, Jackson, Miss., and published in a New-York paper of Dec. 8, 1857. It purports to be a reply to an exposition which I deemed proper to make, some time in the last Summer, to the unfounded slanders which the said WOOL had covertly, through the newspapers and in official correspondence with the Secretary of War, uttered against me. The allegations, which are repeated in his recent publication, having been then sufficiently refuted, and his purpose willfully and maliciously to misrepresent my acts having been conclusively established by the records of the War Office, I deem it unnecessary further to refute his slanders, whether they be old ones revamped, or new ones concocted.

When my exposition above referred to was made, my official relations to General WOOL had terminated, and I closed the proof of his gross misrepresentation by denouncing him as the perpetrator of a "palpable and pitiable falsehood." He now seeks to redress himself by the publication of recriminating epithets—a remedy not recognized among gentlemen, and one to the enjoyment of which I now dismiss him.

Very respectfully, yours, &c.,

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Personal.

Col. Fremont visited Harvard College last week, and was received at the Law School Library by the students. He was addressed by Judge Parker. Prof. Parsons rose after Col. Fremont had spoken a few words, and remarked: "I have been honored by a request from Col. Fremont to make his apology, which is highly complimentary to you and us all. He says that the classic and scholarly scene by which he is surrounded for a moment took from him the power to say a word. But, gentlemen, let us assure him that we can pardon a momentary hesitation in speaking in one who never hesitated when he had anything to do."

The late David Watkinson, of Hartford, left bequests of $250,000 for charitable purposes. A free Library of Reference to be established in connection with the Connecticut Historical Society, is to be started with $100,000; $40,000 are for a Juvenile Asylum and Farm School; $40,000 go to the Hartford Hospital; $30,000 for the support of indigent children; $5,000 for an Institution for reforming discharged criminals; and the remainder to religious Societies, &c. Thirty nephews and nieces receive $10,000 each, or $300,000, besides the quarter of a million otherwise disposed of.

The book-publishers are likely to be in trouble. The Traveller says: "We understand that the United States District-Attorney is about to commence suits against several book and music publishers, to recover the penalty of $100, provided by law against persons who make a false entry of copyright being secured in works that have never been legally entered. In most cases it is presumed the omission is caused by carelessness and inadvertence, but that none the less exposes the parties to the penalty."

Hon. William Bebb, Ex-Governor of Ohio, now a citizen of Winnebago County, Ill., has been indicted for manslaughter, for shooting dead one of a charivari party at his house last Spring on the occasion of his son's marriage.

Mr. Giddings will, in the course of the present session, prepare a speech on the Slavery question, which he will either read or have read. His usual extempore style is not permitted by his physician.

Speaker Orr has announced his determination to enforce strictly the rule prohibiting the custom of bringing liquors into that part of the Capitol under his especial charge.

Hon. Edward Everett has repeated his lecture on WASHINGTON sixty-five times for the benefit of the Mount Vernon Fund, and the sum realized is over $36,000.

George D. Prentice, editor of the Louisville Journal, has suffered for two years past from paralysis of the hands. His editorials are written by the aid of amanuenses.

Mr. L. H. Southard, of Boston, says the Musical World, has composed a new opera, to an Italian libretto, entitled "Omano," founded upon the story "Vathek."

Jarvis Slade, of the firm of Lawrence, Stone & Co., who attempted suicide at Bath, Me., is recovering in mind and body.

Gen. Rusk's death, it is said, will not be announced in the Senate until the arrival of the Texas Senators.

Miscellaneous Items.

A singular case has been decided in Indiana, by which it is declared that marriage in that State requires no formalities to make it legal, except the mere agreement of the parties; that it is a civil contract only, and differs from other civil contracts merely in this—that it cannot be dissolved, even by mutual consent.

Obituary.

Capt. Reuben Butterfield, the oldest surviving settler of Farmington, Mass., died on the 1st inst., at the age of 93. He went from Dunstable in 1781, and settled in a wilderness. There was no mill within thirty-five miles, the nearest settlement twenty miles distant.

Miss Coutts, who has followed the great tenor Mario wherever he has traveled for years past, has just died from the effects of burns incurred some time since by her dress catching fire, just as she was on the point of starting for the opera, to hear Mario once more in the "Barbiere."

An old sailor, Thomas Penny, who was one of Commodore Perry's men at the battle of Lake Erie, died in the Naval Hospital, at Philadelphia, on Tuesday, aged 81.

Wm. D. Chapman, comedian, died recently in San Francisco. He played at Covent Garden, at the Bowery, in New-York, and at the American, in Sacramento.

Mr. and Mrs. SYLVANUS HOWE died recently at Frankfort, Me., aged respectively 97 and 99; they had been married 78 years.

Hon. STEPHEN VICKERY, an early settler in Michigan, died at Schoolcraft last week; he was Whig candidate for Governor in 1845.

Hon. WM. CHETWOOD, of Elizabeth City, N. J., died last week, aged 88. He was the oldest surviving member of the Bar of New-Jersey.

JAMES GOFF, one of the volunteers who served actively through the whole Revolutionary War, died in Sangerville, Me., on the 11th inst., aged 98.

Hon. Thos. H. Seymour, United States Minister at St. Petersburg, has sent, through Barings, $175 for the relief of the poor of the city of Hartford, Conn.

Business Better.

The Fall River News has the following: "The Anawan, Fall River and Watuppa Cotton Mills will resume operations about the first of January. These establishments employ about 450 hands. The American Print Works are now in full operation, and as they will probably continue running through the Winter, the starting of the cotton mills must soon follow. C. O. SHOVE & Co. will start their Knitting Cotton Mill next week, on reduced time. They employ about 40 hands. The American Enamel Co. is now in full operation, employing about 40 hands."

The wagon-makers of Belchertown, Mass., deny the statement of the Springfield Republican that their business has declined, and add: "It is true that the hard times affect us in common with others, and that quite a number are thrown out of employment, but it is not true that business is entirely suspended, or that anything like 100 or even 50 men are destitute of work."

THE STATE OFFICER INDICTMENT.—The editor of the Rochester Union, writing from Chicago, gives the following detail of an affair to which we have already referred:

"The transaction charged as fraudulent, I understand, on inquiry, to be substantially as follows: The Chicago agent of Mr. FITZHUGH's house—Mr. F. being in Chicago at the time—purchased $15,000 worth of wheat, for which he drew on the Oswego firm for the amount in three drafts of $5,000 each, at 20, 25 and 30 days, the bill of lading accompanying the drafts. On these drafts the cash was obtained at Chicago. The agent (I believe the same man) then proceeded to make out another bill of lading, and made other three drafts of the same amount payable in ten, fifteen and twenty days. These drafts too were cashed in Chicago; so that somebody, whether the Oswego firm or their agent, got $30,000 for the $15,000 of wheat.

The three drafts maturing first were paid; the other three I learn are still held by Messrs. STURGES, BUCKINGHAM & Co. of this city, who look upon them as a 'permanent investment.' The parties aggrieved went before the Grand Jury of Cook County, in which Chicago is situated, and procured bills of indictment against Mr. FITZHUGH, and the Chicago agent of Fitzhugh and Littlejohn's Line, whose name I have not heard. The latter was arrested and gave bail to answer. But Mr. FITZHUGH being out of the State, a requisition for his surrender to the Illinois authorities was procured of Gov. BISSELL, and an officer was dispatched to Gov. KING, at Albany, in order to get his authority for the extradition of the indicted party.

The officer presented himself to the Governor, if my information is not at fault, on the twenty-first day of November last. Instead of granting the requisition, I am informed the Governor notified the Commissioner of the matter; and that gentleman was heard on the subject before Gov. KING, on the ensuing 28th day of the month, and the result was the application of the Illinois authorities was denied."

COURT CALENDAR—WEDNESDAY.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term.—No calendar for Wednesday.

COMMON PLEAS—Part I.—Nos. [illegible]. Part II.—Nos. [illegible].

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—Dec. 21.

Before Judge Ingersoll.

[illegible]

George B. Morewood et al. vs. Heman J. Redfield.—This was an action against the defendant as Collector, to recover back the sum of $1,[illegible], exacted by him as duties upon a quantity of crude gutta percha imported by the plaintiffs. The Collector treated it as a non-enumerated article and imposed a duty of 30 per cent. upon it under the 3d section of the Tariff Act of 1846. The plaintiffs claimed that it was only liable to a duty of 10 per cent. under the 20th section of the Tariff Act of 1842, which provides that non-enumerated articles bearing a similitude to any enumerated either in their material, quality, texture, or the uses to which it may be applied, it shall pay the duty imposed upon such enumerated article. They alleged and proved that gutta percha was similar in its uses to India rubber, and claimed that it should pay the same duty, amounting to only 10 per cent.

The Jury found a verdict for the plaintiff, for the full amount claimed.

For plaintiff, Mr. Griswold; for defendant, Mr. McKeon.

The Bowery-Extension Fraud—Fourth Day's Proceedings.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Hon. Justice Roosevelt.

Berrien vs. The Mayor, &c., and Charles Devlin.—This case was continued yesterday. Gerrit Prince was again examined. He testified that there was no such number as No. 312 Pearl-street, or No. 80 Frankfort-street; they were signed on the petition for Pearl-street, but were on Franklin-square; he saw Mr. Mount move the dirt from the front of his premises; he saw some sold; they came into witness' shop to get change; Adam Smith and Francis Pares were not property-owners on the line.

Daniel Remsen, Jr., had paid to remove the dirt, (fifty-eight loads,) at fifty cents a load; he testified as to the dirt being thrown and left on the sidewalk; and, as to the excavations in the street, witness was obliged to alter his house so as to fit the new grade.

Owen O'Conor testified to about the same facts; the grade in front of his premises was left about as before the alteration; his vaults were filled with sand; he applied to Mr. Devlin, when he was Street Commissioner, and he promised to remove it; he finally had to remove it himself.

John Petrie resided in Brooklyn, and had property on the line; he testified that he was charged for fifty square yards extra, when no dirt was taken away; forty or fifty yards of the grading had not yet been done.

Daniel Beakler had purchased sand of Devlin in Franklin-square. It was excavated from below the grade. In January, 1857, a woman fell into a vault opposite his place left unguarded. Thought it was not a nuisance.

Richard Dillon employed Francis McIver as clerk. He signed the petition for him (Dillon) without his knowledge. Witness did not own the premises.

Daniel Galliger testified that he relinquished his bid to Alderman Healey, without any consideration, for the benefit of a friend, though the name of the friend was not given. [Here a subpœna was sent to Alderman Healey, requiring his immediate attendance.]

Bartholomew Healey was sworn—Was acquainted with Galliger; was Alderman last Fall; did not remember speaking to Galliger on the subject of the Bowery extension; Galliger did not assign to witness any paper in regard to the Bowery contract; have not and never had any paper of Galliger's in relation to the Bowery grading; had no recollection of receiving any paper from Galliger; had heard Devlin speak of the extension, but did not know whether it was before or after the contract was awarded; did not think that it was before the award of the contract; as to Mr. Galliger's statement, he could not say whether it was true or not; witness had no interest in the contract; did not do anything in the matter at Devlin's request; did not remember getting Galliger to sign anything; Jeremiah Healey is a brother of witness; he was a bidder; he made a default; he had no conversation with Devlin or his brother about taking the contract before it was signed.

Here the plaintiff rested, and the defence first called James McKeown, who was a foreman of Devlin's; the work was commenced before October, 1856, and finished about April, 1857; a surveyor was present, and the work in all respects was done according to his direction; saw Petrie on the stand; remembered dirt being carted out of his alley-way, and dumped in the street; remembered the vault where the woman fell in and was killed; remembered vault being filled; it was open before witness came; remembered plaintiff's lot; the earth in front of his house they were prevented from removing by his desire; they cut the street some four or six feet lower than the original grade; the sidewalk was taken down some four or six feet; when they left it the sidewalk was as the surveyor directed; knew of Devlin and Fitzpatrick being partners in 1855 in a couple of jobs.

Cross-examined—Did not know of Fitzpatrick being foreman; saw him frequently on the ground; the last business he knew of his being engaged in was in the Fifth-avenue grading, in 1855; Fitzpatrick owned horses and carts; did not know whether they were at work on the job; he knew his horses and carts; he did see them there; he saw them at work there; did not see Fitzpatrick have charge of them; supposed that he had charge of his drivers; witness did not see any dirt brought out of Petrie's alley-way; could not remember more than ten baskets of dirt being taken from Petrie's cellar; some one at the brush store (Mr. Berrien's) said that they had no right to disturb his sidewalk, and so they did not at first remove it; there was no dirt left in front of his premises when the workmen left the job.

Here the Court adjourned.

Before Hon. Justice Davies.

The People ex rel. Charles Devlin vs. D. D. Conover.—This morning a short argument was had as to the propriety of amending the complaint in this action. The action is the quo warranto, to test the title of Conover to the Street Commissioner's office. The error was merely one of form in the pleadings, and was allowed.

NOTICE—SUPREME COURT.—The case of Berrien vs. The Mayor, &c., will be on the Special Term, before Judge ROOSEVELT, during the whole of to-day, (Wednesday,) and no other case will be taken up. No Calendar will be made up.

SUPERIOR COURT—NOTICE.—An entirely new calendar will be made up for the ensuing January, February and March terms of the Superior Court, and all notes of issue must be filed with the Clerk on or before Saturday, Dec. 26.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM.

Before Judge Ingraham.

The Fire Department vs. Huckenbottom.—This action was brought to recover a penalty of $500 for an alleged violation of the Fire Laws, in the construction of a building in the rear of defendant's premises, situated at No. 204 Bowery. The defendant denied that the building was a violation of the laws, and also stated that it had been altered to meet the approbation of the Fire Wardens.

Verdict for plaintiffs $500.

SPECIAL TERM.

Before Judge Daly.

The People vs. James Mulligan.—Judgment vacated on payment of $500.

The Fire Department vs. Asa Bigelow.—Motion for new trial denied.

John Cahill vs. Patrick Rafferty.—Judgment for plaintiff on demurrer, with costs.

Henry Waterman vs. Jacob Pecare.—Motion to vacate judgment granted.

POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

The Confidence Game—A Canadian Invalid the Victim.

Mr. James Irwin, a young wheelwright, about 30 years of age, residing in Toronto, Canada, arrived in this City on Friday, and stopped at the St. Nicholas Hotel. He had been out of health some time, and was advised by his physician to spend the Winter in Florida. He gathered his earnings together and started on his intended trip. He was to take the steamer for Charleston, S. C., at 3 P. M. on Saturday. At the hotel a gentleman formed his acquaintance, who pretended to reside in Hamilton, Canada. This gentleman was also going to take the steamer for Charleston, and was very happy to form the acquaintance of Mr. Irwin. The stranger proposed a stroll down Broadway, as the air was bracing, and the ladies abundant and beautiful. Mr. Irwin had no objection, and they started down Broadway. After proceeding a few blocks the stranger happened to think of a bill of $95, for articles which he had purchased at the store of a merchant of his acquaintance, and which he ought to pay before leaving the City. He asked Mr. Irwin to call with him on his mercantile friend, which request the latter had hardly complied with, when, as good fortune would have it, they met the identical mercantile friend in the street. The rest of the story is a "thrice told tale." Stranger No. 1 spoke about the bill, and offered stranger No. 2 a $100 bill from which to take the amount due him. Stranger No. 2 had not the change, whereupon stranger No. 1 asked Mr. Irwin to change the bill. Mr. Irwin was happy to oblige, and immediately gave ten good ten dollar bills for a bogus $100 bill on "The City Trust and Banking Company." Stranger No. 1 asked Mr. Irwin to step into a store to satisfy himself about the bill. Mr. Irwin steps into a store and the two strangers slide. Mr. Irwin comes from the store, sees nothing of the strangers, and is dumb-founded.

Mr. Irwin was not long in collecting his senses. He went to the Police head-quarters and told his story, giving, as far as he could, a description of the strangers. The Police are on the look-out for them. Meantime Mr. Irwin has temporarily postponed his trip, as he wishes to remain to identify the parties.

The Eleventh Ward Shooting on Election Night—Death of one of the Rioters—Coroner's Inquest Commenced.

Patrick Vaughn, one of the rowdies who on the night after the late charter election created a disturbance at the Eighth District of the Eleventh Ward, and was shot by a policeman, died at a late hour Monday night, at the City Hospital, from the effects of the shot. The particulars of the affair were published in full at the time according to the official statement made by Captain Squires of the Eleventh Precinct. According to this statement Officer Van T[illegible], seeing that there was no other alternative, "drew his revolver and shot Pat Vaughn, and when [illegible] continued his assault a second shot was discharged which brought him down." The evidence taken yesterday before the Coroner, as published below, gives a very different rendering of the affair. The testimony of witnesses remaining to be examined will probably put the lie in the right place.

Coroner Hills proceeded yesterday afternoon to the City Hospital, and after impanneling a Jury, entered upon an inquest. The following is the testimony thus far taken:

John Kennedy, sworn: I live at No. 193 Avenue C; the deceased was my uncle; between one and two o'clock on the morning after the December election I was standing on the walk with my wife nearly in front of where the poll was held, about two doors off; the wife of the deceased called to me to help get the deceased up stairs; he lived over the shed where the poll was held; I went into the poll-room and attempted to get him up stairs to his room, but he was too strong for me; the deceased was intoxicated and had a gun in his hand; I don't know whether it was loaded or not; a man named Tracy took the gun away from him, when Officer Miller took possession of it; the officers commenced beating the deceased with their clubs; they also struck me on the head; I went back into the yard and got over the fence; Officer Duffy met me and took me to the Station-house; I did not see the shooting; I was not drunk.

Eliza Vaughn sworn: I am the wife of the deceased, and reside at No. 151 Avenue C; on the night of the election in December, my husband came home about twelve o'clock and went to bed; I went down to the front door to get my husband's brother to come up, and while standing there my husband came down with a gun in his hand; I believe the gun was not loaded; I asked Mr. Kennedy, the previous witness, to get him to come up stairs; I fastened the front door so that no one could come in; Officer Miller attempted to come in, but as I would not unfasten the door he came in by the rear door; Officer Duffy came in with him; they struck my husband several blows; I opened the back door to let my husband go away, so that they would not kill him; my husband went out the door and was followed by the officers; Officer Duffy caught up a clothes pole lying in the yard and struck the deceased three times, knocking him down each time; after my husband got up the third time, Officer Duffy said to Officer Miller "Shoot," and the latter immediately fired his pistol at him; he fired at him twice; a special officer fired at him once at the same time; the officers left after firing their pistols; myself and some friends brought my husband up stairs, and directly afterwards the officers came and broke open the door and took him to the Station-house; my husband had had no difficulty with the officers; I don't know of either of the officers having been injured; when the officers were beating my husband and firing their pistols at him I was standing in the back-door, about five yards off.

At the close of the last witness's testimony, there being no further witnesses present, the inquest was adjourned till 10½ o'clock this morning at the Coroner's Office. The body is to be buried to-day in Calvary Cemetery. The deceased was a native of Ireland, was 28 years of age, a blacksmith by trade, and has left a wife and two children.

INFANT DESERTION—TWO WOMEN ARRESTED.—On Monday evening Officer Manott, of the Twenty-first Ward, observed two women walking through Twenty-eighth-street, near First-avenue, having a bundle in their possession, and acting very mysteriously. They finally passed into the hall of a building on the corner of Twenty-eighth-street and First-avenue, and in a moment darting out started off at a rapid gait. The officer, discovering that they had left an infant child in the hall, pursued after the two women, arrested them and took them to the Station-house, where they gave their names as Sarah Spencer and Ann Seylum. They were both respectably dressed, but refused to give their residence. The child had only been born four hours. It was at once sent to Mr. Kellock's residence, in Leonard-street, to be properly taken care of.

About 6 o'clock Monday evening a male child two weeks old, was found in Church, near Warren street. It was sent to the Alms House Department.

A COUNTRY MERCHANT CHARGED WITH FALSE PRETENCES.—Myron Platt, till lately a merchant at Glen's Falls, was brought to the City on Monday to answer a charge of false pretences preferred against him by Mr. Thos. H. Hayden, hardware merchant at No. 70 Beekman-street. Mr. Hayden states in his affidavit of complaint that the accused came to his store on the 30th of May last and desired to purchase some goods on credit, representing that he owned real estate in Glen's Falls worth $7,000, and that he was free from debt. On the strength of these representations he sold him a bill of $1,215 17, and took his notes for the amount. These notes had been protested, and he had since ascertained that the statements of Mr. Platt were erroneous in every particular. Justice OSBORN held the accused for examination.

FELL INTO BAD COMPANY.—Jonas Rogers, a young man belonging to Sag Harbor, while wandering through the streets to take a glimpse of the elephant on his own hook, strolled into a low groggery in Roosevelt-street. While there he formed the acquaintance of a young girl named Mary Riley, alias "Curly Mary." A short time after leaving he discovered that his pocket-book was gone, and with it $80 in bills and a promissory note for $900. The girl was arrested, but none of the property recovered. She was locked up in the Tombs by Justice WELSH to answer a charge of grand larceny.

ROBBING A SAILOR.—Charles Murray, a sailor belonging to the ship Robert Hattie, just arrived from Glasgow, got paid off on Monday $90. After receiving his money he went on a spree and was robbed. Officer Conlin, of the Essex Market Police Court, yesterday arrested John Anderson, a sailor, and Mrs. Curtis, landlady of the sailors' boarding-house No. 306 Water-street, charged with the robbery. The pocket-book of the complainant and $19 of the missing money was found on the person of Mrs. Curtis. Justice BRENNAN admitted Mrs. Curtis to bail to answer the charge, and Anderson, in default of bail, was locked up.

DEATH AT A STATION-HOUSE.—An unknown man about 40 years of age, was found last evening by one of the First Ward Police, lying grossly drunk at the corner of Front and Moore streets. The officer took him to the Station-house, where he was locked up for the night. Yesterday morning on opening his cell he was found dead. The Coroner was notified.

Among the mails stolen by Tuckerman on the Boston route was one dispatched from New-Orleans on the 7th ult. for Boston. All the inland correspondence, including a large amount of drafts and bills, has been destroyed. Four or five hundred foreign letters have been recovered, with their seals unbroken, and were forwarded by the Liverpool steamer of the 5th inst. from New York.

The following State officers of Alabama have been unanimously reëlected by the Legislature: Jas. H. Weaver, Secretary of State; William J. Greene, Comptroller; William Graham, State Treasurer; William F. Perry, State Superintendent.

Spirit of the Trade Circulars.

A. F. DE LUZE'S FLOUR AND GRAIN CIRCULAR.

Per Europa.] NEW-YORK, Tuesday Morning, Dec. 22.

FLOUR—State and Western—The market during the past fortnight has ruled dull. For export to Great Britain, a little inquiry has existed, but the trade have purchased sparingly. With exceedingly mild weather, and the continuation of canal navigation until the 15th inst., large arrivals have taken place. In prices a decline of 25c.@40c. ꝑ bbl., on the fortnight, is to be noted.

WHEAT—With unfavorable foreign advices, but little has been done for export, while for milling very moderate purchases have been made. In the present unsettled state of the market, quotations are in a great measure nominal. White can be quoted $1 20@$1 40 ꝑ 60 ℔s.; do. Red, $1 15@$1 25. Common Western White is offered at $1 15; small sales prime $1 40. Western Red, Winter, $1 00@$1 12; Spring, 80c.@$1.

INDIAN CORN—In moderate request, principally for home consumption. Southern White and Yellow, new, 60c.@65c. ꝑ 56 ℔s.; do. old Yellow, [illegible]@70c. Western Mixed, 68c.@70c.

RYE—Quiet, 70c.@75c. ꝑ 56 ℔s.

FREIGHTS—To London, Flour, [illegible] ꝑ bbl.; Grain, 6d.@6½d. ꝑ bush. Liverpool, Flour, 2s. ꝑ bbl.; Grain, 6d.@7d. ꝑ bush. Havre, Flour, [illegible] ꝑ bbl.; Grain, 12½c. ꝑ bush.

BARBETTO & CO.'S PROVISION CIRCULAR.

Per Europa.] NEW-YORK, Tuesday, Dec. 22, 1857.

The same unchanged inactivity, which we have heretofore reported, has since characterized our Provision market, and prices of every description of Pork and Beef have suffered a further depreciation, the advices of monetary affairs, which reach us by each successive steamer, being of the most unsatisfactory nature, and the consequent and almost total impossibility of negotiating exchange, keeps importers entirely from the market, and the only sales which transpire are to the trade, and to a very limited extent. The receipts from the West, and from some of our Southern cities, are now becoming heavy, and in the absence of sales the stock increases. The decline during the fortnight in prices is equal to $1 ꝑ bbl. for Mess, and $1 50 ꝑ bbl. for Prime Pork, the market closing exceedingly dull at our quotations.

Mess Pork, $15 50@$16 ꝑ bbl.; prime $12 [illegible]; clear $18.

Cut Meats and Bacon continue very dull, and, with the exception of a few lots of salted middles, taken for the English markets, are entirely unnoticed by exporters. In prices there has been no material change during the fortnight, but the market is very weak, and prices tend downward. Dry salted, clear short Middles, 9½c.@9¾c. ꝑ ℔.; do. do. long do., 9c.@9½c.; long middles, dry salted, 8c.@[illegible]c.; dry salted Cumberland Middles, 8c.@9½c.; do. and pickled Hams, 8½c.@9c.; do. and pickled Shoulders, 6c.@6½c.

LARD—Consequently upon the unsatisfactory news brought by the Europa, and received here on the 14th instant, together with receipts heavier than had been generally expected, prices gave way, and a decline of 1 cent ꝑ bbl. has been pretty generally established, although some holders are not selling at present rates. There are foreign orders to a fair extent, upon the market, but in the present unsettled state of financial affairs abroad, there is very little disposition to execute or to undertake any new speculations, although prices and prospects may fully justify it. We quote strictly prime in bbls. and tcs. at 9½@9¾c. ꝑ ℔.; fair to No. 1, 9c.; Prime in kegs, 11½c.@12c.

BEEF—Unchanged; the market for all descriptions is exceedingly dull, the only movement being in shipments to England, in part, consignments for account of packers. Country prime, $6@$7 ꝑ bbl. Repacked Mess, $11 50@$13 ꝑ bbl.; Prime Mess, $20@$24 ꝑ tc.

TALLOW—In good demand from manufacturers—the stock is very much reduced, and prices well sustained. Prime City and Western, 10c. ꝑ ℔. Ordinary, 9c.@9½c. ꝑ ℔.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

THE ADVERTISER WISHES TO RENT a furnished house up town, in New-York or Brooklyn, with suitable arrangements for a first-class boarding-house. NEWS OF THE DAY.

In the United States Senate, yesterday, Mr. WILSON introduced his bill to secure to actual settlers the alternate sections of public land granted to States for railroad purposes, and Mr. JOHNSON introduced a bill granting to every head of a family who is a citizen of the United States a homestead of one hundred and sixty acres of land on condition of its occupancy and cultivation. The President was requested to communicate a record of the proceedings of the Naval Courts of Inquiry. A resolution was adopted directing the Joint Committee on Printing to ascertain if any additional action is necessary to insure accurate reports of Congressional debates. Consideration of that portion of the President's Message relating to Kansas affairs was then resumed, and Mr. FITCH, of Indiana, led off with an assault on the position of Mr. DOUGLAS. The latter gentleman, in his reply, defended his course with increased boldness, declaring that he intended to stand by the Nebraska bill, the Cincinnati Platform, and the organization and principles of the Democratic Party, and that he defied opposition, from whatever quarter it might come. The debate was continued until the adjournment. In the House, the Treasury Note bill, as reported from the Senate, was considered in Committee of the Whole, and at the end of a long and somewhat desultory debate, the Committee rose, and the bill was passed, without amendment, by a vote of 118 against 86. The House agreed to the joint resolution, passed by the Senate on Monday, providing for the adjournment of Congress from to-day until the 4th of January.

Advices from Leavenworth, Kansas, have been received to the 19th inst. At that time Mr. STANTON was still the Acting Governor, although Gen. DENVER had arrived there. The latter, probably acting as Commissioner of Indian Affairs, together with Gen. HARNEY, had dispatched two companies of cavalry, upon Mr. STANTON's requisition, to suppress a rebellion at Fort Scott, in which several lives had been lost. Gen. HARNEY had posted troops at various points in the Territory to preserve order during the election. It was thought that the legitimate vote would be very small, but many Missourians were going into the Territory to vote—which fact, together with Secretary STANTON's removal, it was thought, might cause bloodshed at the polls. A letter in the St. Louis Democrat states that Gen. LANE was shot by a Government official at Lecompton on the 15th. The name of the official is not given.

We have at last received something definite relative to the Minnesota United States Senators. A Democratic Caucus of the Legislature was held on the 15th inst., at which HENRY M. RICE and Gen. SHIELDS were unanimously nominated, and, doubtless, ere this they have been elected.

A dispatch from St. Louis, on the authority of an arrival from the Plains, states that the dépôt at Fort Laramie had been threatened by the Mormons, and that two companies of the Fifth Infantry had met with reverses—of what character is not intimated.

On Monday afternoon Mayor TIEMANN was sworn into office by Chief Justice MITCHELL, at the General Term of the Supreme Court. He was presented by the Corporation Counsel, Mr. BUSTEED. The Bowery grading fraud case was continued yesterday, but nothing new was elicited.

The U. S. District-Attorney, having yesterday been apprised, by letter from the State Department, that a fillibuster expedition was on foot and ready to start from New-York, immediately set to work to arrest the vessel, and prevent the threatened violation of the neutrality laws of the United States. Letters were sent to the Collector of the Port, to the captain of the cutter, and to the United States Marshal. The suspected vessel was the bark Alvah, which had cleared for St. Jago de Cuba on Monday, and sailed yesterday morning. Captain RYNDERS employed the first steam-tug he could find, and, unaided and alone, went in pursuit of the bark—overtaking, capturing and bringing her back to the City, where she was placed in the custody of Captain HUNTER, of the revenue-cutter Washington. She had over fifty passengers on board, besides the crew. The case will be investigated by the District-Attorney this forenoon. Nothing was found on the vessel to add to suspicion that her errand was an unlawful one.

The Special Committee, appointed to investigate the charges against the City Inspector, and Aldermen and Councilmen, in relation to the disposal of market stands on the land west of Washington Market, held another meeting yesterday. The reports of the preceding day's proceedings had created considerable interest in the matter; and, at 2 o'clock, the Committee-room was crowded. Alderman BLUNT was about to proceed with the investigation, when Mr. MORTON, the City Inspector, arose and claimed that, in justice to himself, a majority of the Committee should be present, to decide upon the admissibility of testimony. He did not intend to be held responsible for anything prior to the date of his coming into office. Subsequently Alderman MCCONNELL appeared, and, having taken his seat, objected to the reception of any testimony, unless there was a majority of the Committee present. Then came Alderman DRAKE, and he objected to proceeding unless there was a majority present. He moved to strike out all the evidence that had been taken by a minority. His presence, and that of Alderman MCCONNELL, constituted a majority of the Committee, which consists of five, but both continued their objections to proceeding, unless a majority was there. Alderman DRAKE moved that the Chairman should not take testimony in the absence of a majority, and as he and Alderman MCCONNELL voted for it, it was carried. Alderman DRAKE then moved to adjourn to one week from Wednesday, and as he and Alderman MCCONNELL voted for it, it was carried. Alderman BLUNT then proposed to proceed alone; but the impression being general that the Committee had adjourned, the witnesses had retired. Subsequently Aldermen ADAMS and HOFFMIRE arrived; and when they learned what had been done, expressed strong regret at the postponement. They determined to bring the matter before the Board of Aldermen at 4 o'clock, which they did, and the Board ordered the Committee to meet to-day and to report on the 28th inst. There was a general regret among the members that such a course should have been pursued by Aldermen DRAKE and MCCONNELL, and they were not backward in expressing it during the debate. Alderman MCCONNELL said that if any member insinuated that he had a [illegible] at Washington Market, he would pronounce it a falsehood.

The [illegible] Commissioners met yesterday, Mayor WOOD being absent. After some routine business, a petition for payment of the funeral expenses of the late [illegible] ANDERSON, from Mr. FLORENTINE, Jr., was read. Mr. BOWEN thought the Board had no power to pay the amount, as the funeral was managed entirely by a Committee of civilians, and after a short discussion the request was denied. The Board then went into secret session.

The Republican Ward Associations elected last evening their delegates (five each) to the Central Republican Committee for 1858. The elections were conducted quietly and with great unanimity. The Republicans of the City in their several Wards last evening elected delegates to the Central and Young Men's Committees.

Forefathers' Day was observed, last night, with [illegible] ... the old "New-England Society" did in the Astor House [illegible] ... The New-England [illegible] ... held its festival at the [illegible] ... as well as gentlemen partaking in the commemorative exercises. The Jersey City Society, under the Committeeship of H. C. DICKINSON, Esq., and Messrs. GOULD and FISKE, had a good time, too, at Lyceum Hall, in Grand-street,—the élite of that thriving town being present.

The annual ball and promenade concert in aid of the Nursery and Child's Hospital, took place at the Academy of Music last night.

Considerable business of inferior consequence was transacted yesterday in the Court of General Sessions. JAMES J. MOONEY, tried for assault and battery on WILLIAM SCHULTZ, was acquitted. MARY RYAN, charged with robbing a farmer, named ROGERS, from Sag Harbor, of a pocket-book, containing $60, was acquitted. JOHN STEWART and THOMAS WILLIAMS, convicted of grand larceny, were sentenced to three years and six months in the State Prison. CHARLES SCHOCK, for petit larceny, was sentenced to the Penitentiary for six months. HEINRICH BEHM, convicted of grand larceny, was sentenced to the State Prison for two years. Sentences were reserved in several minor cases.

PATRICK VAUGHN, one of the three rowdies who created a disturbance at the Eighth Election District of the Eleventh Ward, while the canvassers were counting the votes of the last charter election, and was shot by Officer VAN TASSEL, died Monday night at the City Hospital. An inquest in the case was commenced yesterday by the Coroner, but owing to the lateness of the hour at which it was begun only two witnesses were examined. These two detail the circumstances very differently from the official statement made by Capt. SQUIRES, of the Precinct where the shooting occurred. A man named CANADY, who was arrested with VAUGHN, still remains in custody. The third voter, it will remembered, escaped and has not yet been arrested.

The General Markets, yesterday, were freely supplied with Breadstuffs. These were sparingly purchased, including Flour, which partially declined 5 cents per barrel. Wheat was nominal in value, while Corn was steady. There was rather more activity in Provisions, at, however, easier prices for Hog products, which were being pressed on the market. Coffee, Molasses and Cotton ruled very quiet. Sugars were in fair request at former rates. Tobacco was less active, yet held with increasing confidence. Freights were heavy and languid.

The people of Staten Island, en masse, attended a meeting at the Lyceum in Stapleton last evening, to discuss the subject of Quarantine removal, with particular reference to legislative action on that subject during the coming Winter at Albany. Extremes met to talk the exciting subject over.

Are We a Decaying Nation?

The London Times, in a recent article, calls attention to numerous marks of age, which, according to it, are making their appearance on the person of our Republic. After a brief exemption from many of the cares and responsibilities, as well as the scars and wrinkles of the nations of the Old World, it discovers in us some of the indications of maturity, and it may be, symptoms of decay. Great cities, with their vicious and indigent masses, living from hand to mouth, are in Europe the sure marks of ripe growth, which may any day commence its downward progress; and have not we our New-York, and Philadelphia, and New-Orleans? In Europe, a desperate competition for the means of livelihood, which throws great multitudes into abject dependence for their daily bread upon the ups and downs of the money market, is one of the characteristics of societies in which age has not only created refinement, but enormous inequalities of condition; and have we not had our "hunger meetings" and bread riots? Wars, and above all, civil wars, are a leading incident in national life. No empire has ever yet, as far as our knowledge goes, marched to its grave without having its path marked by the bloody traces of internecine strife; and are we not now engaged in a war with a rebellious dependency inside our own territory? In eighty years we have assumed the virile toga, wear the beard, are rent by the passions, and can show the scars of manhood. Traits, lineaments, crises, dangers, difficulties, peculiarities both of political and social organization, which, in the Old World, are at once the crown and shame of old nations, whose origin is lost in darkness, and whose history covers many centuries of varied fortunes by flood and field, have settled on us after a career whose commencement men still living can remember. Is there not something monstrous in this precocity? Does not growth so sudden contain within itself the seeds of rapid decay?—are questions which the Times, in its article, rather suggests than asks; but if only for the benefit of the little self-examination it entails, they are worth answering as well as considering.

In commenting upon the social phenomena which we yearly present in such number and variety, we, in America, are apt to overlook one fact for the purpose of excusing our short-comings, which our European critics overlook also for the purpose of increasing the weight of our condemnation. We insist upon dating our national existence from the Revolution, with the view of impressing people with the idea that we are wonderful for our age; they with the view of deepening the public horror of our vices. We plead our youth in extenuation of our follies and imperfections; they urge it as an aggravation of all our sins, both of omission and commission. In stating the simple truth, we may have to sacrifice a little of the pride of to-day, but we shall lay a broader and surer foundation for future glory. Our national life in reality began when the first cargo of emigrants from England landed on the continent. The colonial period was our period of infancy and tutelage. A century and a half of civic broils; of constant war, multifarious dangers, trials and difficulties; conflicts with savage nature and more savage men; of all the cares and responsibilities of government, without its fame or dignity, furnished such a school of political training as no other nation, of either ancient or modern times, ever enjoyed. The Pilgrim Fathers brought with them the seeds which had been ripened in the Old World by the meditation of countless generations of prophets and philosophers, and watered by the blood of countless hosts of martyrs and apostles. It was no new tree they planted here, but it was planted on soil such as it had never struck root in before.

The men of the Revolution, who fought through the seven years' war, and crowned their triumph by the production of a masterpiece of political machinery, were assuredly no tyros in the art of government. To talk of WASHINGTON and JEFFERSON as the heroes of an infant people, is a contradiction in terms. The lofty courage, the unfaltering self-restraint, the ripe and rare wisdom, which called the United States into existence out of the revolutionary chaos, were the virtues of early manhood—manhood softened by adversity, matured by great suffering and great toil, ennobled by the worship of a great principle. Whatever blessings we now enjoy date not from the Declaration of Independence simply, but from the day which first saw town government and common schools established on the Continent, and the first settler defend his home from the incursions of the Indians. National infancy produces great military chiefs, but not great statesmen.

Though ready to antedate our birth so far, we are not yet prepared to admit that we exhibit many of the signs usually supposed to be indicative of decay. We have our great cities to be sure. But the "classes dangereuses" which in Europe make great cities terrible, are not of our creation. The "hunger meetings" were composed of foreigners, whom the misgovernment and decay of others had thrown on our shores. Most Americans born, and most of the emigrants too, find a thousand ways of assuring their daily bread against the vicissitudes of the stock exchange. The residue left in our streets and alleys by the great living tide which yearly rolls over us, are no more an indication of our age or weakness than the mendicants at the door of a palace of the declining fortunes of the owner. The Mormon war is hardly more serious than the whisky riots in Pennsylvania or SHAY's rebellion in Massachusetts. To suppose that it will leave a wrinkle on our face, is to ridiculously overestimate the importance of our foe, and ridiculously underrate the strength of our resources. The Bancroft of the Twentieth Century will tell the story of the strife in about the same space he will devote to the campaigns of Generals ATCHISON and LANE. With half a continent still unreclaimed, and the other half one-quarter peopled, in the enjoyment of boundless prosperity, with a population which doubles itself every twenty years, and no rival within 3,000 miles, it is somewhat amusing to find the braggadocio of BRIGHAM YOUNG, and the political economy of Mayor WOOD, set down as symptoms of approaching dissolution.

From Kansas.

By telegraph we have rather startling news from Kansas, but it is not in such form as to command full credence. It is stated, on the authority of a letter in the St. Louis Democrat, that Gen. LANE was shot at Lecompton on the 15th, in a row growing out of a political controversy with a government official. The letter comes from Leavenworth and is dated the 19th. Of course we have no means of confirming or disproving the truth of the rumor. It is likely enough to be true. What effect LANE's death would have upon public movements in the Territory, it is not easy to say. It is quite certain that much of the embittered agitation which has prevailed there has been excited and kept up by his personal efforts. In case of actual fighting his services would be very valuable to the party with which he acted; but at any other time he was likely to do them more harm than good.

It seems that up to the date of this letter STANTON was still the acting Governor of Kansas, and that he had taken effective measures, in connection with Generals DENVER and HARNEY, to preserve the peace of the Territory. A "rebellion" at Fort Scott, attended with the loss of several lives, is also reported,—but no details are given, nor have we news of it from any other quarter.

We anticipate reports of a disturbed election on Monday. It is said that many were going into the Territory from Missouri to vote,—and the news of STANTON's removal, which probably reached there just upon the eve of the election, could not fail very greatly to exasperate the public mind.

The English and American Press.

The Manchester Guardian, usually a very sober and reliable English newspaper, seems to have been thrown into spasms of very unnecessary horror by the reported demoralization of society in this country. An editorial in its issue for Dec. 2, thus vents its melancholy musings:

> "We find it difficult to believe the reports which are weekly brought over by travelers, of the marvelous progress which the Americans have made in their emancipation from the fetters of an antiquated and strait-laced morality; and, to our minds—trained according to obsolete maxims in the way in which we should go from our national infancy, and by no means disposed to forsake that way in the later years of our national existence—it seems to be incredible that any portion of the human race should manifest so supreme a contempt for all that we have been wont to reverence. When we are told that swindling is looked upon as an almost justifiable and very ordinary mercantile artifice, we find it almost impossible to give credit to such an account of the moral condition of a kindred people. Yet, when we turn to the newspapers, which may be taken as a tolerably fair test of the tone of public morality, we are struck at once by the want of conscience which is displayed in every column, and which speaks volumes for the character both of those who write such sentiments as we there find, and of the public which endures and encourages such publications. It is not merely that here and there such a journal as the New-York Herald—notorious for the immorality of its tone—obtains a certain success; though the fact of the great popularity enjoyed by this newspaper is sadly significant. Throughout the whole, or almost the whole, of the American Press, there is, as compared with the journals of any European country, an absence of moral feeling, and an incapacity to appreciate the dignity of justice, or the reverence due to law, to order, and to the natural laws of right and wrong. Violence of language, coarse vituperation, and ribald abuse, are faults which may be forgiven; for they are faults which the progress of civilization may be expected to correct. But, when the press of any country ceases to manifest a substantial respect for morality, and, at least, a show of regard for public justice and for individual as well as national rights, there can hardly be any sign which augurs worse for the moral condition of the people at large."

The Guardian predicates this sweeping and indiscriminate diatribe upon the solitary fact of General WALKER's second departure for Nicaragua. It quotes from the Herald sundry ridiculous and characteristic suggestions upon the subject; but with this exception, and that of two or three Southern journals notoriously in the fillibuster interest, our indignant cotemporary would find it somewhat difficult to extract from the American press anything that could justify its denunciations.

This sort of abuse from the English press is much less formidable than it used to be. It is confined to a very inferior class of English journals—all the leading newspapers having long since learned that neither justice nor good policy required it. The tone of the London Times, which is preëminently the representative of English journalism, in regard to this country, is now uniformly friendly and appreciative; and it seems scarcely worth while for the respectable provincial press of England to pick up the outgrown and discarded habits of their metropolitan neighbors.

Besides, we are less thin-skinned than we used to be. Our reading classes have learned to acknowledge that we have some faults which censure may help us to reform—and that the abuse which springs from sheer ignorance is not of the slightest consequence. As a general thing, we are inclined to think the moral tone of our press quite as high as that of the English—and we are quite willing to rely upon the evidence afforded by the very instance which the Guardian cites against us.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE FILLIBUSTERS.—Mr. MCKEON seems to be still in office. Our City record narrates an official act on his part performed yesterday, in connection with Marshal RYNDERS, which does not look at all like the performance of a man with his head off.

It seems that intelligence was sent from the State Department at Washington of the intended departure of a vessel from this port with men and munitions of war intended for the army of General WALKER at Nicaragua. The District-Attorney and the Marshal at once adopted measures for her detention, pursued her in a revenue cutter to the Narrows, and brought her back to this port, where she now lies anchored under the guns of the revenue cutter Washington. She proves to be the Alvah, which cleared at the Custom-House on Monday for St. Jago de Cuba, and her owners state that she was conveying materials for the construction of a railroad upon the island of Cuba. The case is to be investigated this morning, when all the facts connected with it will be brought before the public.

How the intelligence of her departure reached Washington, and why the State Department should know her suspicious character before our local authorities, we do not understand. A telegram from the South reports that a vessel having a pleasure party on board was fired upon in the harbor of Mobile, by a revenue cutter, on suspicion of having on board reinforcements for the fillibusters. These displays of vigilance and energy on the part of our Government officers are all very well in their way,—but they come a little too late to be of much practical service.

We observe that Captain CHATARD, of the Saratoga, is very bitterly denounced by the fillibuster press of the South for his alleged hostility to WALKER. As yet, however, this animosity does not seem to have exhibited itself in any very damaging style.

PENNSYLVANIA.—The Philadelphia Press enumerates fifteen of the prominent Democratic Journals of Pennsylvania which oppose the Lecompton movement and sustain the Kansas policy of Messrs. DOUGLAS and WALKER. Nearly every one of those who follow the lead of the President condemn the action of the leaders in the Lecompton Convention and concur in saying that the entire Constitution ought to have been submitted to the popular vote.

Fair of the Mariners' Family Industrial Society.

The Annual Fair of this Society is now being held at the Mariners' Church, corner of Madison and Catharine streets. Yesterday was the first, and to-morrow will be the closing day. The Fair is held in the lecture-room of the Church, which is tastefully decorated with flags, and nautical and floral emblems, arranged by the ladies of the Society. The tables are covered with useful and fancy articles, and each is presided over by a lady. There are Christmas trees covered with good things,—from the boughs of one of them, denominated from the fruit it bears the tree of understanding, depend myriads of little shoes,—there are dead rabbits, not of the riotous kind, but stuffed representatives of the defunct hare, useful as pin-cushions,—there are baskets of all sizes, from minute to monstrous—articles of wearing apparel, made by the widows of sailors—China, books—everything almost that one could wish to purchase just before Christmas. The prices are low, and the object to which the money obtained is devoted is a high one. The Mariners' Family Industrial Society aims to secure remunerative employment to the families of seamen. The sick are visited and relieved, and those who are willing to labor are enabled to. Their handiwork is sold for them at the store of the Society, No. 180 Cherry-street, between Market and Pike streets. The Society has recently furnished a Mariners' Boarding House at No. 173 Cherry-street, where sailors are provided with a comfortable home. The Fair is well worth a visit, and the Society worthy of aid.

News from Rio Janeiro and Buenos Ayres.

By the arrival of the bark Virginia and Estelline at this port, from Bahia, we have dates from Buenos Ayres to Nov. 2, Montevideo Nov. 5, Rio de Janeiro Nov. 11, and Bahia 15th. Everything was quiet at the Rio de la Plata.

The new treaty between Brazil and the Republic of Uruguay had not been ratified, and was strenuously opposed by a large party. It was under the consideration of a Committee of the Legislature.

The Brazilian Minister, Sr. PARANHOS, said to be charged with a special mission to effect a league between the Argentine States against Paraguay, arrived at Parana on the 21st of October. He had a long private interview with General URQUIZA at his estrancia of San José, and had been received with much cordiality.

From Rio de Janeiro there is no news of importance. The Cantagalla Railroad was inaugurrated on the 8th, and the Provincial Government received proposals for another railroad to run from Nitheroby to Compos.

The crisis does not appear to oppress the Brazilians, as the Bank of Brazil had raised the salaries of all its employes.

COMMERCIAL ADVICES.

BUENOS AYRES, Monday, Nov. 2, 1857.

WRECK OF A BRITISH BARK—HER CREW BROUGHT TO NEW-YORK.—The Hamburg ship Donau, Captain MEYER, thirty-two days from Hamburg, with merchandise and 120 passengers, consigned to E. BECK & KUNHARDT, arrived at this port yesterday, having on board the captain and crew (eighteen in number) of the British bark Davenport, Capt. MCKENZIE, of Plymouth, England, who had been picked up at sea. On the 4th inst., in lat. 41° 30', long. 46° 40', Capt. MEYER fell in with the Davenport in a water-logged condition. She cleared from Lubec with a cargo of lumber and deals bound to Cardiff. Capt. MCKENZIE reports that on the 1st of December he experienced a heavy gale of wind from the eastward, and at night the vessel shipped several tremendous seas, which filled her full of water and rendered her wholly unmanageable. The day afterwards, on the 4th of December, he was fallen in with by the Donau, when Capt. MEYER kindly sent his boats, took them all on board his ship and brought them to New-York.

The following is a letter from Captain MCKENZIE to Captain MEYER:

HAMBURG PACKET SHIP DONAU, NEW-YORK,
QUARANTINE, Tuesday, Dec. 22, 1857.

Captain MEYER—Dear Sir: Myself, officers and crew, late of the bark Davenport, of Plymouth, (Eng.,) beg to return our sincere and grateful thanks for the kindness you and your officers have evinced towards us (19 in number) while on board the ship Donau, and also in sending your boat to our rescue while on board the water-logged bark Davenport, thereby endangering the lives of those in the boat, there being a heavy sea running at the time. We trust that God may prosper you and your officers with every happiness and success. We remain, yours, most respectfully, (Signed,) FREDERICK MCKENZIE, Master of bark Davenport, his officers and crew.

REPORTED DEATH OF GEN. LANE—MR. STANTON STILL THE ACTING GOVERNOR—DISTRIBUTION OF TROOPS DURING THE ELECTION—EXPECTED BLOODSHED.

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, Dec. 22.

A letter in the Democrat, dated Leavenworth, 19th inst., says that General LANE was shot at Lecompton on the 15th by a Government official, but does not give his name. The affair grew out of a political discussion. Much excitement prevailed there.

A dispatch received from Boonville this morning says that Major RUSSELL, Capt. VAN VLIET and GEORGE N. SANDERS passed down the river last evening, en route for Washington. They left Leavenworth on the 19th inst.

Mr. STANTON was still the acting Governor, and apparently with approbation. General DENVER and General HARNEY had dispatched two companies of cavalry, upon Mr. STANTON's requisition, to suppress the rebellion at Fort Scott, where several lives had been sacrificed. General HARNEY had also posted troops at Doniphan, Atchison, Kickapoo, Leavenworth, Lawrence and Lecompton.

It is thought that the legitimate vote will be very small; but many Missourians are going into the Territory to vote, which fact, taken in connection with Secretary STANTON's removal, may cause bloodshed at the polls.

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, Dec. 22—P. M.

Kansas advices of the 19th inst. say nothing about General LANE's having been shot. The report is not credited here.

The Case of Donnelly.

TRENTON, Tuesday, Dec. 22.

The Court of Pardons met to-day. Petitions were presented from Washington, Brooklyn, New-York, Buffalo, Newark, Patterson and Monmouth County, signed by 3,000 persons, praying that the sentence of death against DONNELLY be changed to imprisonment for life. The case was presented by the Counsel, when the Court adjourned until to-morrow, 10 o'clock. DONNELLY's father and several members of his family are here. Great interest is felt for the prisoner, and every exertion is being made to have his sentence changed.

Resumption of Telegraphic Communication with Newfoundland.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Monday, Dec. 21.

After a suspension of telegraphic communication with Nova Scotia and the United States for the past fourteen days, in consequence of the impossibility of repairing the lines at the crossings of rivers where it was swept away by the recent floods, we have just succeeded in repairing damages and confidently anticipate a daily communication with New-York for the future.

Arrests on the Charge of Forgery.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, Dec. 22.

FILLIBUSTERS.

The U. S. Government Orders the Bark Alvah to be Detained.

OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

An Exciting Tug-Race—The Alvah Captured in the Lower Bay and Brought Back to Port.

Yesterday forenoon, about 10 o'clock, Mr. MCKEON, United States District-Attorney, received the following letter from the State Department at Washington:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21, 1857.

To John McKeon, Esq., United States District-Attorney, New-York:

SIR: The Department has reason to believe that a vessel named the Alvah is about to leave New-York with persons on board intended for an illegal expedition against Nicaragua. Your attention is invited to the subject, in order that, if the proof which may be obtainable should warrant, the person or persons who may have set on foot the expedition may be prosecuted according to law.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
LEWIS CASS.

Immediately upon the receipt of this information the District-Attorney sent letters to the Collector of the Port, the captain of the United States Revenue Cutter, and to the United States Marshal, invoking their assistance to intercept the suspicious vessel, and prevent any infraction of the laws of the United States. In reply, Mr. MCKEON received the following from the Collector:

CUSTOM-HOUSE, NEW-YORK,
COLLECTOR'S OFFICE, Dec. 22, 1857.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this date relative to the bark Alvah, and in reply, to state that said vessel cleared from this port on yesterday for St. Jago de Cuba. I have instructed Captain HUNTER, who is in command of the revenue-cutter Washington, to prevent her departure from this port if she have not already sailed.

I am, very respectfully,
AUGUSTUS SCHELL, Collector.

Hon. JOHN MCKEON, U. S. Dist. Atty.

The following letter was directed to Marshal RYNDERS:

SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW-YORK,
U. S. DISTRICT-ATTORNEY'S OFFICE,
NEW-YORK, Dec. 22, 1857.

SIR: I have received from the State Department notice that there is reason to believe that a vessel named the Alvah is about to leave New-York with persons on board intended for an illegal expedition against Nicaragua.

I take the liberty of suggesting that you immediately take measures to prevent, if possible, any violation of the laws of the United States. Yours, &c.,
JOHN MCKEON, U. S. District-Attorney.

ISAIAH RYNDERS, Esq., U. S. Marshal, &c.

Capt. RYNDERS had also received a letter from Washington, similar in its import to the one to Mr. MCKEON, and immediately dispatched his deputies to reconnoitre the East and North Rivers and Brooklyn. Mr. NEWMAN, of the District-Attorney's office, also went in search of the Fillibuster, and, with the assistance of a barge and men from Whitehall, ransacked the harbor from the Battery to Greenpoint, without, however, finding any sign of the suspicious craft. The Collector replied to Mr. MCKEON that the Alvah had cleared for St. Jago de Cuba on Monday.

Capt. RYNDERS, after sending off his deputies, started for the Whitehall barge-office. Here he ascertained that a bark, bearing the description of the Alvah, hauled into the stream on Monday, and anchored near Bedlow's Island. No such vessel, however, could now be seen there, and it was evident she must have put to sea under cover of the fog which prevailed early yesterday morning. As not a moment was to be lost, the Marshal hailed the first steam-tug which he saw, and in five minutes more the little steam-tug Pope Catlin was alongside the pier, and the Marshal was on her deck. "Down the bay," said the Captain, with a significant gesture, "and get up all the steam you can." By the aid of the glass two vessels were seen entering the narrows. On the tug steamed in pursuit. Before they had come up with the fugitives, however, they were observed to be a brig and ship, and the captain of the tug considered it useless to proceed further. Captain RYNDERS soon discovered, however, another vessel further down the Bay, in tow of a small steamer. Handing the glass to the captain of the tug, he asked him what kind of a craft that was. "That is a bark," said the captain of the tug. "Then give him chase, and stir up the fires down below," said the Marshal, at the same time descending into the fire-room and aiding with his own hands the firemen to generate more steam. The bark was discovered to be in tow of the steamer R. L. Mabie, a fast tug, and the vessel also had some sail set, so that it began to be doubtful which would win the race.

The Marshal's tug at last got near enough to discover that the bark had a large number of men upon her decks. "What shall we do if they resist us?" inquired the tug-master; "you see they are strong-handed." "Never mind that," replied the Marshal; "lay me alongside of her and I'll bring her to." By this time they had got within hail, when the Marshal sung out to the Captain of the Mabie, "I'll fix you when I get you in New-York to-morrow," and presenting that clenched fist which has so often brought Tammany to a stand-still before now. A signal to stop the engine instantly followed this threat from the Captain, and in another moment the Pope Catlin was abreast of the bark. All hands now stood in silent astonishment on board the bark, apparently wondering what all this should mean. Stepping on to her deck, Captain RYNDERS said, "I am the United States Marshal, and I am here to arrest you." "By what authority?" inquired the bark Captain, who had come forward, and now stood facing the Marshal. "By my own authority, Sir," answered the Marshal, "as an officer of the United States; and I order you to put this vessel's head toward New-York, for I shall carry you back." As it was plain he was in earnest, and not to be trifled with, the Captain surrendered. The vessel was put about, and by 1½ o'clock she was anchored under the guns of the revenue cutter Washington. On the way up the Bay Captain RYNDERS was invited into the cabin, when he was not a little surprised to recognize some familiar faces, among them several ladies, who were the last persons he expected to meet under such circumstances. In fact, the Marshal began half to suspect that there might be some mistake about this fillibuster after all. He first took a glass of champagne with the party on board, and then busied himself in a survey of the vessel, her passengers and equipments. There were 54 passengers on board, besides the crew. On searching the vessel's hold nothing was discovered to show her a fillibuster. The case will be investigated this morning by the United States District-Attorney.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—"Robert le Diable" will be played to-night with LA GRANGE, FORMES, BRIGNOLI, &c., in the cast.

LAURA KEENE'S THEATRE.—The revival of the "Corsican Brothers" at this house on Monday, cannot be considered a success. Indeed the revival altogether was not calculated to this result, for the cast was by no means strong, nor the production in other respects commendable. Mr. JORDAN in the first act was excellent, but subsequently became slow, owing no doubt to the very bad support he received. Mr. WHEATLEIGH, as Chateau Renaud, offered all the resistance that extreme heaviness could impart to a naturally ponderous rôle. The other characters, with the exception of Mme. dei Franchi, by Miss WELLS, were wearisome and beneath notice. The only thing which is really excellent in this revival is a new kind of trap through which the apparition appears. It is the most effective mechanical contrivance of the kind we have ever seen.

Miss KEENE has an old-fashioned Christmas pantomime in preparation, and will present it to her patrons on Thursday evening.

Mayor Tiemann Sworn into Office—Proceedings of the Court.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.

[illegible]

On Monday afternoon, as the Croton Aqueduct case was on, His Honor, Mayor Daniel F. Tiemann, entered the General Term room, accompanied by Corporation Counsel Mr. Richard Busteed.

During a pause in the argument, Mr. Busteed asked if the Court would do him the favor to suspend the hearing of the case for a moment. Mr. Tiemann, the Mayor elect, was present, and desired to take his oath of office.

The Court assented, and the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice [illegible], descended from the bench for the purpose of administering the oath. Mr. Officer Berthoff handed the Bible to Mr. Tiemann, and his Honor administered the oath in the usual form; the Mayor swearing to support the Constitutions of the United States and State of New-York, and to well and truly perform all the duties of the office of Mayor of this City. (This proceeding is a new one. Heretofore the new Mayor has been sworn in on New-Year's Day by the retiring Mayor. But the new Charter provides for the "swearing in" on or before the 1st of January.

After the ceremony was performed, the Judges shook hands with the new Mayor, congratulating him on his election, and wishing him a successful and pleasant reign. His certificate was signed, and the ordinary business of the Court was resumed.

☞ The little girl, aged 12, of SMITH RULAND, of Patchogue, L. I., went early to school, on Monday morning, and helped to make the fire. Very soon after her clothes took fire. Rushing into the street, Mr. WILLIAM J. HENTON, who was passing, tore off his coat and wrapped it around her, thus smothering the fire and saving the girl's life. She was so badly burned, however, that little hope was entertained of her recovery. She was a remarkably bright child, and all her neighbors grieve over the sad misfortune.

☞ Colored Grammar School No. 1 gave a satisfactory concert and exhibition last evening, under the musical direction of Prof. G. W. PETIT. Recitations, dialogues, songs in great variety, composed the entertainment, which was well attended and much enjoyed.

☞ The election for officers of the Mercantile Library Association of Brooklyn takes place to-day. COAL LANDS ABOVE CARBONDALE.—Capt. BRENNAN has developed upon his lands, north of Carbondale, three veins of Anthracite—yielding 21 feet of pure Coal—equal in quality to any found in the country. He has thus been rewarded for his laborious investigations in a field whence no coal has yet been marketed, and where it was generally supposed none existed worth the working.

Capt. B. expects to arrange with the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company to transport this Coal, which he computes by millions of tons; and it is probable that said important concern will soon be called on to increase its capacity to meet the pressing calls of this Northern coal field.

HOLIDAYS—"COMING EVENTS."

"I laid me down and slept on the floor,
And had a most wonderful dream;
For coming events cast their shadows before,
Or rather—a column of steam."

Among the "coming events" near at hand are CHRISTMAS and NEW-YEAR; and the "column of steam" seen by the dreamer must have risen from the URNS and TEA POTS of many a happy family, gathered round the social board.

I offer my fine assortment of PLATED and BRITANNIA GOODS for the holidays at retail, NOT "at a ruinous sacrifice," but at as low prices as the same quality of ware can be bought at wholesale—PLATED COFFEE URNS, TEA SETS, CAKE BASKETS, CASTERS, PITCHERS, SPOONS, FORKS, BUTTER KNIVES, CHILDREN'S CUPS, &c. Also, BRITANNIA WARE of superior quality, for sale at the well-known stand, Nos. 4 and 6 Burling-slip. LUCIUS HART.

BROOKLYN MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.
A CARD.

The undersigned observe their names published, in to-day's Times, as candidates for office in the above-named Association, on a ticket headed HENRY HILL for President.

While they feel deeply sensible of the honor conferred upon them, and highly appreciate the kindness and good feeling of those gentlemen who have done them the honor to mention their names in so distinguished a connection, they feel it a duty which they owe as honorable men, to give notice that having been nominated on the REGULAR TICKET, headed LEWIS ROBERTS for President, they will use what influence they may have to ensure the success of that ticket. HARPER & BROTHERS,
Nos. 327 to 335 Pearl-st., (Franklin-square,)
Publish This Day:
LUCY HOWARD'S JOURNAL.
By Mrs. L. H. SIGOURNEY,
Author of "Letters to Mothers," "Letters to Young Ladies," "Myrtis," "Pocahontas," &c., &c.
12mo., muslin, 75 cents.

From the North American.

Mrs. Sigourney's writings are so pure, so refined, and appeal so directly to the best feelings of the heart, that they will ever hold a prominent place in our literature while these qualities are esteemed. But few modern writers have done more good with the pen, and we trust she may long be preserved for future usefulness.

HARPER & BROTHERS
Have just Published:
THE POETS OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

Selected and edited by Rev. ROBERT ARIS WILLMOTT. With English and American additions, arranged by EVERT A. DUYCKINCK, editor of "Cyclopædia of American Literature." Comprising selections from the greatest authors of the age. Superbly illustrated with 132 engravings, from designs by the most eminent artists. In elegant small 4to form, printed on superfine tinted paper, richly bound in extra cloth beveled, gilt edges, price $5.

DR. LIVINGSTONE'S SOUTH AFRICA.

MISSIONARY TRAVELS AND RESEARCHES IN SOUTH AFRICA—including a Sketch of Sixteen Years' Residence in the Interior of Africa, and a Journey from the Cape of Good Hope to Loando on the West Coast; thence across the Continent, down the River Zambesi, to the Eastern Ocean. A PRESENT FOR YOUR FRIENDS IN THE COUNTRY.

SENT, POSTAGE PAID, WITHOUT ADDITIONAL COST TO THE PURCHASER.

THE POETS OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.—Comprising Selections from English and American Authors. Superbly Illustrated with 132 Engravings, from exquisite Designs, by the most eminent artists. In elegant small 4to form, printed on superfine Tinted Paper, richly bound in extra Cloth beveled, gilt edges. Price Five Dollars.

From the Philadelphia Press.

By far the most beautiful gift-book of the year. Its covers are gleaming with purple and gold; its typography is delicate, on hot-pressed, cream-colored paper, and its many engravings, by the first artists in England and America, are exquisitely engraved and worked. It has a value beyond mere beauty, however, for the taste which has guided two accomplished minds in the selection of pieces has produced a collection of some of the finest poetry of the age. Mr. Willmott has labored with judgment and poetical feeling among the poets of the Old Country, and Mr. Duyckinck has been equally zealous and fortunate among those of America. The result, therefore, is a volume of sufficient permanent value, despite its delicate beauty, to take a place in the library as well as on the drawing-room table.

From the Christian Observer.

Rich and gorgeous in every respect.

From the Boston Post.

It is as handsome as it is good.

From the Correspondent of the National Intelligencer.

The selections are made with consummate taste.

HARPER & BROTHERS will send this work by mail, securely enveloped in thick wrappers, postage paid, anywhere in the United States on receipt of Five Dollars.

WITHOUT A RIVAL.
THE MOST SUPERBLY ILLUSTRATED BOOK OF THE DAY.

THE POETS OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY. Comprising selections from English and American authors. Superbly illustrated with 132 engravings from exquisite designs by the most eminent artists. In elegant small 4to form, printed on superfine tinted paper, richly bound in extra cloth beveled, gilt edges; price Five Dollars.

"Here let the lover of splendid books pause content. Luxury of paper, type, and illustration, skill, taste, and art could not surpass this volume; and when this dress is the clothing of the gems of literature, the most exquisite thoughts of modern poetry, certainly the book hunter may be satisfied with it. For a gift, in this season of gifts, for a never-wearying ornament of the drawing-room table—a never-failing source of entertainment to lovers of the beautiful in poetry or in art—a never-ceasing subject of conversation—and an unfailing suggester of pleasant thought and pleasant talk, this book has no rival."

"WE WANT WING'S," IS THE DAILY request when ordering CRACKERS for CHRISTMAS and NEW-YEAR.

WING'S FARINA CRACKERS combine most excellent qualities, and a truly delightful taste.

They are undoubtedly the most nourishing and healthy Cracker ever produced, and peculiarly pleasant for children.

With hot and cold dishes at lunch, they are particularly nice, as well as with coffee and other drinks.

Ask for WING'S CRACKERS, and take none but those which are stamped with the name of WING.

For the convenience of purchasers, we give the names of some of our best merchants, in different locations, who sell them:

LOST AND FOUND.

$20 REWARD—IF THE FOLLOWING PAPER is returned before the 28th inst.: Notice is hereby given, that I intend to apply to the Comptroller of the City of New-York, on the 28th December next, for a new certificate of Central Park Stock, in lieu of certificate No. 315 of said stock, issued June 3, 1856, for $2,700, payable to me, with interest at 6 per cent. from Feb. 5, 1855, which last-mentioned certificate, No. 315, was lost, destroyed or stolen at the recent fire No. 88 William-st., in this City.—Dated Dec. 16, 1857. JOHN F. J. DERAISMES, No. 99 William-st.

$50 REWARD.—LOST AT OR IN THE VICINITY of the Academy of Music, on Saturday evening, 19th inst., a gentleman's small DIAMOND BREASTPIN, a single square or cushion stone, set in gold, Gothic pattern, with blue enamel—to which was attached a small guard chain and pin, with ruby head. The pin was valued more as a keepsake than for its real worth. Whoever may have found it, and will return the same to the owner, No. 64 Dey-st., shall receive the above reward.

LOST—CERTIFICATE NO. 1,128, DATED NEW-YORK, Nov. 23, 1857, for 100 shares of the capital stock of the Brunswick City Land Company, in the name of NATHANIEL BINNS, of New-York. The public are hereby cautioned against negotiating the same, and the finder will be rewarded on returning it to MEIGS & GREENLEAF, No. 23 William-st., New-York.

$5 REWARD.—LOST, ON WEDNESDAY, THE 16th inst., a PROMISSORY NOTE, No. 1,367, drawn by Hermann Wendt to the order of Edward Corning & Co., at four months from Nov. 3, 1857, for $345 24, and payable at the Chemical Bank. As the payment has been stopped, the note is of no value except to the lawful owners. The finder will receive the above reward on returning it to No. 81 John-st.

LOST OR MISLAID—A NOTE DRAWN BY Crane, Boylston & Co., dated July 30, 1857, at 5 mos., for $1,732 06, payable to their order and indorsed by them. Payment is stopped. A reward will be paid for returning the same to JOHNSONS & HAMILTON, No. 36 Chambers-st.

$5 REWARD.—LOST OR STOLEN, AN ORDER on the Corporation of the City of Brooklyn for $600, made and indorsed by Dana, Lindsey & Field, Dec. 6, 1857, for grading and paving Vielt-st. The above reward paid and no questions asked.
THOS. McLEALAND, No. 322 2d-av.

THE HOLIDAY FREE GIFTS.
No. 293 Broadway.

Among all the temptations to lay out your money
For self, wife, or sister, or daughter, or sonny,
If you search all "Gotham," you cannot find any
That will pay half so well as those offered by RANNEY.

Splendid holiday books, marked at publishers' prices,
He proffers to all—and what makes it so nice is,
Of magnificent gifts he displays a long column,
One of which is presented with every volume.

It may be a watch, or a ring, or a locket,
But whatever it is, you are so much in pocket;
The books you will find each carefully numbered,
And you may gain a dollar or may gain a hundred.

Works of fiction, late travels, late histories of nations,
Biographies, Poems, with rare illustrations,
And elegant bindings—a peerless collection—
At RANNEY'S you'll find; call and make your selection.

REGULAR NOMINATIONS OF THE MERCANTILE ASSOCIATION OF THE CITY OF BROOKLYN.—The Committee appointed to nominate officers of this Association, having been instructed to publish the result of their deliberations previous to the time of election, respectfully submit the following report:

In selecting names to be proposed for the suffrages of the members of the Association, the Committee have been more embarrassed by the large number of those whose personal character and standing in the public [illegible] would abundantly guarantee the efficient discharge of the duties assigned them, than by any other circumstance. It would have been far easier to make a list of thirty or forty good names than to select from that number the fourteen required to constitute the first board. Discrimination, however, was absolutely necessary, and in making it the Committee have been mainly influenced by considerations already given of personal interest in the enterprise, and of which the work already done was the best criterion and only measure within their reach. [illegible] has been the aim of the Committee so far as possible to represent, in the management of the association, all the districts of the City and the several leading classes most interested in the establishment and maintenance of such an institution, viz.: the young merchants, clerks, mechanics, and professional men of Brooklyn.

None can be more sensible than the Committee of the fact that there are more good names left off the ticket than it contains. It is their consolation, however, that those names will keep—and keep good; and that in the long and brilliant future which we confidently anticipate for our enterprise other and frequent opportunities will be afforded for securing the benefit of all the talent and all the energy of its numerous members.

With these explanations the Committee respectfully submit the following nominations:

For President—Lewis Roberts, merchant, No. [illegible] st., New-York. House No. 321 Henry-st.

For Vice-President—Henry Hill, merchant, No. [illegible] Broad-st., New-York. House No. [illegible]

For Corresponding Secretary—Charles S. Farley, clerk with L. W. Thomas & Co., No. 60 Broadway, New-York. House No. 10 Pacific-st.

For Recording Secretary—George E. Bowman, clerk with Lawrence, Scott & Co., No. 41 Broadway, New-York. House No. [illegible]

For Treasurer—Henry P. Journeay, [illegible] Journeay & Burnham, No. 146 Atlantic-st.

For Additional Directors—James Raymond, builder, No. 6 Dean-st.

Norman D. Sampson, merchant, No. 279 Washington-st., New-York. House No. 128 Columbia-st.

D. Lansing Lambert, clerk with Ed. Lambert & Co., No. 170 William-st., New-York. House Clinton-st.

Lebbeus Chapman, Jr., lawyer, No. 20 Wall-st., New-York. House No. 263 Livingston-st.

Charles H. Marvin, clerk with Charles R. Marvin, No. 27 William-st., New-York. House No. 8 Schermerhorn-st.

William T. Gellatly, merchant, No. 170 William-st., New-York. House No. 335 Henry-st.

Gilbert L. Haight, clerk in American Exchange Bank, New-York. House No. 61 State-st.

J. Lawrence [illegible], merchant, No. 29 Front-st., New-York. House No. 225 Livingston-st.

William E. Bliss, clerk with Rawdon, Wright, Hatch & Edson, No. 48 Merchant's Exchange, New-York. House No. 42 Smith-st.

For Inspectors of Election—Edward M. Broughton, J. Seeley Ward, James H. Slipper.

The election will take place at the Athenæum, on Wednesday, 30th instant. The polls will be open from 8 to 10 A. M., and from 4 to 9 P. M. Members are required to subscribe the constitution and to pay the initiation fee and first dues, before voting. The Treasurer pro tem. Mr. Gould H. Thorp will be in attendance at the polls during the day.

BROOKLYN MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.
A Card.

The undersigned observe their names published in today's TIMES as candidates for office in the above Association, on a ticket headed HENRY HILL for President.

While they feel deeply sensible of the honor conferred upon them, and highly appreciate the kindness and good feeling of those gentlemen who have done them the honor to mention their names in so distinguished a connection, they feel it is a duty which they owe as honorable men, to give notice that, having been nominated on the Regular Ticket, headed LEWIS ROBERTS for President, they will use what influence they may have to insure the success of that ticket.

(Signed.)
HENRY HILL,

LEBBEUS CHAPMAN, Jr.
BROOKLYN, Dec. 22, 1857. FREDERICK C. FARLEY.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION OF BROOKLYN.—The undersigned members of the Committee upon Independent Nominations feel called upon to reply to the cards of the nominees, published in last evening's papers.

We would ask these gentlemen, whose names are affixed to the first card, and who are also nominated upon the regular ticket, what authority the regular Nominating Committee had for using their names; and also, what is the usual plan for such nominations in similar institutions?

Also notice the fact, that the gentlemen who sign the second card do not deny our right to nominate them, and though they are pledged to the regular ticket, they do not decline to run upon the Independent ticket, or to serve if elected.

These being the facts, we request your support for the Independent ticket, begging leave to assure you that we are actuated by no personal motives, and have only the ultimate good of the Association in view; and agreeing with the Regular Committee, that there are more good names off their ticket than on it; and we now offer, at the request of many members, the ticket published yesterday.

An additional and strong reason for this is that certain friends of a candidate for the Presidential nomination canvassed the City for names to a paper soliciting his nomination for that office, and thus forestalled the action of that Committee. Many members not being satisfied with that nomination ask for another name, and request us their Committee to nominate another. For that nomination we have selected HENRY HILL, a gentleman eminently fitted for the post, and who will, if elected, fill the station with credit to himself and honor to the Association.

We do not recognize the justice or propriety of lodging within the custody of five men the very questionable power of selecting officers for the Association, and of making their choice of men a finality for all the important trusts which the Association has the privilege of conferring.

We claim that before the regular nomination was publicly announced, it should have received the sanction of a greater number of members than five men.

In conclusion, we would urge upon all who desire the success of the Institution to vote the independent ticket.

We voluntarily and distinctly exonerate every candidate who is upon the regular ticket, and also upon the independent ticket, from any connection with our movements in reference to the nominations.

from ordinary rates for Cash. Parties about purchasing will find it to their advantage to call and examine our Pianos before buying elsewhere.

PIANOS, NEW AND SECOND-HAND, AT GREAT BARGAINS.

The best circular-scale pianos, with full iron frame and modern improvements. Every piano warranted. J. & C. FISCHER, 325 Broadway, opposite Broadway Theatre.

GOLD-MEDAL GRAND AND SQUARE PIANOS.—STEINWAY & SONS, Manufacturers, No. 84 Walker-st., near Broadway, New-York, were awarded the First Premium where and whenever they brought their Piano-Fortes into competition with the best makers of Boston, New-York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Received the two First Prize Medals at the Metropolitan Fair, Washington, 1855.

The First Premium, a Gold Medal, for the best Piano-Forte at the American Institute, Crystal Palace, New-York, 1855.

The First Premium, a Gold Medal, for the best Piano-Forte at the Maryland Institute, Baltimore, 1856.

The First Prize Medal for the best Piano-Forte at the American Institute, Crystal Palace, New-York, 1856.

The First Premium, a Gold Medal, for the best Grand Piano at the Maryland Institute, Baltimore, 1857.

The First Premium at the State Fair, Detroit, 1857.

The First Premium at the State Fair, Richmond, 1857.

Among the Judges were the first musical talent of the country, such as W. Mason, Gottschalk, Wollenhaupt, &c. Grand and Square Pianos constructed with the full wooden and iron frame combined, are warranted for three years, and will now be sold at greatly reduced prices to suit the times.

GOLD MEDAL PIANO-FORTES.—THE highest premium awarded by the American Institute in 1857; also medals for 1855 and 1856. The Gold Medal Premium has this year been awarded to the Pianos of SCHUETZE & LUDOLFF, No. 452 Broome-st., New-York, over those sent from Boston, Albany and Troy, as well as many others from this City. For strength and sweetness combined, the pianos of these gentlemen have never been surpassed. They are full, soft and rich, yet forcible, and easy to the touch. In external appearance, too, they are second to none, being highly finished, and elegant in form. In short, they are thoroughly excellent, and the public has already seconded the decision of the judges.

SCHUETZE & LUDOLFF, No. 452 Broome-st.

19 PIANO-FORTES TO BE SOLD AT 10 per cent. less than the cost of manufacturing, to close the business by the 1st of January. The above instruments will be sold at an immense sacrifice for cash. Among them are 7-octave, with plain and fancy cases; also double rounds, carved, inlaid, and ornamented, with solid pearl keys, finished in the most superb style, and will be sold for less than the price of an ordinary plain piano. Every instrument warranted. Those wishing to purchase will do well to call at the manufactory Nos. 71, 73, and 75 East 22d-st., near Lexington-av., before purchasing. No reasonable offer refused.

PIANOS FOR HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—J. GILBERT & CO.'S Pianos can be bought between this and the first of January, very low for cash, by applying at the warerooms Nos. 419 and 421 Broadway, corner Canal-st. This is the only place in New-York where the above make can be had with our late improvements, the new action and scale. We have an entire new stock. Pianos to let.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF PILOTS,
No. 60 SOUTH-ST., NEW-YORK, Nov. 27, 1857.

PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED BY the undersigned, Commissioners of Pilots, for the repairs to Piers and Bulkheads, as hereinafter specified. The work to be done pursuant to the provisions of Section 11 of the Act of the Legislature of the State of New-York, entitled "An Act to Establish Regulations for the Port of New-York," passed April 10th, 1857, under the supervision of the undersigned, or any one he may appoint, and for the account and at the expense and risk of the owners of said Piers and Bulkheads, to whom the contractors will look for payment.

All proposals to be signed by the contractors, with two sureties satisfactory to the Commissioners, and addressed to the Commissioners of Pilots, and submitted on or before the 15th day of December, 1857.

The following is a list of the Piers and Bulkheads referred to above:

East River—Nos. 28, 29, 40, 41, 43, 44, 46 and 51.

North River—Nos. 35, 45, 46, 49, 50 and 51.

The Commissioners reserve the right, after the proposals for repairs are made, to repair or not, either the whole of the Piers advertised or a part of them, as they may deem best for the public interest.

RUSSELL STURGIS,
President of the Board of Commissioners of Pilots.

Proposals for the above work will be received until the 20th of December, 1857.

JOY TO THE AFFLICTED.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU,

For nervous and debilitated sufferers, and removes all the symptoms, viz: Loss of power, loss of memory, general weakness, dimness of vision, languor and universal lassitude of the muscular system, temporary suffusion, loss of sight, inability, &c.

If these symptoms are allowed to go on, (which this medicine invariably removes,) soon follow fatuity and epileptic fits. Who can say that these excesses are not frequently followed by those direful diseases—Insanity and Consumption?

The records of Insane Asylums, and the melancholy deaths by Consumption, bear ample witness of the truth of this assertion.

With woful measures, wan Despair,
Low sullen sounds his grief beguiled.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU gives
Health and vigor to the frame,
And bloom to the pallid cheek.

If you are suffering from any of the above distressing ailments, procure the remedy at once.

Evidence of the most reliable and responsible character open to the inspection of all.

Price $1 per bottle, or six for $5, delivered to any address.

WASHINGTON MARKET CORRUPTION CASE.

Meeting of the Special Committee—Curious Proceedings—Abrupt Postponement of the Investigation.

Action of the Board of Aldermen—The Investigation must not be Delayed.

BREAD TO BE SOLD BY WEIGHT.

THE WASHINGTON MARKET COMMITTEE MEETING.

The Committee appointed specially to investigate the charges against the City Inspector, Aldermen and Councilmen in relation to the disposal of the land on the west side of Washington Market for market stands, adjourned to meet yesterday at 2 P. M.

At that hour Alderman Blunt, the Chairman, was present, and was proceeding to examine Mr. Fielder [illegible]

Mr. Morton, the City Inspector, arose and said—Mr. Chairman: Yesterday I chose to permit myself to be called in this matter for the reason that had I refused to do so, it might have placed me in a false position. But at the same time I would desire the parties making these charges, in justice to myself,—I am entitled to know whether the [illegible] this Committee are in reference to [illegible] whether it is to the general [illegible] the grounds west of Washington Market. I [illegible] whether it is in reference to the matters [illegible] occurred since the commencement of my administration; or what occurred before that [illegible] that I had received no books showing the condition of the Markets, and that my [illegible] such [illegible] that I could not give time to these matters; and I could not assume the responsibility connected with the Markets prior to my administration, nor of the conclusions of the Common Council. These things have a remote bearing upon the charges against myself, and the Committee [illegible] responsible for them. Yesterday, I think, the Chairman seemed to be prejudiced, or rather to display a spirit of unkindness towards myself, although I always entertained the most kindly feelings towards him, and believed he did to me. But as these charges involve my character, I think it is right that I should know precisely my position with reference to this examination. Mr. Fielder spoke of having purchased a stand some three years ago. Now I do not know who bought or sold them, nor could I know. But certainly there was no abuse in it, I had anything to do with. Then there was another irregularity, I noticed. When Alderman Adams came in, he made a very unbecoming remark, as he made it in view of not having been present when I gave my testimony. If I remember, there was only one member present at that time. I was caused to be sworn then, and I did it cheerfully, because, if I had not, I had an idea that it would have been prejudicial to me. Nor did I think the remark of Alderman Adams in place, he having no knowledge of what had been done. Now I think, in justice to myself, that I am entitled to have a majority of the Committee present.

Alderman Blunt—In the first place, in regard to the [illegible] of the President of the Committee, I do not think you have any right to make such a remark. I stated that I was going to investigate this thing thoroughly. I am going to ferret it out to the very bottom, and wherever it rests upon there let it rest; and with regard to the majority of the Committee, if they do not choose to come here I am not going to send for them—that's all about it. They are in the other room, and they know the Committee is in session.

Mr. Morton—It is due to myself and to the Committee, and every one, that there should be a majority of the Committee present to decide upon all questions.

Alderman Blunt—Then proceed to preside.

Mr. Morton—Are not the rest of the Committee to be present? There are members of the Committee outside, I understand.

Alderman Blunt—If the gentleman understands so, he can write them in if he has a mind.

Alderman McConnell now entered the Committee room, and took his seat beside Alderman Blunt.

Mr. Morton—May I ask the Chairman if the business before this Committee is in reference to the petition before it?

Alderman Blunt—Is Mr. Brennan here? (No response.) Is Mr. Sands Crawford here?

Mr. Crawford answered.

Alderman Blunt—Mr. Crawford, please to answer as a witness. Mr. Crawford was sworn.

Alderman McConnell—I object to receiving testimony, unless there is a majority of the Committee present.

Enter Alderman Drake.

Alderman Blunt—Mr. Crawford, have you a stand at Washington Market.

Mr. H. E. Barnes—Mr. Chairman, I appear here for Mr. M. T. Green, and he desires that a majority of the Committee should be present.

Alderman Drake—(Who had not taken his seat)—I would like to ask a question. Has any person been examined by the Chairman alone?

Alderman Blunt—Yes, Sir; at the meeting yesterday.

Alderman Drake—Then I move that he be stricken out.

Alderman Blunt—We will not question that.

Alderman McConnell—The Chairman has been swearing witnesses and taking testimony alone.

Alderman Drake—I would like to know who the stands belong to. I had supposed that a Committee of Five had been appointed to investigate this matter. If one man is to conduct it, it is not necessary for the rest of us to come here.

Alderman Blunt—What is the motion?

Alderman Drake—The motion is, whether the Chairman is to examine witnesses without a majority of the Committee.

Alderman Blunt put the motion, and Aldermen McConnell and Drake voting in the negative, it was lost, making the presence of three members necessary.

Alderman Drake—Now, I move we adjourn to one week from Wednesday.

The motion was carried, Aldermen McConnell and Drake voting for it.

Alderman Blunt—I will proceed with the examination myself. He then called over the names of a number of witnesses, but, as the other Aldermen had declared the meeting adjourned, they had left, and so Alderman Blunt could not proceed.

Soon afterward, Aldermen Adams and Hoffmire came in, and when they heard what had been done, declared they would bring the matter before the Board of Aldermen, at 4 o'clock.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN—SAME SUBJECT CONTINUED—ACTION REVERSED.

The Board of Aldermen met at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, President Clancy in the Chair. The report in favor of increasing the salary of the Superintendent of Sanitary Inspection to $2,500 came up, and, after some debate, in which all agreed that Mr. Downing had faithfully performed the duties of his office, the report was accepted, and the resolution adopted.

The resolution, appropriating $10,000 to pay the expenses of the Mayor's law-suits, came up again, and was laid over for another day.

Alderman Hoffmire then rose to a question of privilege. A Committee had been appointed to investigate certain charges in relation to corruption in the disposal of the land on the west side of Washington Market. The charges were against the City Inspector and some of the Aldermen and Councilmen. They were serious, and the Committee had commenced the investigation, when certain members of the Committee entered the Committee-room and postponed the investigation to one week from Wednesday, which was tantamount to a final adjournment, as there would not be sufficient time after that date to complete the investigation before the term of the Board would expire. He thought such action was wrong, and wished to call the attention of the Board to it.

Alderman Blunt said the Committee had held one meeting, at which important testimony was elicited.

Alderman McConnell objected to the statement, and said the Committee had not held a meeting. There had not been a quorum present.

Alderman Drake said he didn't have a notice to attend. The Chairman undertook to call witnesses, and examine them on his own account, and he objected to that.

Alderman Hoffmire.—The charge is that there are members of this Board now holding stands on that land west of the Market, and I think the sooner the truth is known the better. Why members should exhibit a disposition to delay the investigation, I am not able to understand, on any theory consistent with a high appreciation of the character of the Board, and the entire innocence of all its members of the charge preferred.

Alderman Drake—The gentleman from the Fifth (Alderman Hoffmire) seems to take great interest—feels very anxious about this matter. I don't know whether he has a stand there or not. The Chairman of the Committee. His name is Blunt.

Alderman McSpedon (in the Chair)—The gentleman must confine himself to the subject.

Alderman McConnell—The gentleman (Alderman Blunt) has taken it upon himself to call witnesses and take testimony when there was not a majority of the Committee present, and he objected to such a course.

Alderman Adams—Mr. President, I move that the Committee be discharged.

Alderman Blunt—The way we stand at present we cannot go on—it amounts to the same as a discharge. We cannot do any business. We have had one meeting, and there was a large number of witnesses present. We took a great deal of testimony. To-day we were going on again, when Alderman Drake came in and made a motion to adjourn the investigation to one week from Wednesday.

Alderman Drake—I object to the gentleman going on. I rise to a point of order. There is no motion before the Board.

The President (Alderman McSpedon)—The gentleman's point of order is not well taken.

Alderman Drake—I never made a point of order that was well taken. (Laughter.)

Alderman Blunt—As the matter stands, the Committee is as good as discharged.

Alderman Tucker—I hope the Committee will not be discharged. Why are gentlemen so sensitive this matter if it is all right? If the gentlemen forming a portion of the Committee don't choose to attend, let them stay away. I would proceed alone, and if the Board would not receive my report I would publish it in the newspapers. To delay the investigation is to prevent it. Postpone it a week! Why I hope that by the expiration of that time this Board will be no more.

Alderman McConnell—If gentlemen mean to intimate that I have a stand in Washington Market, I say it is false; and I object to any one member of a Committee taking it upon himself to conduct an investigation for the whole.

Alderman Fullmer—I was in the Committee-room during the meeting yesterday, and, after hearing some of the testimony, I made a rough calculation, and concluded that about $30,000 had been divided somewhere. I am satisfied that Mr. Morton, the City Inspector, desires that the investigation should proceed without delay. I believe he courts a thorough investigation, and I have no doubt his conduct in relation to this matter will bear the closest scrutiny. It is charged that Aldermen have stands there, and I am anxious that that charge should be investigated. If it is not, the public will charge that there is collusion between the Aldermen and the City Inspector, in this matter, to prevent investigation. The charges are grave charges. The affidavits in the hands of the Committee charge that there are Aldermen who have stands there, and that they have made many dollars by the operation.

Alderman McConnell—I don't think there are any affidavits charging any Alderman with having made money by the operation.

Alderman Fullmer—I say I saw the affidavits; and my Ward will go quite as far as yours. I saw them, and I think the sooner the matter is thoroughly investigated the better.

Alderman Adams—I moved for a discharge of the Committee. I am a member of that Committee, and I was there at the meeting. I don't shrink from any duty. I want the matter to be investigated, and would prefer that it proceed, if it can, with a fair hope of a successful termination. I am ready to take any course, and will therefore withdraw the motion.

Alderman Drake—I would.

President—(Alderman Clancy having just taken the chair)—What is the question before the Board?

Several Members—Nothing.

President.—Then the gentleman is out of order.

Alderman Drake.—Of course, I thought that would be the decision.

After some miscellaneous business had been transacted, Alderman Coulter offered a resolution in relation to the same subject. It was in effect, that two more members be added to the Special Committee having the Washington Market charges under investigation; that the Committee be directed to meet to-morrow (to-day, Wednesday,) and that they report on the 28th inst.

Alderman Blunt—I hope the resolution will pass. It is an important matter, and we ought to proceed with the investigation. I had determined to investigate it thoroughly, but if it is delayed it cannot be done. There are a great many witnesses who have been notified to attend, and I have no doubt a great deal of very important testimony in relation to the charges may be elicited from them.

Alderman Owens—I think the passage of that resolution would add to the present embarrassment of the investigation. I hope the resolution will be passed without adding to the present number of the Committee, and that they will meet to-morrow.

Alderman Coulter—I offered the resolution because I have heard that there are charges which should be cleared up without delay, and I thought it could be done by following the plan proposed in the resolution.

Alderman Tucker—I hope the resolution will not be passed. There are those men on the Committee who will not meet, and if you add to the number you will make it worse, as it will be more difficult to get a quorum.

Alderman McSpedon—I think the investigation should go on without delay, and I move to strike out the addition to the Committee and make it read that they meet to-morrow, (Wednesday,) at 2 P. M., and proceed with the investigation, and that the Committee report on the 28th inst.

The motion to strike out was carried, and the resolution was adopted—Aldermen Drake and McConnell voting in the negative.

CARRIAGE-HIRE FOR MEMBERS.

The report of the Committee, allowing $100 a year, for 1856 and 1857, to members of the Common Council for carriage-hire, while on Committee duty, was taken up.

Alderman Tucker opposed it.

Alderman McSpedon said the present Board was not, in that particular, like some of the former Boards. The members had not gone out riding in carriages at night and charged the expense to the City. If they had he would have opposed the report. There were many gentlemen on Committees that rendered it absolutely necessary for them to travel about the City a great deal. He had a great deal of riding to do himself, as a member of the Board, and he had been obliged to use his own horses. He thought the allowance was not exorbitant, as it could not exceed $100 a year, and therefore he would favor the report.

The report was then accepted, and the resolution adopted by a vote of 14 to 3, Aldermen Tucker, Blunt and Owens voting in the negative.

BREAD TO BE SOLD BY WEIGHT.

The ordinance from the Board of Councilmen directing the sale of bread by weight was called up, and partially read.

Alderman Adams moved its reference to the Committee on Almshouses, as there was a baker on that Committee.

Alderman Tucker hoped it would not be referred, as it was an important matter, and he thought it could be acted on then.

Alderman McSpedon thought there was no necessity for a reference. It had been freely investigated in the Councilmen. It was not fixing the price of bread; it was only deciding that it should be sold by weight, like sugar, and tea, and cakes, and crackers.

Alderman Hoffmire did not intend to oppose the report. He had been asked by several bakers to let them have a hearing when the subject should come up. He desired that a Special Committee should be appointed to investigate the matter.

Alderman Fullmer could not see what could be gained by a reference; and he feared the shortness of the time remaining would prevent a report.

Alderman Adams had not thought of the near approach of the close of the session, when he moved the reference. He would now withdraw a motion for a reference.

The motion to concur was then put and carried by a unanimous vote. The Board then ajourned to this evening at 3 o'clock.

Sea and Ship News.

An American Captain Drowned.—The American ship Coronet, Capt. Cousens, arrived at Falmouth, England, Nov. 28, from the Chincha Islands, and reports having spoken, on the 17th of November, in lat. 42° 04', N., lon. 31° W., the Liverpool ship Anglo-Saxon, bound for Melbourne, having on board Captain Goodwin, and the crew of the bark Calcutta, of London, bound from Quebec to Dartmouth, which was water-logged, Nov. 8th. These, with three men and two women who were left on board the Anglo-Saxon by the steam-tug which towed her out of the river, were transferred to the Coronet. On the 30th the second officer of the lost bark Calcutta was being put ashore at Falmouth, when the boat capsized, and Captain Cousens, of the Coronet, and the second mate of the Calcutta were drowned. The rest of the boat's crew saved their lives by swimming ashore.

The brig Golden Age, of and from Halifax for Porto Rico, was capsized on the 9th ult., in a heavy squall, and all on board were drowned except the second officer, who was rescued by a passing vessel. The brig Nancy, of Halifax, bound to the same place, was capsized last August while lying to in a gale, four days after leaving port, and all hands perished except the second officer and his brother, who were rescued and brought to this port by the ship Eliza.

Coroners' Inquests.

Death of a Female Spiritualist.—Supposed Suicide.—Mrs. Evans, a widow lady, residing at No. 16 Cottage-place, died very suddenly yesterday afternoon, and, from the circumstances of the case, it is supposed that her death was the result of suicide from taking poison. The deceased was a strong believer in Spiritualism, and was a constant attendant at numerous Spiritual circles in the City. Recently, her mind has been unusually agitated on the subject, and she has repeatedly expressed a desire to be freed from the cares and disquietudes of earthly life, and manifested a longing wish to go to the spirit-world. On one or two occasions she has threatened to take her life. On Monday morning she took a walk in Broadway, and made several calls, and appeared to be in her usual health. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon she died. It is understood that the Coroner will make an investigation in the case to-day. The deceased resided with her daughter and son-in-law.

Death at the Shakespeare Hotel.—A German, known only by the name of Professor [illegible], was found yesterday morning dead in his room at the Shakespeare Hotel. Coroner Hills held an inquest on the body, and it was shown that the deceased had been staying at the hotel several days, and had complained of being unwell. The Jury rendered a verdict of "Death by Phthisis Pulmonalis." Deceased was about 45 years of age, but no particulars of him are known.

Child Run Over and Killed.—Coroner Connery held an inquest yesterday at No. 368 Water-street upon the body of Thos. [illegible], a boy four years of age, who was run over by a flour wagon on the corner of Perry and Pine streets, and crushed to death. The occurrence was proven to be accidental, and a verdict was rendered accordingly.

Quarantine.—The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the Board of Richmond County Supervisors, on the 18th inst.:

Whereas, The Quarantine establishment has been for more than fifty years located in the town of Castleton, County of Richmond; and during that time the inhabitants have made several efforts to have said establishment removed therefrom; and

Whereas, During the present year, an effort was made by our inhabitants to have said establishment removed from the County, but instead of such removal being made from the County, an attempt has been made by those in authority to remove said establishment from its present location to Princess Bay, in the [illegible] said County; therefore, [illegible] attempt was made against the expressed will of a very large majority of the inhabitants of this County.

Resolved, That said establishment ought to be removed; and when removed, it should be wholly and entirely removed from the County.

LONG ISLAND.

Bold Robbery.—Yesterday morning the Southern Shades, kept by David Eastgate, on Hicks-street, between Atlantic and Pacific, Brooklyn, was robbed of a small trunk containing $221 50 in gold, $214 in bills and silver, a note for $1,200, bond for house and lot, and an insurance policy. The supposed thief has been in the habit of visiting the place about 10 A. M. every day for several weeks past. Yesterday morning another person came in about the same time, and while he occupied the attention of the person in attendance, the old visitor stepped off with the box of property which was behind the bar.

Cool.—We understand that four of the Police Captains in Brooklyn have been urged to resign by one of the Police Commissioners, and to accept of positions in the ranks. These officers were among the first to give in their adherence to the new law, and have the reputation of being as efficient officers as any in the service.

An Owner Found.—The trunk of dry goods recovered by Officers Byrnes and Pates, of the Third Precinct, Brooklyn, on Saturday night last, it has been ascertained was the result of the robbery of the store of F. Davis, of Troy, on the night of the 15th inst. A reward of $200 was offered for the recovery of the goods.

The Policy Shopkeepers.—Peter Jenkins and F. Johnson, Jr., arrested yesterday for keeping policy shops, the first in Dougherty-street and the last in Jones-street, by the Police of the First Precinct, Brooklyn, were both taken before Justice Cornwell and held to bail in the sum of $1,000 each to await their trial.

A Swindler.—A man, who represented that he was a farmer and had a canal boat of produce on the way to Brooklyn, succeeded on Monday last in swindling a number of traders and hotel-keepers in the vicinity of Fulton Ferry, out of a considerable sum of money.

☞ Wm. H. Campbell, Esq., Clerk of the Supreme Court in Kings County, on Friday last, administered the oath of office to John A. Lott, Esq., elected Judge of the Supreme Court in Second Judicial District at the last election.

☞ The office-holders under the present Administration, in Kings County, have adopted resolutions indorsing the Kansas policy of Mr. Buchanan.

Foundling.—A child, six weeks old, was left Monday night on the steps of house No. 266 Sackett-street, Brooklyn. It was handed over to the Superintendent of the Poor.

Robbing a Dentist.—On Monday a man applied to Mr. Van Antwerp, dentist, No. 96 Court-street, to have some work done, and as he left the premises took away clothing valued at $50.

KINGS COUNTY COURT OF SESSIONS—Before Judge Morris and Justices Emmons and [illegible].

The Grand Jury came into this Court this morning, presented twenty-five indictments, and made the following presentment:

Brooklyn, December, 1857.

The Grand Inquest of the November Term of the Court of Sessions in and for the County of Kings present as follows:

That during their protracted term, they have devoted themselves to a careful examination of the several cases presented for their investigation, with a full knowledge of the responsibility which devolved upon them, and in closing their labors desire to call the attention of the Court to some matters which they believe are of public importance, and to a considerable extent susceptible of being remedied. A large number, probably a majority of the cases on the Calendar, were for assault and battery—many of which still remain without being examined, consequent upon inability of the proper officer to procure the attendance of complainants and witnesses; many of whom, no doubt, are deterred from further proceedings, on account of the loss of time or other annoyances and delays of attending Court from day to day, without any certainty as to when their presence may be required. Observation has satisfied the Grand Inquest that a legislative enactment should be sought for giving summary jurisdiction to the Justices in all ordinary cases of the character referred to, instead of permitting persons charged, as at present, to waive preliminary examinations, and give bail to appear before the Grand Jury—a course which is fraught with consequences not confined to the parties at issue, but which also involves a serious expense to the city and county for fees to Constables and officials, in subpœnaing witnesses, etc.

Another objectionable feature of these numerous cases has been urged upon our attention, and is so capable of being remedied, that we trust it may be speedily obviated—namely, the facility with which warrants in cross complaints are obtained from the Justices holding Courts in the basement of the City Hall. There is too much reason to believe that the litigants are frequently instigated by the attachés or hangers-on of one or other of the Court-rooms, and the contiguity of said Courts affords facilities for designing persons to so advise the ignorant or vindictive; the motive of such advice being, we are informed, to enable the parties giving it to collect fees for individual services, which sometimes exceed in amount one hundred dollars a month from the public Treasury. If this be true it can scarcely be possible that the Common Council fail, after having the evil brought under their notice, to procure a Court-room in some other building, and at a reasonable distance from the City Hall, where the Civil Justices' Court shall in future be held. As we are advised that it is necessary and proper for the public convenience that the Police Justice should be located as at present, such a separation of the Courts would remedy, it is believed, to some extent, the existing evil.

Another matter portending in the future a character for our city not less unenviable than that of our neighbor New-York, is the fearful prevalence among a certain class of the juvenile population of not only petit but grand larceny, which is fostered and encouraged by junk dealers.

Parents are frequently reproached for neglecting the moral training of their children, when no doubt some of the deficiencies might be traced elsewhere. Boys seemingly well cared for have appeared before the Grand Inquest, detailing their connection with cases of theft, in which they have not received for the stolen property a consideration equivalent to three cents on the dollar of its value, and which has been spent by them in sweetmeats or other childish gratifications. We would, therefore, respectfully urge upon the Court the exercise of the utmost authority at its disposal to punish and exterminate dishonest junk dealers; they are a pestiferous evil which threatens destruction to a large portion of the rising, and affords to the most vicious of the adult population facilities to dispose of the proceeds of their depredations.

Our attention has been called to a dangerous and long existing nuisance on Fulton-avenue, near Red Hook Lane, where the rails of the City Railroad cars encroach so much on the sidewalk, as to make the thoroughfare dangerous to all passers by. It is to be hoped that so glaring and hazardous a public nuisance will forthwith be remedied; as it is understood that no legal or financial obstacles now exist, to embarrass or delay the action of the city authorities, in removing the obstructions complained of, and widening the thoroughfare.

Availing ourselves of the opportunity, incident to the discharge of our duties, to visit the various County buildings and judge of their general condition, (so far as a cursory view would permit) we have found them—with the exception of the County jail, in which there is room for improvement on the score of cleanliness—to be generally in a satisfactory state.

JOHN F. HENNESSY, Foreman.

H. S. Sabin, Clerk.

The Grand Jury were then discharged.

Suicides.

Burr Whiteman, formerly of Buffalo, blew out his brains with a gun, in Cattaraugus County, a few days ago. Cause—domestic troubles.

Miss Frances M. Farnum, 21 years old, threw herself into a mill-race in Genesee County last week. Cause—religious excitement.

Tuesday, Dec. 22—P. M.

The Money Market is easy, the rates of Exchange firm, and the export demand for Gold large to-day. The Specie accumulation in Bank facilitates the remittance of all sums collected for the other side or likely to come in with the New-Year, and the rate of discount in England being still relatively high, the preference is shown for shorts sight bills or Gold itself. The shipment by the Europa counts up, informally, $1,850,000 this afternoon, and the probability is that some small parcels not known to the Bullion Brokers may raise the sum total above two million dollars. The State of Alabama, through the agency of the Merchants' Bank, sends forward $500,000 in Gold Coin on account of the principal of her public debt due at the Union Bank of London in January. The Bank of Commerce sends $250,000 against the exchange drawings of the Bank. Choice 60-day bills sold to-day at 109¼@109¾; Sight bills 111¼@111¾. The Continental rates were quite irregular, merchant bills on France at 5.35@5.25⅝; bankers' 5.25@5.18¾ at 60 days, and 5.15@5.11¼ sight. Very little done on the North of Europe. The Sub-Treasury received to-day $157,969; paid out $131,570, and held at the close $3,915,806. The Customs included in the receipts were $52,000.

It is intimated to-day in well advised quarters that the Secretary of the Treasury may possibly yield to 3.65 ℔ cent. ℔ annum (equal to one cent a day on the $100) interest on the first $6,000,000 Treasury Notes. He would prefer 3 ℔ cent., and has been advised that this rate or less would command the money; but to settle the struggle made for a higher rate by other influential parties, and at the same time to render the calculation of interest perfectly easy, this change of purpose is not improbable. The difference to the Government on $6,000,000 will be $39,000 per annum.

The Metropolitan Bank to-day declared its usual half-yearly dividend of 4 ℔ cent., payable on Monday, Jan. 4. The Tradesmen's Bank pays 4 ℔ cent. half-yearly dividend on Jan. 2. The Commonwealth Insurance Company 5 ℔ cent. on Jan. 2. The Emigrant Savings interest is to be paid on 18th January, at the rate of 6 ℔ cent. ℔ annum on sums under $500, and 5 ℔ cent. on larger deposits.

There was a strong disposition at the opening of the early session of the Brokers, to sell the market down, but the demand for stocks, at the decline, became quite animated as the business of the day progressed, and at the close this afternoon, prices had nearly recovered to the last quotations of Monday. Erie from 17 in the morning sold up to 17¾, and left off 17¾@18; New-York Central, after selling at 74, recovered to 75, and other active Road stocks in proportion. State stocks were barely supported, and some of the Railway bonds sold ½@1 ℔ cent. below yesterday's prices. The whole market, however, closed firm.

In his explanations to the House of Commons on the Bank of England Indemnity Bill, the English Chancellor of the Exchequer stated that the Bank-Note Circulation of the United Kingdom in the hands of the public stood in October, as

Issued by Bank of England	$98,860,000
By the Provincial Banks	89,525,000
Total Circulation Great Britain	$188,385,000
Same time Bank of France	121,070,000
Same time Banks of United States	148,929,000

The Gross Issues of the Banks in the United States on the last Treasury return were..$214,778,000

Less Notes in hands of the Banks........65,849,000

Leaving in hands of the public........$148,929,000

In regard to the source of trouble on the late panic, the Chancellor comes to the same conclusion with our Secretary of the Treasury, that it was in the excess of private credits inscribed at bank, deposits on the one hand, and bills discounted or other accommodations granted on the other. The Chancellor instances the Western bank failure at Glasgow, as occurring without the slightest premonition to or from the Noteholders, who neither knew of the run on the bank, nor showed the slightest concern for the safety of its Notes, until the mischief had been done through the alarm of the depositors. In like manner Secretary Cobb shows that the Bank suspension in New-York was the work of the depositors. The fact seems to be that there was and is no real excess of Bank-note Currency in either country, and as a general rule, the basis of its security is equally sound in both. The variety of State interests here, subjects the American Circulation to more contingencies, but the evidences of abuses are not found in the relative magnitude of the gross issue, or the relative security in Specie and Public Stocks.

The Committee appointed at a meeting of New-York Stockholders of the Central Railroad Company, appointed at the meeting held here on the 28th of November, have issued a pamphlet report of their proceedings,—giving the history of the election at Albany, and concluding with the following suggestions:

"The ready exhibit of the accounts of the Company to stockholders, your Committee regard as alike wise and necessary, and they learn that these are kept with systematic regularity; but practical stockholders well know that few, if any, give the time to examine and comprehend these, so as to learn their essence. It can only be done through a Committee of Stockholders, regularly organized, with accountants paid through such Committee, and your meeting at Albany appointed such. Stockholders must need give all necessary power to President and Directors, so as to manage such a property and to work it; the concentration of ample power is essential; but annual accountability should be kept up between stockholders and their managers, or else dwarfed credit alike to stock and bonds, as in the past three years, is an inevitable result. Your Committee, acting in the spirit of your meetings, and with the design to infuse new elements into the Board of Directors, and secure the adoption of certain principles in the management of your property, rather than to revolutionize your managers, did not aim to secure a majority of proxies, but to show, by a respectable vote, that change in principles was essential. They regretfully add that the admonition was unheeded and disregarded by those controlling the mass of proxies voted on. Your Committee leave the whole matter in your hands, with the simple recommendation that outstanding and extant proxies, applicable to future elections, should be abrogated and annulled by those who have given them."

The value of the exports of the leading articles of Domestic Produce and Miscellaneous Goods, during the week ending to-day, is $1,232,760, against $1,878,200 the corresponding week of last year.

Money Circulars for Europe.

TRANSLATED EXTRACT OF DECOPPET & CO.'S CIRCULAR.

New-York, Tuesday, Dec. 22, 1857.

Since our last advices of 14th instant, the domestic Exchanges have remained undisturbed by the resumption of Specie payments by the Banks of the State of New-York and others. According to to-day's report, those of New-York City hold a Specie reserve of $27,937,227. This amount is the largest ever yet held by them, and proves that spite the large exportation of Specie, the current which has set towards New-York has exceeded it. There has been somewhat more activity in the Stock Exchange through the past week—the amount of transactions is larger, and prices generally have rather advanced, particularly State Stock. To-day, after receding somewhat, they close steady. Side by side with this slight recovery in Stocks, which may still be attributed to the difficulty in safely employing floating capital in the ordinary channels of trade, uneasiness and discouragement prevail. In mercantile affairs—particularly in Dry Goods—hardly anything is doing, and forced liquidations continued to take place, resulting often in suspensions or in open failures. Add to this the disastrous news from Hamburg, affecting more or less directly our commerce, which the Southampton steamer of the 9th instant has just brought us, and this feeling is easily explained. State Stocks have been active, particularly Missouri 6s, which have risen 2¼; Virginia 6s, 2; Tennessee 6s, ¾; and North Carolina 6s, 2¼; New-York 5s and 6s have also advanced. They are quoted to-day ex interest. City and County Bonds remain almost without movement. Some Albany 6s were done at from 97½@98; as also a few Milwaukee 7s, (Municipal) at from 73½@74. Railroad Bonds—The business of the week comprises a great variety of those dealt in at the Stock Exchange, without any striking transactions to notice. Rather limited sales of Illinois Central Constructions took place, closing at last week's prices. Erie 7s of 1871 were done in moderate sums, closing at 36@37 after touching 39; those of 1875 have risen ¼, and those of 1883 declined ½. There was a moderate activity in Michigan Central 1st mort. at well-sustained prices, and in Galena and Chicago 2d mort. at a rise of 1½ ℔ cent. For Railroad Shares the rise has been pretty general until to-day when some reaction took place; the activity was pretty well sustained. The chief transactions were in Erie at an advance of 1½; in New York Central of ¾; in Reading of 1; in Chicago and Rock Island of ½; in Cleveland and Toledo at a decline of ¼; in Michigan Southern of ¼, closing at 20, after having touched 22¾. With some little activity Delaware and Hudson and Pennsylvania Coal advanced 6½ and 8½ respectively. Foreign Exchanges are very irregular. London from 108½@109¼, and Paris 522½@520.

Per Europa.] New-York, Tuesday, Dec. 22, 1857.

Since our advices of the 14th inst., the Stock market has experienced a slight advance on most of the list, but the amount of business transacted, although somewhat larger than last week, is still very restricted. The advices from Europe, which are up to the 9th inst., continue to report numerous failures in England, and especially in Germany, and give a temporary check to the mutual tendency of affairs towards improvement. But the continued want of employment for capital, and the unprecedented accumulation of $27,937,227 in specie in our Banks, prevent the state of affairs abroad from exercising the same influence over our market that it would be likely to do in ordinary times. To-day the prices are rather heavy. The Senate of the United States has just passed the bill authorizing the issue, to the extent of $20,000,000 of Treasury notes, redeemable in one year, or at sixty days' notice thereafter. The notes cannot be less than $100, and cannot be issued after Jan. 1, 1867: $6,000,000 will be issued at once, at a rate of interest to be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, but, in no event, higher than 6 ℔ cent. The remaining $14,000,000 are to be sold at par, to the bidders who may offer to exchange them for specie, at the lowest rate of interest. The House will, no doubt, pass the bill without delay. State Stocks have advanced, particularly Missouris. Virginias have advanced 2¾; Missouri 2¾; Tennessee no change; Indiana 2½@2; sales of North Carolina, at 80; Louisiana, at 86½; Michigan, 94; New-York State 6s, 1872-74, at 109@109½; United States 6s., 1867, at 112@110 ex-interest. City and County Bonds—Small sales have been made in Albany 6s. at 3 ℔ cent. decline; Sacramento 10s at widely irregular rates; Brooklyn 6s, St. Louis 6s, Detroit 7s, 1864, at 76. Railroad Bonds have advanced, especially the various Erie 7s. Chief sales confined to Illinois Central and Erie Bonds and Michigan Central 1st mortgages; Erie 3d mortgages have risen 1 ℔ cent.; do. 1875, 2¼; do. 1871, 5½. Railroad Shares advanced until yesterday, when a slight downward movement was felt. Principal sales in Erie, Reading and Toledo. Sales of the week not active. Money without change since our last advices. Exchanges firm; sales small, confined to first-class bills. London, 109½@109¾; Paris, 5.22½@5.18¾.

Per Europa.] New-York, Tuesday, Dec. 22, 1857.

The only important event that has occurred in this market since the issue of our last report of the 8th inst., is the resumption of specie payments by the Banks in this City, on the 12th inst., which was immediately followed by that of the other Banks in the State of New-York, and of most of those in New-England. As, notwithstanding the large remittances of specie to Europe, gold for some days previous had commanded merely a nominal premium, the movement, although adopted without previous notice, and at an earlier moment than was generally anticipated, has not been attended by any adverse change in the aspect of money matters or other unfavorable consequences. Its only perceptible effect was a temporary slight decline in exchange on Philadelphia and Baltimore, and other non-specie-paying points. It is expected that all the other suspended banks will resume on or before 1st April next, the time fixed by the Legislature of Pennsylvania for resumption in that State. In the Stock Market we have no important change to notice; the transactions during the fortnight have been small, and the fluctuations generally unimportant. In State Stocks the principal business has been in Missouri 6s, at 78½@77@80; Virginia 6s, at 88½@87@90@89½; and Tennessee 6s, at 84½@83½@84; of other descriptions the sales have been moderate. The closing prices show an advance during the fortnight of 2 ℔ cent. in Virginia; 1 in Missouri; 2 in North Carolina; and 1 in Louisiana 6s. In United States Loans transactions are very limited. Small sales of 6s, 1867, at 112@110. Of Railroad Bonds, the most active are Illinois Central Construction and Michigan Central Bonds, new issue; of the former there have been sales to a moderate extent, at 81½@87@85, and of the latter, at 83½@82½@84@83½. New-York Central 6s have been sold at 81@84, and 7s at 96; Erie 3d mortgage at 69@68; 2d mortgage at 67½@70@68½; 1875s at 39@42½; and 1871s at 31½@40@39; Michigan Southern Sinking Fund at 61@65; Northern Indiana 1st mortgage at 75, and Goshen Branch at 62½@66; Hudson River 2d mortgage at 85, and 3d mortgage at 54@53½; New-York and New-Haven, 1860, at 79½@80, and 1865s at 85; Harlem first mortgage at 66@64½@67, and second mortgage at 58@55; Galena and Chicago 1st mortgage at 90, and 2d mortgage at [illegible]; Terre Haute and Alton 1st mortgage at [illegible], and 2d mortgage at 50@43; Toledo, Wabash and Western 1st mortgage at 45, and Illinois Central Freeland, without privilege, at 84½. Of the new Reading Railroad 2d mortgage Bonds, which are issued by the Company at 70 in payment of the floating debt, there have been small sales at 66. The $1,500,000 of 2d mortgage bonds of the Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad, offered to the holders of common stock, payable 70 ℔ cent. in stock and 30 ℔ cent. in cash, have been taken. The subscriptions from the holders of guaranteed stock, to whom another $1,000,000 are offered, payable 80 ℔ cent. in stock and 20 in cash, are about $300,000.

Of Railroad Shares, the closing quotations do not, in any case, vary materially from our last, and the market is steady at the close. The Little Miami and Columbus and Xenia Railroad Companies have each declared a dividend of 5 ℔ cent. for the last six months, payable in January.

Of money, there is still an abundant supply at 5@6 ℔ cent. on call, and for discount of first-class paper at 6@10 ℔ cent. Second class names are difficult of sale at 12@24 ℔ cent.

For Foreign Exchanges the market is not active. London and Paris are steady, the former at a slight advance upon our last quotations. The supply of first-class bills is not large, but the demand is also limited—a large proportion of the remittances being made in gold.
